DR. ORR PRESCRIBES STUDY FOR SUCCESS

Prominent Physician Tells Leading to Fame.

Qualities and factors contributworld's most famous physicians was the subject of the address delivered by Dr. H. Winnett Orr, president of the American Orthopedic association, to the Nu-Meds at the Grand hotel Wednesday

"It seems strange," Dr. Orr declared, "that the success of these famous men cannot be attributed to the ordinary things that we think of as the standard qualities for such attainment. In fact only twelve per cent of these men were brought up in 'most favorable conditions.' Special opportunities for study, travel, and work at other universities seems to have played the greatest part in their preparation for greatness."

Ambroise Pare, French military surgeon; John Hunter, celebrated English teacher and founder of the Anatomical Museum in London; and John Joseph Lister, the English doctor who introduced the use of antiseptics in surgery, were Orr's outstanding examples. MUSIC STUDENTS OFFER VOCAL, PIANO PROGRAM

Five Persons Render Works of Chopin, Bizet, Ravel, Lehman, Brahms.

Convocation goers at the Temple theater yesterday afternoon heard five students of the school of music in a recital composed of the works of Chopin, Brahms, Bizet, Lehman, and Ravel.

Miss Dreamer, piane instructor, presented her pupil Wilma Stutt who offered "Valse in A Flat Ma-jor," by Chopin. Vee Louise Mar-shall, who is studying under Mr. Schmidt played Brahms' "Ra sody in B Minor," Op. 79, No. 1.

Presenting a vocal selection composed by Bizet, Clare Hallet sang for the audience "La Fille de Cadiz." Clare Hallet is a pupil of Mrs. Gutzmer. Lehman's "Ah, Morn of My Delight" constituted the other vocal number of the recital when it was presented by Frederic Wilson, who is studying roice under Mr. Witte. The final recital selection was a piano composition of Ravel, "Play of the Waters," which was presented by Janet Olson, piano student of Miss Klinker.
