

SPORT NOTES

By Norman Harris

With "only" ten lettermen returning, K.U.'s Phog Allen is looking forward to a successful season, and there's no kidding about that. A starting lineup, tentatively, of course, lists Don Ebling, and George Goley at forwards; Lester Kappelman, center, and Dick Harp teaming with Lyman Corliss at guard posts.

Husker fans remember sharp, dead eye Mr. Ebling, younger brother of Ray Ebling, probably the greatest forward K.U. ever produced, Fred Pralle, graduated last June will be most sorely missed man in Lawrence. His steady play and long range eye were K.U.'s mainstays thruout the season.

Kansas should cop the Big Six basketball crown again, however. Her reign over the basketball realm is comparable to the reign the Cornhuskers used to hold over the football season. In conference competition since 1929, the Jayhawkers have won exactly 85 games and dropped only 15. Sweet record. In all team records, Missouri has compiled the best record against Allen's men, winning even then only 37 of the 98 games that have been played between the two schools. K.U. has beaten Nebraska 46 times in 74 games.

Elected by the 1933 Cyclone grid squad to captain Iowa State's eleven next fall is Martin Boswell, junior right end this year. Cyclone major letters were awarded to 21 gridgers, with five winning minors. Thirty-seven frosh numeral sweaters were awarded Iowa State yearling footballers. Three majors and four minor "Ts" went to members of the Cyclone cross country team.

Husker opponents, nine in all, included four of the ranking teams in the nation, and six teams whose seasons may be called highly successful. The other three, Kansas, Iowa, and Indiana were luckless thruout the fall, two of them providing fodder for Cornhusker wins and the other gaining a tie with Nebraska.

Totals reveal that Nebraska opponents won 48 games, lost 31 and tied two, with Oklahoma still having to play Washington State's eleven. The six successful record teams won 41 games and dropped 11. The three poorer record teams won five while dropping 20.

Next year's topnotchers will probably be Minnesota, Oklahoma, Pittsburgh, Missouri, and perhaps Indiana. Iowa State is due for a drop, but how far a drop, no one can tell. Kansas and Kansas State will be about the same strength as this year. Iowa will be better, but not a lot better, or something fishy will be rumored. Nebraska will be much, very much better.

From Pitt's 1933 varsity lineup, the following names: Asuvitch, Goldberg, Gradisek, Gurzenski, Kluczka, Konetsky, Kosinski, Krumcum, Lezouska, Merkovsky, Petro, Sekela, Soroka, among others with readable names.

These Nebraska cagers, along with Bill Kovanda, Elk Creek, and Jimmy Taylor not in the picture, are the ones who will probably see most action against South Dakota U., here Dec. 10, when the Huskers open their 1938-39 season.

Second Year Men Find Starting Positions Open

AMES, Ia.—Sophomores are battling toe to toe with veterans for starting positions on the Iowa State college basketball quintet which opens the 1938 season with Cornell college here Monday, Dec. 5.

Chances are that two, and possibly three, sophomores will face the purple quintet, only non-conference team to beat Iowa State last season.

Practices last week brought forward a man whom Coach Louis Menze hadn't figured on earlier. He is Bob Harris, sharp shooting sophomore forward. If he continues to show improvement during the final week of pre-season practice he will start in the Cyclone front court opposite one of two letter winning juniors, Don Beresford or Wendell Allan.

Other leading forward candidates are Darrell Don Carlos, rangy sophomore, and Fred Gordon, inexperienced junior.

A 6 foot 5 inch, 200 pound sophomore, Ernest Herbrschmeier, is the No. 1 center at present, but he is having a tough fight with another rookie, Ed Jones, 2 inches shorter.

First team guards in last week's drills were Bob Menze, veteran, and Bob Hunt, all-state sophomore. Bill Bliss and Chuck Heileman, football ends and major letter winning basketball guards, reported for practice Monday. As soon as they get into top shape one of the two will likely take over a first team position opposite Menze.

W. A. A.'s archery hobby group will meet this afternoon at 5 in the west end of the girls gymnasium. Since competitive practice begins today, all members are asked to be present.

Basketball Takes Over Spotlight

Nebraska Plans Most Ambitious Cage Slate Of Big Six Squads

In a few days, Big Six basketball for the season of 1938-39 will be under way. Kansas and Kansas State opening on Dec. 3. The conference champion Jayhawkers will entertain Missouri Teachers of Warrensburg at Lawrence and Kansas State will go to Winfield to play Southwestern. The same two teams are in the start of conference play Jan. 7. Kansas meeting Oklahoma at Norman and Kansas State playing Iowa State at Ames.

Kansas will invade new territory before Christmas, playing the University of Texas and Southern Methodist at Austin and Dallas. Oklahoma's schedule is still incomplete with three or four games to be added, but the Sooners, also, will play Southern Methodists just at the year end.

Nebraska plans a trip to the Pacific coast, starting the night after Christmas at Berkeley and playing U.C.L.A. and Stanford. Missouri will go as far as the inter-mountain region for games with Denver, Colorado College and Wyoming. Iowa State, according to custom, has an all-Iowa non-conference schedule, and Kansas State will confine its play largely to the state.

Rose Bowl Bid Goes To Duke

Oklahoma May Play In Orange Bowl Game

The oldest bowl game of them all—the Rose bowl—will bring together Duke, the first undefeated, untied and unscored upon major team since Colgate in 1932, and Howard Jones' Southern California aggregation.

Southern California players voted 2 to 1 for Duke, altho Tennessee, Texas Christian and Oklahoma were thought to be stronger than the Blue Devils by many.

Duke made their perfect record in nine games, while U. S. C. has won seven out of nine, and has to face Notre Dame Saturday.

Texas Christian who accepted an invitation to the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, has selected Carnegie Tech, conquerors of Pitt, to be their opponents.

Weir Begins Cinder Drills

Track Candidates to Report for Workouts

Preparing for the indoor track schedule, which will be announced soon after the first of December, Track Coach Ed Weir this week took over full charge of the squad and has been putting his tracksters through light workouts.

The indoor track in the stadium has been put in shape and Coach Weir is anxious for track men to report and get in shape. He is particularly interested in having all prospective sprinters, high jumpers, and hurdlers report, for these positions were left wide open after last year's graduation.

The cross country team has already been in competition this fall and is being allowed to rest for several weeks along with the football men on the track squad.

As I See It by June Bierbower

Halt, all ye heathens, and read this carefully!...

Word has come that some people misunderstood the all Big Six team which appeared in this column yesterday. It was absolutely not mine. Mr. C. E. McBride of the Kansas City Star has the dubious distinction of creating it.

If I picked a team with Kinnison of Missouri instead of Charley Brock at center; with no Nebraska man on the first team, and like Mr. McBride's in general, first thing I'd do would be to visit a brain specialist.

The idea was to emphasize the fact that Mr. McBride seemed to be boycotting the Huskers—only 5 of 48 men mentioned are from Nebraska, but evidently it wasn't made clear that he and this column are very much in disagreement. Maybe the above little essay will explain it.

That November upswing by the Huskers did get some notice, the Associated Press' final football ratings show. Nebraska, along with Mississippi, received a total of 8 points in the reckonings, and that the two teams in a tie for 21st and 22nd in the nation—if the AP ranks them that far down. Anyway, they drew more points than North Carolina, Vanderbilt, undefeated Georgetown, Clemson (who beat Tulane), Army, Stanford, Purdue, Iowa State and Southern Methodist.
