More and more city slickers are trekking out to Ag campus affairs now and then. The popularity of these informal get-togethers all started when certain couples who are forever being haunted by columnists of one type or another decided to get away from it all, so they snuck out to ag where they could enjoy themselves with the least restraint. Soon others took up the idea and the run began.

Last time we were out in that vicinity for a shindig, we ran into Paul Munson and Eva Jane Sinclair having a whee of a time, Paul's little brother and Mary Ruth Rhoades, Buckey Prime and Priscilla Chain, Junior Wilson and Pat Jensen. Pimty Moodie and Ruth Minor and just mobs more.

Since then business seems to have picked up in those parts and simply everyone is donning old clothes tonight and dashing out to Ag for the "Dog Patch Hoe Down" so see you there.

Quite a dispute has been going on as to whether certain Nebraska coeds are really and truly gold diggers. Perhaps the following story can throw a little light on the question. We have an old friend who still chuckles over the time when he was jokingly advising Bobby Mowbray to take one of his well padded fraternity brothers for a ride and make him share some of the filthy lucre he seems to have a monopoly on. "Well," hesitated innocent wide-eyed Bobby in all seriousness, "I've already seen the Stuart."

One of the D. U.'s has quite a system of discipline worked out. Weekly he requires a report from his one and only on her scholastic standing. If she flunked any tests or didn't know some of the answers (in class, we mean) then he takes camping into his own hands and those two spend a quiet evening hitting the books at their respective houses.

We're still wondering what three Alpha Chi's made the Sigma Nu's so angry that when they turned up for an exchange dinner between the two clubs, they had a trio of Kappa's in tow for protection.

During spring vacation, Ruth Fox, Pi Phi, and Sid Hartman, Beta, thought that they would pull an April Fool trick so they sent a cute telegram to their friends, Irvine Hecox, Pi Phi, and Jim Weiden, another Beta. It said that they were coming right down to Cozad where the last two named were resting from a long, hard six weeks of school. The good kids stayed home just to see them, but you see they never arrived because it was April Fool.

There appeared in Mary Anna's column yesterday the story about Lorraine Lynne and her newest flame but it didn't state that her old love, Orval Hager, Beta, hung his pin just before Lynne said that she was crazy about Brandon Backland, Phi Delta. It is the first time we have ever heard of Lynne being stood up by any man but there is always a first time.

Virginia Wheeler, D. G., was swinging it with a new boy friend during vacation at the Music Box in Omaha. The lucky man is some Phi Delta from Ames. It must of have been pretty fast work for Virginia because she has his pin. I wonder what is wrong with the good old Cornhuskers. Do you know?

Scandal! Girard Putnam, Phi Gam, was on the second floor of the Alpha Phi house the night before vacation ended. He took Barbara Buffington's suitcase up on the second floor for her. Like all gentlemen he stopped to talk with some choice bits on that floor. While he was talking, Phyllis Baker stalked him from the rear, clad only in a bathrobe or maybe it was a towel. Putnam happened to turn around but not on purpose, we hope, when she spoke to him. She saw who it was and ran for dear life, screaming as

What's in a Name?

Marie Jeanne Gabriel Germain Beizerere Belanger is the real name of the Columbia sustaining program star, Gogo Delys. Gogo's new name, however, is only one of many in the ranks of Columbia artists. Here are a few more: Colonel Lemuel Stoopnagle, F. Chase Taylor, Glen Gray, Glen Knoblauch, Al Joison, Asa Yoelson, George Hall, George Pascalia, Ben Bernie, Benjamin Ancellowitz, Joe Penner, Joseph Pinter.

These names were dug out of the dustiest of dusty files during your writer's spring vacation. There are some 20 other stars, for whom I have detected different names. Watch tomorrow's column, and the day after, etc. I promise, however, that there are no more Gogo DeLyses.

This afternoon at 2:45 over KFAB, the Great Cathedral choir will present the fifth in a series of six Lenten season broadcasts. The topic for today's program is "Nasim's Prayer of Thanksgiving." Only one more broadcast remains after today, so if anyone of you has not heard the choir on this program, try and get in on one of these last two.

Tonight's Hollywood hotel broadcast will feature guest artists Victor McLaglen, previewing his latest picture, "Battle of Broadway," Brian DonLevy, and Louise Hovick, (Gypsy Rose Lee). Others on this popular program are Frances Langford, Frankie Parker, Anne Jamison, Ken Niles, and Raymond Paige's orchestra.

This coming Saturday the Kappa pledges are giving a party for everyone, at least they say everyone, who brings a tin can. Old clothes are the style that night so boys and girls dress up and go to it with your tin can in your hand. Don't bring any rocks.

Beth Howly has been going out quite a bit with the big one from the Sig Alph house.

It seems that Bob "Waddons" spent most of his time at Ways Inn and the other filling station down by the depot during vacation. He and Pee Wee seem to get a lot of their dope from there.

Farmers Fair Rally went across in a really big way. Manager Peterson came out from the hospital a day early just so he could give a speech and tell all of the ins and outs of the coming fair. Prof. Gramlich kept the gathered students in stitches with his streamlined bedtime stories. Don Baird and the rest of the salesmen took those last dimes away from all comers. Don even offered to take Rex Brown's shirt as a down payment on a ticket for the Dog Patch Hoe Down.

Over at Carps cafe the other night a Jackson High boy was giving some of our coeds a very good lecture on social relations. High spots of the talk was the statement that when out with a man they weren't to crowd him as tho Helen Barker was taking it all in like a good little girl. Do you suppose she is going to start a reform at our dear college?

