Summer Prairie Schooner Appears On Stands Friday

Issue to Feature Garcia's 'American Panorama,' Several Poems.

The 1938 summer edition of the Prairie Schooner, Nebraska's contribution to the literary world, edited by Dr. Lowry C. Wimberly, university English professor, will make its appearance on news stands this coming Friday, according to Mr. Wimberly.

Clad in a blue cover, the Schooner will feature E. Current Garcia's "American Panorama," his contribution to the federal writers' project. Another feature of the summer issue will be the Ox Cart, including "Drunkard's Dream," and "Poor Little Joe," poems.

"Drunkard's Dream" is a ballad narrating a drunkard's woes and miseries, recounted to him in a dream, thereby changing him; for when he awakens, he has resolved to be a new man, for his family and for his own sake.

Variety of Material.

"Poor Little Joe," a short poem, depicts a small scamp, tramping New York's streets in the dead of winter, and tells of his death.

Included among the many other articles, essays and literary contributions in the new Schooner are manuscripts from the pens of the
