MISS MORGAN GIVES HOUR POETRY RECITAL AT SUNDAY SERVICE

Honorary Poet Laureate of America to Speak at Unitarian Church.

Angela Morgan, world famous poetry recitalist and honorary Poet Laureate of America, will present an hour recitation of her poems Sunday at the 11 o'clock service in the Unitarian church at 12th and H streets. Unitarian minister, Dr. A. L. Weatherly, extends to University professors and students of English literature, a special invitation to attend this unusual performance.

Miss Morgan, characterized by Edwin Markham as one "afire with the glowing spirit of humanity, whose poems are prophetic, passionate, torrential," is the first woman to have occupied the pulpit of the historic chapel Royal Savoy in England. She was given the honor of reading her poem, "Unknown Soldier," in the rotunda of the capitol as the American unknown hero lay in state.

"American Kipling." Commenting upon her public appearance, the Journal of American Poetry, had this to say: "No one has felt the mighty pulse of America so cleanly and sincerely as she; no one has set it down in such breath-taking vividness as this woman, who has been named the American Kipling. Beauty, grace, and charm combined with a perfect speaking voice and an almost magical power over her audiences make an appearance by Miss Morgan an event of outstanding importance."

Besides being the author of nine volumes of poems including the more famous "The Battle Cry of the Mothers," read by her at The Hague, Holland, and "Lindbergh," the most famous poem written about his flight, Miss Morgan has also created "The Imprisoned Splendor," a book of short stories, and "Awful Rainbow," a novel.

SEEN ON THE CAMPUS.

The coliseum looking like a basketball game Friday night at the Varsity Show with many, many listeners doing an expert job of applauding to direction. Dick Paul arriving late without the regulation songster's garb and returning the second time slightly overshadowed in Al Souders coat. Sorority gals out cheering for their entrants in the horse show and everyone amused during the chair race with some doddering plow hoes. Ward Powell running up to congratulate Marie Christensen after each race and deciding to frame his tie that she was wearing. If you want to know how to make friends and influence people, Ralph Ludwick will gladly refer you to a very helpful book. The Awgwan office has definitely changed character, instead of a transparent glass one; wonder why? Elizabeth Smith boasting about going on a picnic where there was pop, none other than good old fashioned soda pop. The Sig Alph's new president, Bob Thornton, is somewhat of an authority on French and also the intricacies of starting recalcitrant cars but has a hard time convincing anyone of it.

MATH TEACHERS ELECT

Carl Thomas of Chadron To Head Society.

Carl R. Thomas of Chadron was elected president of the recently established Nebraska section of the national council of teachers of mathematics at the first formal meeting of the group Saturday morning in Social Sciences building on the university campus. Other officers elected for the year are: Miss Eva Phalen of Kearney, vice president; Lloyd Cross of Norfolk, secretary, and Miss Ellen Anderson of Lincoln, treasurer. The officers together with Miss Inez Wilson of Curtis and Miss Amanda Anderson of Omaha make up the executive board. Dr. A. R. Congdon of the teachers college faculty of the university, was named the Nebraska representative on the national council of teachers of mathematics. In their meeting Saturday the group agreed that if mathematics is to hold its present place in the high school curriculum it must be revised so that it will function more definitely in the lives of young people. Principal criticism has been that mathematics has been too formal and too theoretical in the past and that the time has come when its practical application must be emphasized.

STUDENT ARCHITECTS SHOW WORK IN TEMPLE

Bacon, Anderson, Eiche Gain First Mentions for Drawings.

Prize winning drawings of "A Railway Station" done by the sophomore class in architecture are being displayed by the department of architecture in the first floor corridors of Temple. First mentions were awarded to George Bacon, Jr., North Platte, Don Anderson, Omaha, and Edward Eiche, Lincoln. Honorable mention was also awarded to Orville Kingery, Lincoln.

Judging of such assigned problems is done by a jury composed of members of the faculty and local architects. After the judgment the students assemble for the critique and the good and bad points of each are pointed out. The project "A Railway Station" specified a drawing of a station suitable for a town of approximately 3,000 persons, the building to be erected on a level site 160 feet by 210 feet, facing a double track on one long side and a minor street on the other. The station was to contain a waiting room, a combined office for the ticket agent and the train dispatcher, a baggage and shipping room, and two lounges.

Organized Houses Honor Mothers at Fetes Today

Alpha Chi Omega's open house for their parents. Sigma Delta Tau is also holding open house for their mothers and have planned an elaborate program honoring them.

Fraternities Also. Many of the fraternities are giving dinners for their mothers today and the following Sunday. The Beta's, as is their custom, honor their mothers on one Sunday and all Beta sisters the following Sunday.

Although campus activities center themselves around teas, dinners, and open houses, as expressions of Mothers day, this holiday was originally created for the purpose of a day of worship of motherhood.

Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia in 1907 formulated the idea of Mothers day and it was through her efforts that Philadelphia in 1908 became the first city in the world to set aside a special day in tribute to mothers. The carnation was made the symbol of Mothers day.

The popularizing of Miss Jarvis' idea led to the adoption of a resolution in congress 23 years ago to set aside the second Sunday in May for a national holiday to honor mothers. The first Mothers day, May 9, 1914, was created by proclamation by President Wilson in which he stated the purpose of Mothers day is to allow a "public expression of our love and reverence for mothers throughout the country."
