Texas Rams Payoff Plan Down Dana X.

By Ed Steeves.

After eight years at Nebraska strictly opposed to "athletic aims," Coach D. X. Bible is being forced to "broaden" his mind a little on opposed to subsidization.

Not intending to appear too dis-agreeable, the little bald man has proposed his own plan of milder payment of athietes; one that appeases the desires of the school and one that soothes his own conscience

We learn from the "Daily Texan" (The first college daily in the south) that the ex-students' council heartily endorses the little colonel's athletic proposals. The conclave, however, with D. X. presiding, persisted thruout the day last Saturday. In the end, former grid prof had them all in the aisles shouting "hear. hear" and other such gutterals of acclaim.

His plan runs approximately as follows: (a), employment to each "worthy athlete," (b), pay would be 50c per hour, (c), athletes, "worthy athletes" would work sixty minutes per hour.

By this propesal we are glad to see that Eible has not forgotten what he taught us about the up and up. The same is true of the Sooners, who have scalped Nebraska once this season by three points. In two engagements during the past week, Coach McDermott's men won a listless battle from Missouri to stay on the second rung, but dropped one to the Oklahoma Aggies. Previously in the season the Sooners snared a victory from the A. & M. Against the Tigers, Oklahoma rallied in the last minutes of the game after myriads of badly flung passes and shots. Gunning, hot shot of the team, has been suffering some of the same ill effects as Parsons in recent wars.
