

MIZZOU HUMBLER HUSKERS IN FIRST CONFERENCE TILT

Brownmen Lead Tigers for Two Minutes; Amen's Absence Felt.

Minus the services of Paul Amen, regular forward, the Nebraska Cornhuskers dropped their first Big Six conference cage encounter to the Missouri Tigers, 27-18, in the university coliseum Friday night.

The Huskers were completely bottled up all evening by the fool proof defense displayed by the Bengals and when they did manage to break away for a shot they usually went wild being rushed too closely by the Tiger men. Hal Halstead and John Lobsiger, guards who turned in crack performances on defense were mainly responsible for holding the Huskers to 18 points, ten points less than they have scored in any one game this season.

Paul Amen, who sat on the sidelines most of the game was sent in late in the second half but due to a stiff knee he was not able to keep up with the fast breaking offense employed by the Tigers.

Huskers Blow Up.

The Scarlet succeeded in stopping the Bengal attack from breaking in to the basket for closeup chances but they couldn't stop the deadly fire of Halstead and Harvey from the out court. These two accounted for three ringers in the first half of put them ahead at the intermission and then sank a couple of more in the second to keep the game from getting close. During the closing minutes of the game when the Huskers began covering their men all over the floor they blew up and allowed the Missouri lads to work the pill in for easy setups.

Except for a 5-3 lead which they held only a couple of minutes early in the game, the Huskers never topped the Missouri team in the score column.

High scorer of the game was Missouri's forward, Harvey, who raced up five field goals and three foul shots for a total of 13 points. Bill Kovanda, who replaced Amen as starter in the game, led the rest of his teammates scoring eight points.

FRESHMAN FIVE WHIPS ERRATIC NUBBINS, 29-14

Duncan, Hanson Each Score Eight Points; Taylor Shows Agility.

A fast, aggressive frosh team handed the Nubbins their second defeat of the season, defeating them 29 to 14 in a preliminary to the varsity game with Missouri last Friday. This contest evened the score between the frosh and the Nubbins, as the B team won over the frosh in an earlier game.

Duncan of the B team and Hanson of the frosh tied for high point honors with eight points each. The outstanding performance of the evening was turned in by Taylor, a forward from Hastings, who displayed the best floor play and ball handling ability of any man on the floor. Taylor also accounted for six of his team's points. Pitcaithley and Hanson for the frosh and Duncan for the Nubbins also stood out.

Frosh More Aggressive.

The frosh were more aggressive and showed better floor work and ball handling than did the B team. The B team's score was held down by its inability to make its shots good, missing setup after setup.

TICKET 'CHISELING' HITS SNAG AT MISSOURI GAME

Doormen Stop Townspeople With Student Ducats At Tilt Friday.

Nebraska officials, in an attempt to eliminate "chiseling" at university athletic activities, issued orders to the doormen at the Missouri game to take up all student books when presented by those obviously not students.

In past years, the policy of needy students selling their identification tickets was quite widespread, and as a result, gray-haired grandfather and grandmother were gaining admittance to football and basketball games at the lower rate given to students.

But "those days are gone forever," as all books are being taken up when the doormen are certain that the holder is not a student. In cases when there is any doubt, the ticket holder is asked to show his identification ticket. Failure to produce means that either one more general admission ticket is purchased or that someone goes home without having seen a game.

As soon as news of the officials' action spread, a rumor was circulated that students who had sold their identification cards would be expelled from school. Many holders of illegal tickets lost their nerve, and did not present their tickets.

PENNIES FROM HEAVEN MAKE PLAYING COURT HELL

Dear Editor:
If the people referred to in this article are our students, I think they should be put on the right track. Can you help?

MARY E. AMES,
Secy., university dental college.
This letter refers to an editorial that ran last week in the Lincoln Shopping Guide. It said in no uncertain terms that anyone who threw pennies was a "cross between a Louisiana buzzard and a common polecat."

Yes, Miss Ames, that article did refer to our students. We can't admit it with pride, but only out of a sense of duty. That custom developed a long time ago when officials believed that in order to retain a crowd for the second half play of a basketball game, they had to entertain the fans during the half-time breach of action. Such entertainment as pantomimes with placards, screeching sopranos, and none-too-good dancers. Some of our big city friends, seeing that the "artists" were not of the headline variety, tossed them pennies in the absence of over-ripe vegetables. Or, perhaps, they chucked just as copperized jeers, but nevertheless, chucked.

Nebraskans, especially students, were quick to take up the habit, and the copper flow continued to increase until the coins fairly drifted on the playing floor. It was quite a spell before the waifs along the sidelines could muster the courage to follow their natural impulses and scoop up the pennies. Once they did, they did so in hordes.

The entertainment, of course, was ruined as the screeching sopranos would continue to screech louder and louder above the racket of the kids and the laughs of the crowd until, almost knocked from her feet, she would gather up her music and race off the floor.

Well, from that stage it was easy. The crowd was convinced that the piling, struggling, squirming mass of youngsters clamoring for pennies was more entertaining than anything the school could hire. Hearing about the opportunity to "pick up" some extra change, the kids seeped into the coliseum from

SIG PHI EP CONQUERS VOLLEY BALL RIVALRY TO WIN FIRST SPORT

Sigma Nu Cops Second Place To Remain in Top Running For Best Trophy.

In a spirited rally Sigma Phi Epsilon tripped the favored Sigma Nu netmen 3-1 Thursday evening in the coliseum to cop the volley ball crown and their first win of the 1937-38 intramural slate.

The game, one of the most heated of the high net season, was a neck and neck affair thruout. By the victory Sig Ep took its place among the leaders contending for the Jack Best trophy, presented at the end of each year. Even though the Sig Nu's failed to annex another trophy via volley ball, they remained in the all-season lead by virtue of a win and two seconds.

In the consolation match Phi psi downed Sig Alpha 3-0.
