Luck Comes To Aleda Hoefener

With odds of 2,750 to 1 against receiving the choice seat in the Nebraska football stadium, Aleda Hoefener, Ag college student purchased her activity ticket a few minutes before the drawing was held, Wednesday afternoon, and hoped for nothing better than the 2,000th best seat in the student section.

A few minutes after she'd made her purchase, a small group of eager students pushed around Morris Lipp, Daily Nebraskan editor, and waited anxiously as he drew one number from a box which contained 2,749 other numbers. The number was checked and found to belong to Miss Aleda Hoefener, of Lincoln.

She explained, when informed of her luck, that seeing a football game from the fifty yard line was something she had read about in books, but that she was very happy about the whole thing.

Ag-tivities

The new fireplace which was constructed on the campus this summer, will be feted and dedicated providing this week end's highlight on the Ag campus. From 5 o'clock Friday afternoon until late in the evening, Ag students will dance and eat weiners in celebration of the dedication. All Ag students are invited.

Both A. G. R.'s and Farm Home members are very secretive about the affairs their actives are giving for the pledges, Saturday night. We only know that they are house parties, and are—closed!

More secrets! Senior Farmers Fair Board met last night—far into the night. They selected six activity minded juniors who will make up the Junior Fair Board, but you and I will have to wait until their identities are revealed, with much pomp, Oct. 14.

Mark Oct. 22 on your calendar. On that date the annual Farmer's formal will be held, and everyone is invited.

Night Classes Begin Monday

University night school classes, for students unable to attend day classes, will begin this Monday, Oct. 3. Courses will be offered in all departments of the University as has been the policy in former years.

Classes will convene during the first week in the Social Science building, room 101. Instructors will meet the students there and confer with them on their proposed schedules. Courses being offered for the first time this year include: Descriptive geometry, engineering sketches and working drawings, history of the English language, English history, and conversation and composition. Fees for these courses are payable at the University extension division office in room 202, former museum building.

A steak fry at Pioneer park this Saturday evening will open the Wesley Foundation's program of "Friday Friendly Hours" which strive to acquaint more Methodists with the work of the group on the campus and to provide a friendly hour of comradeship. Through October and into November small select groups will meet as announced in the Friday Friendly Hours.

The steak fry will be free to new students and transportation will be furnished. Those who would like to go should notify Arnold Pittman, chairman for the week, or Rev. Robert Drew at the Wesley Foundation at 1417 E. The group will gather at the Foundation before six o'clock for the three hour event.

DELTA SIGMA PI HOLDS FORUM ON WAR CRISIS

Members of Delta Sigma Pi, professional fraternity of business administration, took part in an open forum discussion on the European crisis led by Dr. D. R. Marti of the Lincoln School of Commerce as part of their meeting Wednesday evening in Parlors B and C of the Student Union. The rest of the program included discussion of professional problems.

Bob Ramey, Husker center who is laying out of football this year, says Minnesotans are much more anxious to beat Nebraska than most Nebraskans think. Although the Gophers will be out for revenge this year, they always try plenty hard to beat Nebraska.

Reason for that, says Bob, is that so many Nebraskans spend their summers in the lake region in Minnesota, and the Gopher followers want to "have something on the Nebraskans" during the summer months.

Ramey, who is councilor at a boys' camp in the Gopher state during the summer said that Bud Wilkinson, 1936 star quarterback, remarked that Minnesota never reprinted for any certain opponent, but that they "thought twice as hard about Nebraska as anyone else."

Bob is picking the Huskers to win. He says it won't be a 6-0 score, but that both teams will probably score more than once.

Thurston Phelps, Huskers' passing quarterback says, "Put your money on Nebraska and you'll be safe." However, Quarterback Bus Knight and End George Seemann preferred to wait until after the game to express their views.

is just right for studying or quiet reflection. You will find that there is nothing like curling up with a good book. No, nothing like it, not on a football special.

Don't be offish. Remember that everybody is your friend if you merely whisper the password in a mild, low, "Beal Minnesota." This is usually accompanied by a hand waving motion, strained blood vessels, a wide opened mouth and a clear view from point a, at the teeth, to point b, where the tonsils are, or were.

What to Talk About.

Conversation before a football game is a cinch. Whenever you feel a less for words, you have but to chant "Beal Minnesota" and a conversational crisis is

Contestants Register Before October 4

All pingpong fans of the University will get the opportunity to taste competition in a pingpong tournament to be held in the Student Union game room beginning October 4. Contestants may register at the check room in the Student Union or with Mrs. Yinger, social director.

The tournament will be divided into three flights, and the players may state their rank when registering. The purpose of the division is to give those less proficient at wielding the paddle an equal chance at winning one of the many prizes.

There will be two classes of play, men's singles and women's singles. All those interested must register by October 4. The men's first flight champion will be awarded a Cornhusker and second and third flight champions will be given respectively, a Military Ball Ticket for one couple and a subscription to the Daily Nebraskan. In the women's singles tournament the flight one winner will be given a Cornhusker, flight two champion a University Players ticket and the third flight winner will be awarded with an Awgwan subscription.

All the prizes will be donated by the generosity of the various organizations which they represent.

Delian Union To Fry Burgers

First Program of Year Set for Next Friday

A "steakburger" fry will be held by Delian-Union society tonight at Belmont park. If time permits, the organization will attend the football rally before leaving the campus. Barb students interested in Delian-Union activities are invited to join the members at the society's hall on the third floor of the Temple building at 6:15 p. m. Transportation will be furnished, although guests with cars are encouraged to drive them.

Hamburgers, not steak, will be the principal item of food at the picnic, Maxine Armstrong, president, admits, working on the theory that good hamburger is better than poor steak. The "steakburger" fry is the second of Delian-Union's fall activities. A week from Friday the society will present its opening program of the year with a guest speaker and entertainment. This will be an open meeting for all Barb students.

passed. A comparison of the weights of the backfield, the line, and the whole team also helps to pass away dull moments. It is also just as absorbing to conjecture upon what the clashing strategies will be as it is to conjecture upon Hitler's next move.

As soon as you arrive at your destination, the first thing to do is to tear around downtown Minneapolis or St. Paul or on the campus looking for one of your friends. As soon as you find him or her, the thing to do is to think of somebody else you can go look for. You separate from friend No. 1 and look for No. 2. Then when you and two get together you can have loads of fun trying to get connected with No. 1 again.

Eat an early lunch so that you will be able to eat all the apples you feel compelled to buy during the game and head for the stadium. Wait until about five minutes of two and then start looking for your own seat. This will make you popular with the rest of the crowd who will cast jocular remarks such as "Down in front you farmer" or "You make a better door than a window, buddy (sister)" or just "Get the blank out of the way." You, however, should assume a self conscious grin and stumble your way to your seat. After that you're on your own.
