SEEN ON THE CAMPUS.

Ward Powell reads the ads and avoids spreading colds by using Kleenex; lavender too if you please . . . just when he had it well beaten down, the campus beautifiers planted bushes on Dr. Ginsburg's private walk outside of Andrews . . . willing to admit defeat, Tommy Hicks waved his handkerchief as a white flag of surrender when a Biology teacher roused him from his daily nap . . . Inez Heaney and Floyd Ebaugh standing in line for many long minutes waiting to get into the Lincoln Friday nite . . . most of our native hula dancers are in the amateur class but Jane Alvey has a little extra something acquired from lessons in Hawaii . . . Hokey Weaver playing ministering angel to the boys in the infirmary and punctuating her visits with gifts of milkshakes . . . a Beta named Charles asking for suggestions as to how to make the campus Reilly conscious . . . the wind was too strong for Dorothy Van Patten, it blew her down and she skinned both of her knees; we'd suggest a few more grape-nuts . . . the Alpha Xi Deltas got a surprise the other night when a truck drove up at 12 o'clock and unloaded two twin beds . . . Frances Jones and Speed Jacobsen dancing together at the Sigma Nu party . . .

The first junior class party was held Saturday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:00 at the Cornhusker. All juniors and their guests joined in an afternoon of informal dancing. Bob Wadhams, president of the class, was in charge of arrangements. The present junior class plans to repeat this affair next year.

1937 CORNHUSKER READY FOR PRESS

(Continued from Page 1.) week. Only about 30 volumes remain to be sold, and individuals still desiring to buy an annual should do so this week, Bill Marsh, editor, advised. The current edition of the Nebraska yearbook will receive its final grooming during the week and should be ready for the press by Saturday, Marsh stated. It contains 460 pages as compared to the 391 pages of last year's book. The last 18 pages are devoted to personal index containing the names of all registered students. Behind their names one may find pages in the book on which the particular students have been recognized for various activities. Advertising copy hit a new high for the new Cornhusker, with Sid Baker officiating as business manager. Book sales were handled by members of the Tassel and Corn Cob societies, and members of the immediate staff.

AG STUDENTS REVEAL FARMERS FAIR PLANS

Girls to Ride.

Sorority girls will have a chance to show what they know about horsemanship in the annual Inter-sorority Riding contest which will be held in connection with the Horse show Friday night. Earl Hedlund, manager of the Show, urges "all girls to enter the contest that have had riding experience."

One hundred students will participate in the "Cotton Pickers Revue" and the "Dances on the Green" which will take the place of the pageant which has been presented previously. Elsie Buxam, Goddess of Agriculture, will be enthroned Saturday afternoon and will reign over the Fair program. The "Dances on the Green" will be a series of interpretations of the native dances of the various nationalities represented in the state of Nebraska. "Cotton Pickers Revue" is a new feature of the Fair and will include dances, songs and short skits. It will be presented a 4 o'clock and at 7 o'clock in the Student Activities building.

The new artillery unit installed this year on the Agricultural campus by the R.O.T.C. will be open for inspection during the

Awgwan Seeks Poetry For May Literary Page

Students submitting either serious or humorous poetry for the Literary page of the May Awgwan are asked to bring the copy to the Awgwan office between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock, Monday afternoon. Any students who have short stories to submit are also asked to have the copy in by Monday.

Fair and Junior officers will explain the modern methods of warfare.

An exhibit of photographs and candid camera shots of the Fair preparation and features will be on display and a contest will be held with awards made for the best pictures.

Farmer's Fair Board members in charge of the general arrangements for the Fair are: Clyde White, manager; Elsie Buxam, Frank Svoboda, Darrel Bauder, Elinor McFadden, Pauline Walters, Earl Hedlund, Donna Hiatt, Earl Heady, Melvin Beerman, Marjorie Francis, and Ramona Hilton.
