KINDER SAYS HUSKERS PAY TOO MUCH

J. R. Kinder in the Sunday Journal-Star says that Nebraska pays too much for the privilege of playing football in the Big Six conference. He says that over a period of years Nebraska has subsidized the loop circuit to the extent of $75,000 and this has been necessary to keep the conference alive. The Scaret, he maintains, supplies the national football prestige for the conference.

Nebraska is forced to guarantee conference schools more than non-conference schools but the loop teams have a smaller drawing power with the Nebraska fans, consequently the Huskers come out on the short end of the deal quite often. These monies are used to expand other conference athletic plants while ours is neglected, he maintains. In conclusion, Kinder believes that the athletic department should schedule an eight game season on a home and home basis with teams not only on the ability to play but also to pay.

Many times during the past few years there has been much talk concerning the transfer of the Huskers to the Big Ten circuit in the event that Chicago U. gets out as rumors said it would. Men who are well acquainted with the condition at the Windy City school argue that the Maroons are not even thinking of getting out of the Big Ten, so the dream of putting a Nebraska team in a sister conference field seems to be more of a pipe dream than a reality. Shaking off the Big Six conference can be accomplished, however, without waiting for an opening in the Big Ten, by scheduling games without regard to conferences. The schools that afford Nebraska the best competition and the best crowds could be signed on the Husker schedule regardless of conference affiliations. This would leave the Scaret free to play the best teams in the present conference setup and would not force them to meet the weaker Big Six teams.

Notre Dame, in the center of the Big Ten conference, has used this barnstorming method for years with much success, apparently. The Irish meet the strongest teams of the country and without any regard to their opponents' conference ties. Wrangler coaches need not worry about having to play so many conference games to qualify for the championship race as they are only bound by contract to meet the various schools. Kinder's suggestion that the conference is a dead weight financially is not a revelation to some, but others may not have thought of it before. It seems that the logical conclusion would be some readjustment of conference ties.

MAJOR JONES USES SKYLANES FOR FINAL PRACTICE SESSIONS

Biffer Gives Instructions To Receivers, Insists Use Both Hands.

Major Jones looks skyward during this last week of spring football as he has his gridsters heaving flips thru the ozone. Airways may prove lucrative next fall when the running attack fails with three such fine flippers as Thurston Phelps, George Porter and George Knight, all of whom consistently find their targets.

Both backs and ends were on the receiving end last night with Jack Dadd making the most spectacular catch of the day.

The major rumbles disapproval at one handed catches and insists on the use of both hands. He instructed the potential receivers last night to sprint from the starting position, then proceed under three-quarters speed when in the open, facilitating speeding up or slowing down to pull the porkhide in. In case the shot is somewhat awry.

THURSTON PHELPS

Behm Gets Tackle Post.

Altho never having played football in high school, Forrest Behm has shown such talent that he has dislodged Sam Schwartzkopf at right tackle in the first replacement in the first squad during this spring drill. Behm jumped from the third string to first as a result of the fine showing during scrimmage last Saturday. He is Nebraska's counterpart to Kansas' Glenn Cunningham, for Forrest was unable to enter high school athletics because of severe burns on his right leg, received from a childhood mishap.

Edsel Wibbeis broke into the second string lineup forcing Bill Anderson down to the fourth squad, which has an entire new backfield from last week. Vike Francis slipped down a notch to the third outfit as George "Bus" Knight moved up. Eldon Nuernberger went along with Knight while Kenneth Simmons squeezed out Henry Overstake and Tiny Bud Cather dislodged Walter Luther.

Schlickebier Moves Up.

The greatest improvement shown by any man is that of Glen Schlickebier, flanker, who moved up from the sixth team to the third in the place of Jack Ashburn, who is having trouble with his knee. Arlo Klum, guard, because of sickness and loss of weight, will not participate during the rest of the drills. This vacancy has been filled by Bill Iverson. Royal Kahler has replaced Edgar Thompson at the tackle spot on the third string and Fred Preston has pushed out Ray Prochaska at the wing spot.

