We stand corrected. The gal that exposed Nate Holman to the swollen jowls was Ann Stevenson, not Ann Stewart.

Then there is Firman Samuelson, Sigma Nu, who has found the one gal, just who we are not sure. He wants to do the affair up right, but he fears the constant tubbing that usually ensues when a man hangs his pin. So, for weeks he has been pondering over the situation. Now he has decided that a way out will be to hang his Gamma Lambda, band fraternity pin, and retain the white star.

Soon Harry Prouty, DU, should be offering the boys smokes as a result of his long standing affair with June Stebbins, Pi Phi. But knowing Harry and his yen to do things in the ultra ultra manner, we believe that he will not stop with the traditional stogies. His offering will probably be kay-woodle pipes. Young Prouty possesses over 30 tobacco burners, we are told.

Yesterday Ruthie Huston, ki owe, was ill and was given hypnos by the doc. Hypnos, it seems, have strange effects on little Ruthie. This time she was a bit delirious and swore she was holding a tete a tete with the seven dwarfs. She talked to them in a falsetto most of the afternoon and finally rose and procured cigarettes for all her mythical friends. We don't know who really smoked them.

Her prize antic of the afternoon was gazing into her hand mirror, eyes closed, and saying, "They're going to make me just as pretty as Snow White."

Wednesday night there was a picnic on the Tri Delt lawn, one of the first intra-campus picnics of which we have heard. Gordon Uhl, Ki Phi, and Betty Van Horne, Triple Delt, and a couple of comrades were the outdoor lovers. The affair was surprisingly successful in spite of the proximity of things, we understand.

The Sig Eps have always had trouble raising a good lawn. After an informal meeting, they agreed to hold all their little sessions on the front lawn to stimulate the tender foliage, if you know what we mean.

Theta situation doing well.

The Deltas sent their pledges to respective sorority houses as a phase of hell week. Chet Brown was delegated to the kite castle. Since that time Brown has hounded the actives for another hell week.

SOCIETY

By Dixie Davis.

More initiatives came from the Acacia and Pi K. A. houses Acacia Hilligass, and last but not least, Omar Qualset, Gene Beck, Cliff has Jimmy Minnick, Elton Wiley, Ed "Odd" Sherwood.

Pi K. A. boasts of six new actives, namely, Wilbur Simmons, Allan Frel, Don Wery, Dwight Burney, Herbert Dow, and Bill Randall.

A little story has come to pass, as to how Ed Sherwood got his name, "Odd." It all came about last Sunday when he and Olive Williams, Tri Delt, and Dot Card, Chi O, with her date Herbie Heitman went on a picnic. Evidently the ground was a wee dab wet, so they couldn't find a suitable place. Finally they decided to a wheat field, and since then Ed make camp out in the middle of has taken on the name "Odd."

ROSA BOUTON HALL WINS SILVER CUP FOR FOLLIES SKIT

of pink roses by Jane Barbour, retiring president of the A. W. S. board, which sponsors the annual affair.

Miss Rehlender is a junior from Lincoln in Teachers college and a member of Delta Gamma sorority. She was chosen by the A. W. S. board from 15 candidates entered by their respective organized houses.

Carrie Belle Raymond opened the Follies revue with a "Japanese Garden" where colorful kimonos and mincing shuffles gave atmosphere to a trio, a toe dancer and a solo from "Madame Butterfly."

A rhythmic take off on an active chapter meeting of a sorority was next chanted thru by Sigma Delta Tau's.

In the hop-jumping "Marriage of Little Nell," lanky Nellie, the hero, Ma, Pa, villain and preacher swayed from beginning to end in the Alpha Chi Omega act.

"Cuckoo Carnival," "Who?" Chi Omega's followed the Bouton hall skit with a "Cuckoo Carnival," starring a human calliope and Jo-Jo, the Monkey Boy.

With tap-dancing, acrobatic dancing, singing and sawing to an imitation of Tommy Dorsey, the Pi Beta Phi's decided "Who?" to put in their Coed Follies skit.

Mellerhammer at its height was staged by the Frankie and Johnny of the Barb A. W. S. League's act. Frankie, a red-kimonoed version of Joan Crawford, emoted over her love affair, while the barbershop quartet rendered a running account of the story.

"Manhattan in Rhythm" in sparkling black and chromium, gave Delta Gamma singing and dancing talent a chance to shine.

Last skit on the revue schedule, Gamma Phi Beta, won honorable mention from the judges with a fashion parade from a Gay Nineties girl to a flapper of '28.

As mistress of ceremonies of the style show, Sarah Louise Meyer described the models' wearables as they appeared, from morning robes, to evening gowns, the latter modeled by the Best-Dressed Girl candidates, Irene Sellers was in charge of the style revue and Velma Ekwall in charge of skits.

A Sigma Alpha Iota string quartet composed of Frances Spencer, Vee Louise Marshall, Constance Baker, and Selma Hill also sang in the show.