Pharmacy Boards Advocate New Teeth for State Exams

(Continued from Page 1.) learned during his professional course of training. "The function of the state pharmaceutical examining board," Dean Lyman told the Des Moines convention, "is to find if the applicant is so trained that he can adapt himself to the community in which he lives. The examination given by the state board should demonstrate his ability to do this." Dean Lyman is of the opinion that examinations testing the qualifications of individuals for admittance into most of the professions should follow the general principles of civil service. The student's educational background, his scholastic standing, and his moral background should all be considered. The problem now confronting pharmacists in every state is one of outlining ways and means to make the state board examinations a more practical and a more efficient test of the student's ability to become a competent dispenser of drugs and to adapt himself to the community in which he lives.

Dean Lyman was appointed to represent the colleges of pharmacy and R. L. Whaley of Wahoo was named to represent the examining boards of the five states making up the Fifth district—North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota and Iowa.

MISS NORMA GILLETT JOINS WISCONSIN U'S SUMMER TERM STAFF

(Continued from Page 1.) larly offered by the University of Wisconsin. Miss Gillett is scheduled to teach two courses, both to be taught in the school of education. They include The Activity School, and Social Studies in the Elementary School: Methods and Curriculum.

In the summer session more than 500 courses of study will be presented by 300 different faculty members. The term is scheduled to begin on June 27 and close on Aug. 5. Special nine-week courses in the graduate school will be offered this year and will start on June 27 and close on Aug. 25, while the Law school will open its 10-week session on June 20 and end on Aug. 28. Registration for the summer school begins on Saturday through Monday, June 27.

GOLD DIGGING

Shades of Saint Vitus: Curse of the Dean; Outcast of the Phi Mu house; We are beginning to understand the meaning of these ads about halitosis, B. O., and things your best friend won't tell you. In a few words, we are in the dog house—Pee Wee and me.

Yes, we can now divide our readers into three groups; those who have been mentioned, those with clear consciences, and those who are afraid.

When we meet a member of the first group, he will scowl and go off muttering. Those in class two smile and say, "Good stuff today." The guilty but to date unmentioned assume the look of a small child caught with jam on his face and giving a cheery "hello" they hasten on. Pee Wee says that people are like that.

Ed Seagrist and Gordon Uhri vacationed in Humboldt. It seems that last Saturday night the two of them were hitting the high spots with a local agriculturist by the name of Pete who is reputed to have put three men under the table in one night. About one o'clock the train leaves Humboldt for our fair city. Shortly afterward our three boys flagged the train and rode to Lincoln. Now what could they do in Lincoln at three o'clock in the morning?

Perhaps they were on their way to GOLD'S to get a pair of those nifty new gum soled shoes. They come in grey or brown leather tops and sell for only $3.95.

Numerous college kids sojourning in North Platte, and Pee Wee says they had a good time, which is not unusual in North Platte.

The most popular visiting girl in town was Pi Phi, Betty Orme. They say she took over all available males in the city and did they all have fun? Well, wouldn't you?

There was a close race for the title of most desirable man, but with all the odds on his side, Tommy, the bar tender at the White Horse took the prize. At least he seemed to be the most popular with the majority of Pi Phis. It surely couldn't have been his occupation that made him such a swell fellow to know. Or could it.

Grant Thomas ran a close second to the bar man but he was disqualified for his actions one night. He was really out of the running that evening.

If Jean Fetter refuses to sit on hard things, you may credit it to her vacation. At least part of it (on one evening) was spent resting on a curb with the local boy friend. With the White Horse so near it seems odd that you would sit on such hard seats, Jean. Maybe you wanted to be alone.

And girls, you need never be alone when you are wearing one of these fuzzy angora sweaters from GOLD'S. They are just the thing for the spring that is still just around the corner. They come in all pastel shades and cost only $1.95 at GOLD'S third floor campus shop.

Campus shop reminds us of campus cop, and campus cop reminds us of a party that Pee Wee says was held during vacation in one of the larger frat houses. You know the habit the campus cop has of turning up just at the wrong time. If you haven't heard, ask the boys who were here in the Sig Alph house over vacation.

Iverson Plods Lumbering Joes Through Dance Paces

Mr. Iverson confesses to a great fondness for "this sort of thing." While attending high school in Lincoln and the university, he participated in the many amateur shows popular in the city in those years. One was gotten up on the average of every month, relates Joe, sponsored by such organizations as the Shrine, Elks, American Legion, and various other groups. He decided that his talents were better suited to the other side of the footlights, however, and so switched over to directing instead of acting.

Bren Production Co., during which he traveled from town to town directing amateur shows on the average of three a month. Mr. Iverson returned to Lincoln in 1925 and soon entered the insurance business. He has continued in this field up to the present when he now manages his own agency.

Altho his career as a showman appears in permanent discard as far as professional rank is concerned, he still enjoys helping with such local productions as the Kosmet Klub shows. As for "Hades' Ladies," Mr. Iverson believes that its novelty provides a healthy departure from previous Klub shows. Like a true showman he believes that audiences like "something a little different" now and then, and on that assumption he bases his belief that "Hades' Ladies" should please and entertain all who see it. "At any rate we're working mighty hard toward that end," he said, and if you look in on rehearsal some evening you will agree that that is no lie!

R. E. HENRY NAMED HEAD OF RELIGIOUS WELFARE COUNCIL

(Continued from Page 1.) would speak before corresponding college groups. At the time of the introduction of the project, the matter of financing seemed a great obstacle. Thursday it was decided that about $300 would be needed to pay for the speakers' care and other expenses.

Representatives of various denominations pledged their groups to raise their share of the money, part of which is already on hand. Dr. Charles Patterson of the philosophy department, was authorized to write to Dr. Bader indicating that the university is prepared to play host to the mission.
