AS MARY ANNA SEES IT

The really big affair during Homecoming, the party at the coliseum Saturday night, hasn't had much cooperation from its sponsors, the innocents, if I may be as bold to say so. Just look at a list of the houseparties scheduled, and you might wonder what Bob Maritz, for instance, was doing when the D. U.'s scheduled another of their shindigs. Don Boem and Willard Burney, where were they when their respective house parties were planned? Or don't activity men have to go to meetings any more?

SHOOTING THEIR WADES

The Phi Psi's are really the only fraternity with a perfectly legitimate excuse for entertaining Saturday. This is their sole social event of the season, so they rather have to make the most of it. So far they have plans for a jungle party, but you never can tell about the Phi Psi's.

THESE THETA PLEDGES

Dick Smiley, D. U., and Caroline Harrison, Theta pledge, have decided that there's just nobody else, so from now on don't be surprised to see them together constantly. Virginia Smith, also a freshman, and Paul Wirtz, Sigma Nu, are very much that way about each other. This however, has not gotten to the pin stage again as yet. Lucile Anderson has spent much time with Gale Tate, also Sigma Nu.

Someone has swiped the Phi Delta eagle. Just saw two Beta's who couldn't imagine what had happened to the bird, but I have heard they were planning to do something to their fine neighbors—all in the spirit of good clean fun, of course. Incidentally a Beta has written a long feature story passing the buck on the Phi Psi's, so draw your own conclusions.

ANOTHER PIN ANCHORED

Gerry Wallace has something more to be proud of even than a brand new D. G. anchor. It's a jeweled Sig Alpha sweetheart pin of Don North's that completes her happiness.

HE SAYS IT WITH FLOWERS

Lloyd Dunlap, pledge at the Sig Ep house, could probably show the actives a few tricks in the way of gaining the fair lady's favor. A dozen roses sent to Gladys Trunk, Phi Mu, are evident on his weekly expense account. If he can keep up the pace, the little gal will probably not be looking elsewhere for some time.

CLOSED DOOR TO HIM

The Alpha Phi's have of late reversed their open door policy toward Phi Psi's grad-about Bill Bird. Now he's seeking house at the D. G. domicile. Couldn't tell you the score at present.

AS JOHNNY SEES IT.

Arousing enthusiasm about the campus this week is the scheduled battle of bands at the Homecoming ball next Saturday at the Coliseum. Those who know, say that the bands are about the best in the middlewest and will put on a razz-dazz show for the guys and gals.

Things are beginning to pair pretty well by this time along fraternity and sorority row. A few new ones which are in the bud follow. Jack Gellatly and Dorothy Cain are becoming so, rapidly and the next couple of weeks should see an every weekend stand definitely scheduled. Politician Willy Beezley and Kappa's Pugsley are whipping about more than is safe. A little time should be required on this one before it gets thata-way.

And Wid Burney, pride of Hartington and Pi K.A. puts. Reason: After seven weeks he engineers a fine date with a fine Pi Phi for a fine Sunday evening and what should happen which was not so fine. Burney completely forgot this fine proposition and stayed at home and studied (I hope). A fine mess!

NEWS PARADE

by
Marjorie Churchill

The current business slump may be but the beginning of a general setback, say department of agriculture economists. Furthermore, the slump will probably continue until late next year. Declining prices of securities are said to reflect a loss of business confidence and hesitancy to undertake measures for expansion. Several major industries, notably steel and textile mills, which have been operating on unfilled orders are faced with the problem of an accumulated surplus, with the back orders now filled. Predictions are that the upward slant of national income within the past five years will take a downward plunge. Increased retail prices of commonly used commodities, decreased industrial production, and lower wholesale prices are expected to more than offset any gain thru wage increase.

Where Do We Go From Here?

The international picture presents a dizzying mass of complications on the date of the Brussels conference, British-Japanese diplomatic relations are strained to the breaking point, as Japan accuses Britain of interference in the Sino-Jap war, France and Italy are virtually at each other's heads over the Spanish crisis and Mediterranean communication. Italy's spectacular receding of the Italian ambassador from Paris "comes as a stunning blow to European relations."

