Miss Amanda Heppner to Retire From Office Feb. 1 General Shake-up Comes To Several Instructional, Administrative Divisions

Registration Will To Start Monday

Early Enrollment Period Ends Saturday

Students will start the semi-annual rush to see deans and advisers tomorrow morning as registration for the second semester of 1938-39 is opened. The early registration period applies only to students registered for University credit who must file the usual "application for registration" in addition to the school of music registration.

Bulletins giving the schedule of classes for the second semester and detailed instructions for enrolling are available in the office of the registrar. In these booklets, a list of the consultation hours of all deans and advisers during the early registration period is given.

Ends Saturday Noon.
Between tomorrow and Saturday noon, Jan. 14, students will see deans and professors and at the end of that time must have filed their applications in the office of the deans of their colleges. Payment of fees will take place between Jan. 20 and Jan. 26.

All students who plan to ask for any particular section of any subject should register on either Monday or Tuesday, it was announced, because many sections will be closed before Wednesday morning and then it will be impossible to grant the requests of students who ask for special schedules.

"Two-Fifths" Rule.
Students, as usual, must comply with the "two-fifths" rule which states that all students must have two-fifths of their classes in the afternoon. If for any reason a student cannot comply with this rule when such classes are available, he will be required to secure the written approval of the chairman of the assignment committee before his registration will be accepted at the dean's office.

One o'clock classes fill more rapidly than any others mentioned in the "two-fifths" rule and therefore, so far as possible, advisors are urged to avoid assigning students to these sections when others are available.

Late Fees.
A late fee will be charged all students who do not see their advisors and whose applications are not in the offices of their respective deans by Jan. 14 at noon, and also those who do not pay their fees by Jan. 26. A late fee for graduate students and Lincoln city teachers will be charged after Feb. 11.

Prof. Views Metal 'Prints'

Prof. W. F. Weiland of the mechanical engineering department, discussing the "fingerprinting" of metals yesterday stated that impurities, which may be harmful, may be readily detected by looking at the metal through the lens of a microscope.

Speaking before the interprofessional institute meeting, Dr. Weiland went on to say that by means of a microscope, the exact position and distributions of the impurities could be discovered and that the soundness of welds could be determined, which would make a more perfect welding technique.

We Do Need a New Library

As One-Tenth of the Annual Volume Total Goes into Storage Each Year

The university library is fast becoming a transient residence for books and magazines. Basis for this statement can be found by surveying the following facts related by C. S. Graham, head of the circulation department, and Stephen A. McCarthy, assistant director of libraries:

1. Practically all volumes containing specialized subject matter such as referred to by professors and graduate students have already been moved from the library to locked storage rooms in Social Science and Law;
2. The library moves books yearly from its own shelves to other storage space, and the most recent book emigration included many volumes of general subject matter which undergraduates may be obliged to refer to for term papers;
3. Books and magazines amounting to 12,000 bound volumes are purchased every year by the library in order to maintain modern standards;
4. The total capacity of the library is about 120,000 bound

Rokahr Firm To Build New Dorm Units

Contract for $140,355; Construction to Start As Soon as Possible

Ernest Rokahr & Sons, Lincoln construction firm, was awarded the general contract for construction of the two new dorm units to the north of Carrie Belle-Raymond hall by the University Dormitory corporation Saturday afternoon.

The contract was for $140,355. In the base bids submitted, the Rokahr firm was low with a bid of $167,900. Since this was considerably above the university estimate of $144,000, alternate bids had to be tabulated. The contract price was then determined by making deductions from the base bids thru changing the type of roof construction, type of finish, elimination of elevators, etc., without impairing the value of the building.

Begin at Once.
Construction is expected to start as soon as possible. Excavations for the two new buildings have already been completed. Other bidders for the contract were A. Borchman Sons, Omaha, Gilmore Co., Omaha, Kinginger Construction Co., Lincoln, Olson Construction Co., Lincoln, and Peter Kiewit Sons, Omaha.

Stanley D. Long of Grand Island was re-elected president of the dormitory corporation for the coming year. Dr. A. C. Stokes of Omaha was elected vice president in place of Frank J. Taylor of St. Paul.

Book Critic To Address Uni Convo

Sterling North Speaks On Modern Authors At Temple Jan. 16

Sterling North, a leading literary critic of today and literary editor of the Chicago Daily News, will address an all University convocation in the Temple the morning of Jan. 16. "Books and Our Times" is the subject of his speech which will contain personal anecdotes of such characters as Alexander Woolcott, Gertrude Stein, Carl Sandburg, H. G. Wells and other world renowned writers.

Having covered every sort of assignment for the Daily News from gang slayings to golden weddings, North is an all-around newspaper man. As a leg man on the News staff, one of his jobs was to meet all the trains. This gave him the opportunity of meeting many celebrities—movie stars, royalty, champions, and others.

Writing has been North's chief interest. His first book was "The Pedro Gorino." For the past five years he has been the literary editor on the staff of the Chicago paper. Today his criticisms are widely quoted throughout the country. From time to time whole pages from his reviews have been used in book advertisements in leading publications.

As North is the first literary critic to speak at a convocation in some time, Dr. H. W. Stokes, chairman, expects one of the largest audiences of the year.

THE WEATHER

If you haven't planned anything else by this time, remember that this afternoon is a good time for a picnic. Even in January, the weather department is kind enough to say that the weather will be balmy—clear and warm.

