$10,000 Minimum Pay.

The picket fence policy, Regent em explained, was adopted after several univerities in the United States were offering sal-aries above the $10,000 minimum teaching and the interest of their paid at Nebraska. The new policy immediately created the Nebraska "white spot" Alumni Association which now pays the professor the difference between his present salary and that offered by some olner institution.

Several professors have made public statements during the past few years on the desirability of the new policy. Not a single mem-ber of the faculty has presented any criticism of the plan, and, it is believed, that the tutorial ranks