Based on a survey which no one has made, it is predicted that by 1950 the world will be completely cellophaned and zipperized.

Pat Peterson must have it pretty bad. She couldn't even leave the boy friend's picture at home while she appeared in the Pi Phi act, but carried Jim's picture on the stage to be admired by all. Jim is from Holdrege and is pretty good looking, Pee Wee says. Too bad for all Pat's suiters here. I guess they just don't rate.

Another fine date would be Fran Dilger of the Gamma Phi Beta house who was attired as a flapper of a few years past. Short skirt, wiggle walk, and trimmings completed her costume. Thais Haley was no slouch either in her gown of the nineties.

Only one thing is bothering Pee Wee. He says he can't figure out what the winners of the skit contest are going to do with the big cup they won. He says it's almost large enough for him to take a bath in.

The style show was pretty good too. The girls would come out and take off their coats while the audience applauded. Pee Wee says he beat his wings together too, but they didn't take any more off. He was pretty disappointed. He says he guesses Gipsy Rose Lee was not among the performers.

There were some swell looking formals on display, to say nothing of what was in them. You could tell that some of the better looking ones had come from GOLD'S new stock of spring formals in pastel shades. They are plenty fancy.

The Pi Phi chapter turned out en masse and must have been the first ones there for they got all the front seats where their applause could be best heard by the judges. Next time you girls may be able to get special reservations in the orchestra pit.

And that just about polishes off Pee Wee's impression of a swell show. Congratulations Jane Barbour and all your crew. But you better watch out for Pee Wee. See you Sunday.

Highlights On the Air

Most Assuredly, It's a Lie!

Gabriel Heatter, conductor of the "We, the People" program broadcast over CBS on Thursday evenings states that housewives and students have the most interesting lives. I'm not one to say whether or not he is right, but here's some more of what he says.

The Listener's Committee of "We, the People" strives to pick individuals with the most interesting experiences to talk about on the program, and since the broadcast started last fall, housewives have led all other occupations on the program. There have been no sailors, policemen, or even motorcycle cops.

Students rank second in numbers of persons interviewed, but that remains a matter of opinion, that is, as to whether or not a student's life is interesting.

Cowboys, firemen, engineers, explorers, farmers, and everything from button hole makers to western union boys and pretzel manufacturers, not to mention a proprietor for country club dogs.

Lot of work, Little play.

Don Voorhees' orchestra plays some five or six minutes during the half-hour "Calvalcade of America" program, a CBS feature. Don spends, however, a whole day looking up arrangements for his 35 piece band to use during the program, then has his musicians rehearse their five or six minute part for two hours. The band plays three minutes for the overture and two or three minutes altogether for the musical bridges between scenes.

McCormack: Singer And Politician

John McCormack, beloved Irish tenor, has announced thru the medium of the radio that he would accept the presidency of Ireland if he is eligible under the new Irish constitution and "if the people of Ireland want me."

Appearing as guest on Rudy Vallee's Variety Hour over NBC, the great singer said, "I have not had any official invitation, but so many of my friends in Ireland had written me to throw my hat into the ring I cabled to my son Cyril in Dublin to find out if I am eligible for the position under the new constitution. Of course I would be GOLD'S FOLLIES. "Boy, Pee Wee, how did you do it? I thought only girls were allowed in that show. You certainly pulled a fast one to get this news out." "Aw shucks, chum, it wasn't anything at all. Even Smith Davis was there, and Bill Clayton with his camera. Think nothing of it. I told you I would yet you the news, didn't I?" Well, the rest of the conversation is unnecessary, except for us to outline for you fellows the real low down on the Follies of last evening as Pee Wee saw them from the rafters on the west side. Rosa Bouton Hall won the cup for the best skit, but Chi Omega would have won the mug for the best remark of the show. They were staging a mock side show. Prime among the attractions on display in front of the big tent were the Siamese twins. They were hitched together in the usual manner when the Barker announced "—that's their tale (tail) and they're stuck with it." Not bad for a bunch of girls. Peg Pascoe as a mermaid really knocked your eyes out. Pee Wee says he is going to buy a pair of water wings next pay day and see if there are any more where Peg came from. We always wondered why Margaret Munger was so small and we just found out. It seems that she has been training on "nails and glue" to fulfill her role as Atlas. And before we tell you more, here's a real tip to you fellows. There are some of the latest lounge model suits at GOLD'S that you should see pronto. They're single breasted and have four buttons on the coats. You can step out with any of these Follies girls in these swell numbers. To get back to the girls. The winning skit showed moments in the lives of college girls that tended to make life worth living. Of course the Campus Cop always showed at the wrong time but the girls were certainly having fun. Pee Wee says that if you could have seen Barbara Vining and Marjorie Horton pitching woo they would be the most popular girls on the campus. They really know how to do it. Pee Wee thinks that if you could split the couple up, there would be a couple of dates par excellence.