The lineup for the Wednesday conference includes Great Britain, France, Belgium, the United States, Portugal and China. Japan, Germany and Italy will be conspicuously absent. Italian circles indicate that Count Ciano, Italian foreign minister and Mussolini's son-in-law, was forbidden to attend the session because a soviet representative would be present.

Colonial uprisings in British and French territory serve to increase bitterness of international feeling. Italy is blamed for anti-British uprisings in Palestine. France does not openly scold Mussolini's agents of instigating rebellion in her African colony of Morocco, but states that she "knows it is being financed by a foreign power."

SINCLAIR LEWIS LAUDS WORKS OF WODEHOUSE

Famed Author Criticizes Own Books' Display of Sentiment.

During a recent visit to the University of Oklahoma campus, Sinclair Lewis, noted novelist, criticized his own books and praised those of P. G. Wodehouse and Maxim Gorki. His own books, Lewis said, "display a rambling sentimentalism of which I disapprove."

Battle of Bands

Louie Kuhn Orchestra.

"Red" Blackburn Band.

"Take off and swing it out." So say Louie Kuhn and Red Blackburn, sensational leaders of the two sensational dance bands that will engage in the "battle of music" Saturday night. Their settings will be the coliseum where the innocents sponsor their annual homecoming party.

Browsing Among The Books

By BERNICE KAUFFMAN.

Just as we were getting reconciled to facing the long winter evenings in the solitary company of the collected works of Eskdale Caldwell and William Faulkner, some prints by Picasso, and a cat named Salome, along comes Harvey Kalish with "Why Not Get Married?" and says that the woman who lives alone and likes it is just plain lazy. Now, there is tight'n' words. A man, either he is not comfortable, can live without a woman, but a woman, according to Mr. Kalish, cannot live if she is to remain unattached, without a man. For her, emotional expression is an absolute necessity. As a result of the machine age men have become shy; thus it is the duty of the women to do the pursuing, as success means more to them. Disgrace, however, lies not in the failure to bag a man, but in the non-attempt to do so.

The greater part of "Why Not Get Married?" which is addressed solely to women, is devoted to the technique of the hunt. Do not seek men where there is a preponderance of other women. Track them down in their native haunts—political and sporting clubs particularly. Wear bright colors, red preferably. Men, like bulls, charge when they see red. When it is a man, however, you do not jump the fence. If you work in his office do not become a "mistress," assume the role of his-a-brac.

Don't Invade Office. Otherwise never invade a man's office. It is the one place where he demands privacy. Never let a man know that you are college bred, but if he does, pretend that it did not take. He is not interested in your interpretation of Kant's theory of aesthetics. If he shows a desire for a wife who can cook, by all means attend cooking school. It may mean burnt fingers and the ruin of your manicure, but bringing them back alive was no fun for Buck either.

The main difficulty lies in the fact that most of the pointers given by Mr. Kalish are slightly old, and that all of them are terribly abstract. For instance, he merely makes the suggestion that, in company with a likely prospect, you should walk "to see the changing leaves, or flowers, in the museum, etc."

How to Fight in Clinches. And with what results—we now know that the species of the elephant known as the Loxodonta africana was eight feet high at the shoulder, probably weighed some four or five tons, and was distinguished from the species Indicus in that the latter had a Jayhawk, part of the K. U. annual, are devoted to them. "Five years ago students of this university did not know of swing, the blessed event for modern dance bands. Organized campus bands were not capable of meeting outside competition whether on or off the campus. But today, swing, as interpreted by Red's and Louie's orchestras, is completing the students' education," says the Jayhawk.

Red Blackburn was once a medical student at K. U. He took over a band in 1933 and since that time has made his aggregation one of the most popular in the middle western states. Busy all the time during the school months, Red has been busy summers, too. During the summer of '34 he spent his time at Lake Okoboji. Summers of '35 and '37 were at Estes park where he recently faced a sit down strike, the dancers demanding more music.

