SEEN ON THE CAMPUS.

Ed Steeves rescuing a picture of Margaret McKay from the Cornhusker staff... Elizabeth Neely traversing the brick walk between U hall and 13th st. in record time... Bob Newsome taking abrupt leave of Mary Kinsey under the clock in Sosh... Fred Gunn's loud blue and white checkered gloves... Aaron Finklestein ardently upholding his side of the issue all the way out of his Pol. Sci. class... Woody Martin's friends retelling the Thanksgiving morning incident when he woke up murmuring "that's all right, I'll just catch the noon balloon for St. Joe"... Eleanor Elche's attractive blue and grey sweater of the home knit variety... Ruth Talmeh and Ben Rimmerman lunching in the Toasty... also Louise Magee and Phil Ogan and Eileen Donley and Doug Dort... Don Moss carrying an armload of folded chairs thru the Nebraska office... Margaret Werner in gales of laughter over summer vacation snapshots just developed... Don Glass and Phil Romig throwing the A. T. O. house into a turmoil squabbling over a room furniture swap... and not too much joy over six weeks exams coming up.

SEEN ON THE AG CAMPUS.

By DeLoris Bors.
Prof. Darlington hoping that some nice lil' home ec girl would make him a pumpkin pie... You've heard of Santa leaving things, but Phyllis Robinson was left a '31 Studebaker by a turkey on Thanksgiving day... It was reported that the grain judging team placed in the national meet at Chicago last week... Lois Cooper always erect with chin up—that's the life for a sponsor this week... A lovely Greek statue in ag hall married by Max Factor's makeup on her face (no advertisement)... Students making plans for Xmas vacation... Ann Soukup already out riding with Frances Wrieth at eight Monday morning... In reply to inquiry about his vacation, all Melvin Glantz muttered was that he had a hard cold and couldn't be bothered about anything... Marian Hoppert spending her vacation somewhere in Minnesota covering all the night clubs... Wonder if Earl Heady is enjoying the A. G. R. convention at Chicago this week?... Walter Plim in English with that far away look in his eye suggesting fond memories of roast turkey and pumpkin pie... Thomas Brinegar hoping Xmas vacation will be as wonderful as

ARCHITECTURE DEPT. SHOWS ART DISPLAY

Thirty of Best Drawings of University Students Exhibited.

Thirty of the finest drawings by students in American universities and colleges are on display this week in the rooms of the department of architecture in a traveling exhibit sent by the National Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture. The drawings show the modern trend in architecture especially along the lines of glass brick and concrete buildings. Among the interesting works of the collection are the plans of "A University," "A Yacht Club," "A Casino Beach Club," "Air Terminal," "Artists' Colony," and "A Zoo." One of the most exceptional drawings is one of a "Japanese House," drawn on a Chinese wall panel in Chinese ink. Among the universities that are represented by their architectural designs are Notre Dame, University of Southern California, University of Texas, Alabama Polytechnical Institute, New York University, Yale, University of Minnesota, University of Illinois, and Cincinnati Tech.

Preview of Military Ball Gowns Reveals Gala Array of Formals In Readiness for Season's Opener

Barbara Rosewater.
The line-up of lovely gowns for the fashion parade at the Military Ball is rapidly forming. In readiness for the grand entrance into the coliseum Friday night. Taffetas, satins, velvets, moires, and brocades rustle into place in coed's closets.
Alpha Phi Beauty Queen Carolyn Skans will appear in vivid red velvet, shirred from waist to shoulders and caught with brilliant clips at the throat. Completing the costume, Miss Skans will wear red and silver sandals and a black velvet wrap with a white fur collar.
Virginia Hyatt, Gamma Phi Beta, chooses black net, embroidered with silver daisies, to wear at the Ball. Made with cap sleeves and a peplum, the dress is accented by a gay green velvet sash and matching velvet bow at the neck.
Miss McDowell in Silver.
Bright blue crepe shot with silver metallic and trimmed with red velvet is the gown selected by Virginia McDowell, Alpha Delta Theta. In the halter neck style, the formal is fitted to the waist, and flared to the floor. Accessories are silver.
Tri Delt Betty Van Horne will wear a gown of antique gold velvet, with a short train. The dress is fitted and sleeveless with a short matching velvet cape. Bronze clips will accent the draped neck, and bronze will be