During the individual workouts before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon Dobson, Plock, and Anderson were plackticking with great accuracy, with Dobbie, the most consistent, getting off boots of over

Students Lose Weight During Exam Periods Says Statistic Survey

NEW YORK CITY. (AP). The average U. S. college student loses two pounds during examination periods.

This figure has been determined here by the Bureau of Educational Surveys, which estimates that 90 percent of the average student body crams during examinations.

According to the bureau, which bases its findings on a survey of colleges throughout the country, some of the faults in instruction which can confuse the students and make comprehension of the course faulty, with a necessity for last minute cramming, include failure to give a comprehensive overview of the whole course; failure to present the material in clear outline form; the use of words not readily understandable by the average student; and lack of continuity and organization in textbooks.

A majority of Swarthmore college students favor collective action by the U. S. to maintain peace.

Dr. Joseph M. Gwinn of San Jose state college believes the government should subsidize college marriages.

As I See It

Most of Nebraska's 1937 opponents were somewhat dismayed at the Huskers' habit of scoring on long runs, but to Iowa State it was just an old story. For the past four years Nebraska's victories have been due in a large part to touchdowns scored from around or back of mid-field. In the 1934-7-6 victory Nebraska made its only touchdown on a pass from Chief Bauer to Lloyd Carlwell which was good for 46 yards. The next year, Iowa State was in Nebraska territory twice, but the Wild Hoss took the breeze out of the Cyclones when he galloped 51 yards for a touchdown after Sam Francis had put the ball in midfield with a 30 yard run.

The 1936 game was full of long runs, most sensational being Sam Francis' 97 yard ramble after fumbling a kickoff. Carlwell, who concluded his three years of throwing the Cyclones' side, returned a punt 72 yards for a touchdown, and scored again on a fairly good sized run, 37 yards. Harris Andrews took a lateral on a punt return, ran 55 yards, then tossed the ball to a teammate who crossed the goal line, but the attempted lateral went forward and the entire run was nullified.

Last fall Paul Amen scored the tying touchdown on an 80 yard end around, and Marvin Plock broke the deadlock with his 75 yard punt unback. With Plock, Dadd, Hopp, and a few more next year, it looks as though a long run or two may be in store for the 1938 game.

Nebraska Wins as Aggie's Outfielder Drops Fly In Eighth Inning.

An error by Don James, Oklahoma A. & M. college center fielder, gave the Husker baseballers their first win of the season Saturday afternoon at Stillwater, Okl.

The Aggies lost 4 to 2 after James dropping a fly in the eighth inning, allowing two Cornhusker runs to cross the plate.

Ivan Borman, Nebraska hurler, allowed the Oklahoma team only eight hits, while three Aggie pitchers gave the Huskers twelve.

Ed Frey and Al Christy got the two Aggie runs in the fourth, coming in on Tony Potoski's triple.

Nation's Crack Milers Gather For Kansas Relays, April 23

Glenn Cunningham, Venzke, San Romani, Lash Vie For Loop Record.

LAWRENCE, April 11.—One of the greatest attractions in the history of track and field in the state of Kansas, a mile race between Glenn Cunningham and Archie San Romani, is scheduled for the 16th annual Kansas relays, April 23.

The race will bring together four of the best milers in the world. Cunningham is regarded by most critics as the greatest miler of all time and his three opponents have all made their marks in middle distance running. San Romani and Lash ran the third fastest outdoor miles in history last year at Princeton, with San Romani winning a virtual dead heat in which the two runners crossed the finish line in 4:07.2. The only faster-mile outdoors were Cunningham's 4:05.7 and the world record 4:04.4 of Sydney Wooderson of Great Britain.

The hotbed of Olympic death-throats will again be a feature of the relays. Jim Hausch of Kansas and Glenn Morris of Colorado State, Olympic decathlon champions in 1932 and 1936 respectively, both had their first competition in the ten event contest here. The 1940 Olympic champion may also be developed at Lawrence.

The Kansas relays is the only place in the United States where the decathlon is held every year and consequently draws entries from a large area. Entries this year may surpass those of any previous year, if inquiries are any indication of the number.