Players Open Noel Coward Acts Jan. 10

Uni Actors Present Three One-Act Plays For January Show

Three all-student casts, totaling 15 actors, have been announced by the University Players for "Tonight at 8:30" program of three one-act plays by Noel Coward, which opens in the Temple Tuesday. The plays are "Ways and Means," "The Astonished Heart" and "Fumed Oak."

Taking leading roles in "Ways and Means" as Stella and Toby Cartwright, a pair of perennial guests, are Doris Poellet and Don Meier. Other characters are Olive Lloyd-Ransome, played by Grace E. Hill; Murdoch, by John Williams, and Stevens, by LaRue Sorrell.

Other Leads.
The feminine spotlight in "The Astonished Heart" is divided between Claudine Burt and Marjorie Bannister as Lenora Vail, seductive grass widow, and Barbara Faber, understanding wife, respectively. Leading man is Ray Brown as Chris Faber, wayward psychiatrist. Remaining roles are filled by Libby Blazkovec as Susan Birch, Jon Pruden as Tim Verney and Irvin Roeser as Ernest.

In "Fumed Oak," Virginia Nolte characterizes a nagging wife in the part of Doris Gow while John Gaeth is Henry, the long suffering husband. Mrs. Rocket is the too typical mother-in-law, played by Lillian Blazkovec, and Rilla Mae Nevin takes the part of Elsie.

Each of the graduates who makes the highest score among the contestants of his school, may be awarded one of these scholarships.

Alternates for scholarship awards may be designated among the contestants who have not been declared scholarship winners. In case the winner cannot make use of it. However, no contestant can be designated as an alternate if his score is lower than that of the lowest winner, and in any one high school alternates may not be designated in greater number relative to the number in the graduating class of the school than is indicated as follows:

From 2 to 25 graduates, 1 alternate
From 26 to 50 graduates, 2 alternates
From 51 to 100 graduates, 3 alternates
From 101 to 200 graduates, 4 alternates
From 201 to 300 graduates, 5 alternates
From 301 to 500 graduates, 7 alternates

Each scholarship awarded must be used by the winner in the academic year beginning in September, immediately following his graduation from high school.

If a recipient is unable to enter the university or does not wish to make entrance for the first semester, but is able to enter for the second semester of the school year following graduation from high school, he may use the scholarship for the second semester only.

Union Brings Melodrama

Old Melodies Revived At Thriller Today

Bonnie Parsons, Lincoln songbird, accompanied by the familiar barbershop quartet, will revive a number of the more tender and ancient melodies of a generation ago when the Union sponsored melodrama is presented on the screen this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Plenty of hair raising excitement is promised to those who view "Westbound Limited," a genuine five reel thriller of the dusky past. Fans are urged to vent their emotions when the villain almost but not quite captures the fair maiden and suddenly the hero and Romeo appears to foil blackheart's plans again.

Gedney Dancing.
Two Nebraska students, Irving Kullback and Tommy Kronk, former professional dancers, will exhibit a few of the intricate steps that were the rage of 30 years ago. Kronk, who danced to national fame, does a comedy dance which he originated last year while performing in a Los Angeles night club.

This is the first attempt to present such novel entertainment at Nebraska, though many shows of this kind have been enjoyed by students on the Wisconsin campus.

In addition to several chants and responses, the newly redecorated hall room will add to the attractiveness of the service, the new coloring and lighting effects giving the room an atmosphere conducive to the program. Stations KOIL and KPOR will broadcast the service.

AWS Backs Prof-Student Discussions

Informal 'Get-Togethers' To Be Held Each Week

University professors will hobnob with students at weekly "coffee" to be held on Wednesday afternoons in the Union, according to plans announced yesterday by the Associated Women Students board. First of these affairs will be held this Wednesday from 3:30 to 4:30 o'clock in Parlors A, B and C at the Union with all university students and professors being invited.

The "coffee," sponsored jointly by the A. W. S. board and the Union, will be given in the hopes of stimulating closer faculty-student relationship on the campus. Although this will mark the first time the plan has been tried on this campus, it has met with outstanding success at the Universities of Wisconsin and Washington.

Janet Lau and Irene Sellers of the A. W. S. board, will be in charge of arrangements. Kenneth Van Sant, Union director, commented, "It sounds like a good idea to me and I hope that the students will take advantage of this opportunity to meet with the faculty informally."

College Is the Spice of Life

As Dr. Werkmeister Ascertain on Perusing Intelligence Test Results

Who is the honorary colonel? Who is the vice president of the United States? How is F. Donald Coster related to Philip Musica? What is the Awgwan? What is the started from," was the optimistic report of Dr. W. H. Werkmeister as he totaled the results of a general intelligence test which he gave to freshmen, sophomores, juniors, seniors, and graduate students in his philosophy classes.

Starting were the answers revealed to many of the 50 questions which pertained to anything from foreign affairs to campus socialites. But the amazing and amusing revelation was that the seniors and freshmen had usually the same grade, while the sophomores and juniors took a decided slump.

Who Edits the Rag?
Only 25 percent of the freshmen, 33 percent of the sophomores, 50 percent of the juniors, and 50 percent of the seniors knew about the name of the editor of the Daily Nebraskan. However, others were under the illusion that the university daily was headed by Patricia LaRue, Morris Kaplan, Peg Pascoe, Helen Pascoe, and Marjorie.

Freshmen stood high on the question of what recently happened at Lima, Peru, when 45 percent knew about the Pan-American congress. Seniors trailed the group at 25 percent.

Question missed most often was what star is closest to the earth, with not one sophomore or junior knowing the right answer; questions which were most easily answered by all of the students were