Popular in Kansas City. Kuhn also took over another band and immediately became popular. He topped all previous engagements when he appeared at Fairland park in Kansas City last summer for 14 weeks. His success was unquestionable. All of the members of his band are young and full of school spirit.

"In short, K. U. now has the finest college bands in the middle west, bands of truly professional caliber. It is safe to say that at present they are giving K. U. wider and better publicity than our school athletics." With better support by the students we will reach new heights," says Louie Kuhn. "Argues Red, 'Co-operation is all we need.'"

Digest presidential poll to prove that you just can't believe in statistics. Harvey Kalish is a Boston librarian, and he evidently studies the circulation carefully. He knows that some truths and some half truths, the older the better, mixed with a little sales talk and a lot of optimism is what people want to read and what they are willing to pay for. Success literature, whether it is Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People," or the latest Life-buoy soap advertisement, is the thing that the gullible public adores. Mr. Kalish has delivered.

LIONS' CLUB FETES SHIREY Husker Tackle Shows Films at Omaha Luncheon. Special guest at the Omaha Lions' club luncheon Tuesday was one of Nebraska's famous tackles, Fred Shirey. While there, Shirey showed films of Nebraska's grid games with Minnesota and Indiana. Each year clubs in the state's metropolis call upon Husker footballers to appear as honored guests.

Girls Can Play

By Priscilla Wicks. At last, girls, here's our chance. The powers-to-be have finally been convinced that women's sports are almost as important to us as the All American game of football is to the men. As the result of this startling innovation we have been given a column of our own. "JUST WATCH US KICK THE BALL AROUND."

Following the trend of intramurals so far this year is an easy job. Soccer baseball has been the only sport occupying the intramural calendar. Although soccer isn't considered the most exciting sports yet it's a highly important one from the standpoint of the house backing the team.

Speaking of houses, the TRIDELTS are really going out to defend their last year's title in a big way. Maybe you didn't know it, but they were presented with a huge silver plaque several weeks ago for topping the list of intramural points winners for 1936-37. They started out with a bang and entered four soccer teams but all had a little hard luck and were eliminated in the second and third brackets.

The DELTA GAMMAS, who were the recipients of last year's second place trophy, are showing their colors again this season by sending out three squads. D. G.'s team No. 1 has had three successive wins which puts them in the running for the soccer trophy finals. DOT CAIN and GERRY WALLACE are responsible for a good share of the runs passing home plate in all three D. G. games.

Meeting the D. G.'s in the finals will be the winner of the th between RAYMOND HALL and CHI OMEGA. Both of these teams are experienced combinations, having had almost the same personnel last year. Chi Omega's team is coached by BETTY CLIZBE who is, incidentally, in charge of soccer baseball on the W. A. A. sports board. If the weather continues fair, the finals will probably be scheduled for today or Monday. Fans if you want to see a game which promises to spit fire, blood and water as only females can, then gather round the fence of the soccer field one of these times and let us show you that GIRLS CAN REALLY PLAY.

NU-MEDS HEAR GRIFFITHS

State Hospital Board Head Speaks at Dinner Tonight.

Dr. D. G. Griffiths, superintendent of the Lincoln state hospital, will speak at the Nu-Med society at the Grand hotel at 8 p. m. this evening. This is the second meeting of the group this year and all pre-med students are invited. Any former members are still members. All new members will have a dues of 50 cents. Approximately 80 students attended the last meeting.

The latest in campus organizations is an exclusive little club at Women's college, University of Rochester. Twelve girls are members of the "My Love and I Are Far Apart Club" and pine for boy-friends at some distant place—Harvard, Princeton or just "back home." Members wear yellow ribbons around their necks to identify their affiliations. At meetings the girls discuss "heart problems" and find sympathetic listeners when they talk about their boy-friends.
