

Shucks

By Bruce Campbell.

Sam Francis evidently is still torn between pro football and business as a choice for the future, judging from his stopover in Chicago while enroute to New York to compete in the national A. A. U. indoor track and field championships. During his stop in the Windy City Thursday, Sam had a long talk with George Haia, owner of the Chicago Bears. The Bears have option on Sam and have been trying by hook, crook and salary inducements to persuade Sam to join their ranks, but so far their efforts have been futile.

The Nebraska southpaw has been as close-mouthed as a peralmon eater and stoutly refuses to say yes, no, or maybe. Sam's exact remarks concerning his tete-a-tete with monsieur Haia Thursday are:

"I haven't decided yet whether I want to play pro ball."

The peerless punter and putter of shots said that he did not talk turkey nor terms with Haia.

B HOOPSTERS TAKE YORK 39-26; AFTER HALF TIME DEADLOCK

Elliott Togs Husker Scoring as Basket Boys Swing Into Lead.

Tied 21 all at the intermission, the Nebraska B team came back to easily down York college, 39-26, on the ag campus court last night. The score was tied 6 times during the first half of the game, which was speeded considerably by the elimination of the center jump. Elliott led the Husker scoring with 10 points. Saindon with 12 points and some excellent floor work was outstanding for York.

Coach Neal Gallant's barricaders made only five counters the entire first half. Both teams had trouble in connecting with the basket. Nebraska missing 13 free throws.

Summary:

Brownemen Face Last Try for Title

HUSKERS BATTLE JAYS IN LINCOLN SATURDAY NIGHT

Records of Scores Show Both Teams Are Nearly Equal in Ability.

Tomorrow night Nebraska and Kansas bucketeers will tussle for the flowered laurels of the Big Six championship. Kansas, to whom a win here at Lincoln would spell the conference throne, is weakened by three injured regulars.

In the process of stifling the Oklahoma Sooners, Ray Noble, Roy Holliday and Al Wellhausen sustained minor hurts. Holliday and Wellhausen were still limping on swollen ankles in Wednesday's workouts.

Kansas heads the conference half dozen with only one loss on the current state and that to Kansas State in an extra period fray. Twice this season the Huskers have eked out the Wildcats in close games. Nebraska is in an indefinite second rank with two defeats on her shield, one to Oklahoma and one to Kansas.

Second Battle for Crown.
Saturday's game will be the second time since Coach Browne came to the Nebraska fold that the Huskers have vied with the Jayhawks for the conference crown. Last year the Jays won decisively with one of the finest exhibitions of collegiate basketball ever seen here. Later in the season both Nebraska and Kansas journeyed to the Olympic tryouts in Madison Square Garden.

By comparative scores the two teams look like a pair of peas in the pod, but general opinion favors the invaders with a slight edge. Members of the Nebraska quintet have pointed for this game for the past several weeks and at this point appear keyed to the limit.

Of last year's regulars, Nebraska is playing only two, Ebaugh and Parsons. Ebaugh, junior center, will have plenty of trouble with the tip against the 6 foot 7 inch pivot man of the Jays. The Hawker string bean skipped a year of competition as did the Huskers' Harry Sorenson, and thus did not play last year.

Comparative Lineups.
Rogers, senior from Arkansas City, is high scoring forward of the squad and is second shortest man in the outfit, although he is 6 feet 1 inch. Parsons has drawn Rogers as a special assignment.

The other Mt. Oread forward post is patrolled by Holliday, a last year's sub. Holliday is a consistent scorer and a strong defensive man.

Guard berths are under the hands of Fred Pralle, 6 feet 2 inches, and Ray Noble of the same height. Both are regulars, thus bringing the total of last year's Kansas regulars to three. A summary of these Jay starters show a decided height advantage over the Huskers. In the back courts, however, Parsons and Sorenson stand well up to heads of their opposing guards.

Nebraska's favorite, E. C. Quigley will officiate in the capacity of referee in the last home game of the Nebraska schedule. The Huskers have one more game and that with the bottom-ranking Iowa Staters. Kansas has only one with Missouri. Only by straight wins for the Huskers and straight losses for the Jays, can the Scarlet squeeze into the throne with sole rights. One Husker defeat puts them back into a second rate tie with the fading Sooners.

Tipoff is at 8 p. m.
Probable lineup:
Nebraska—
Ebaugh Rogers
Ames Holliday
Ebaugh Wellhausen
Parsons Noble
Sorenson Pralle

SWIMMERS TO COMPETE AGAINST CYCLONES HERE

Iowa State Tankmen Arrive For Meet in Coliseum Pool Saturday.

From Ames, the Iowa State mermen, Big Six swimming champions with Nebraska, come here for a dual tomorrow afternoon against Coach Jack Minor's tanksters. Last week the Huskers dunked Kansas State, 63-12, while the Cyclones belted their name by taking a two-week rest.

Altho the Minormen have an imposing array of talent ready to face competition, the Iowa Staters have an equally remarkable personnel in James Noland, sophomore back stroker; George Haden, sophomore dash man, and Capt. Robert Burket and Robert Wempe, lettermen in the free style events.

KAGGIE CINDERMEN FACE CORNHUSKERS IN DUAL TOMORROW

Francis Not to Compete in Fray; Left Wednesday For New York.

Coach Ward Haylett's K-Aggie indoor trackmen are scheduled to entertain the Huskers tomorrow afternoon at 2 under the east stadium. Inspired by their 79-2-3 to 24 1-3 win last Saturday over Kansas the Nebraskans are keyed to high pitch for this battle despite the fact that the Manhattan lads dropped a 63 to 41 battle to Missouri the same day.

Nebraska will be minus the shot putting services of Sam Francis, who left Wednesday night for the national A. A. U. indoor track and field show at New York this coming Saturday. However, Sam's throw of 51 feet 5 1-2 inches, earned in the Jayhawk fight, will stand as his best attempt in the Kansas State battle.

Probable Cornhusker lineup:
60 yard dash: Fischer, Plock, Kovanda, Cardwell.
60 yard high hurdles: Gish, Aden, Frank, Cardwell.
60 yard low hurdles: Gish, Aden, Frank, Cardwell.
440 yard dash: Pankonin, Morris, Allen, Brownlee.

550 yard run: West, Owens, Kaper, Mile, Koch, Andrews, Matteson.
Two mile: Andrews, Matteson, Hendon.
Mile relay: Any one who is ready to go.
Shot: Mills, Shirey.
Pole vault: Aubrey, Neumann.
Broad jump: Neumann, Carakew.
Varnoise.
High jump: Baxter, Root, Maxey.
