Versatile Critic North Speaks Monday on Books, Authors

Variety Adds Spice To Litterateur's Life

Students attending the convocation, Monday morning, will not just hear a certain Sterling North who speaks on books and authors.

They will hear a novelist, a critic, and a poet, who, at the age of 32 years, is the author of nine books, published both here and abroad, and who, for the past five years, has been literary editor of the Chicago Daily News.

North was born on the shores of Lake Koshkonong in southern Wisconsin, scene of his two best novels, "Plowing on Sunday" and "Night Outlasts the Whip-poor-will."

He was educated at the University of Chicago where he edited the campus literary magazine and sold his poetry to such eastern magazines as The Nation, the Dial, and Harpers.

He married his childhood sweetheart, when they were 20. At the age of 22 their first child was born on the day North's first book, "The Pedro Gorino," was published.

Meanwhile, he was making his way through school spraying paint on Fisher bodies, truck gardening, clerking behind a cigar counter, keeping books for a big sanitarium, and free lance writing.

Versatile Reporter.

Nine years ago he joined the staff of the Daily News as a cub reporter. He has covered every sort of assignment from gang slayings to golden weddings, and from night police to getting cats out of trees and dogs out of manholes.

He has numerous personal anecdotes to tell on Alexander Woollcott, Gertrude Stein, John Galsworthy, Carl Sandburg, H. G. Wells, Sackville West, and many. See LITERATEUR on page 2.

Police Find Boy Thieves

First Name of Youth Aids in Detection

Police cleared up Wednesday's sorority house thefts by taking into custody two youthful magazine solicitors on the clue furnished by a Delta Gamma who interrupted the boys at "work" in the DG house.

Margaret Krause, arriving home a little late for supper, heard footsteps down the back stairs and heard a boy's voice shout "Come on Bob, let's get out of here!" After this was reported, Officer McGee of the university police checked with the news agency and found only one person with that first name listed there.

Money Recovered.

A cruiser was dispatched to the address given at the agency and two boys, aged 13 and 14, were picked up and confessed to the thefts from both the Delta Gamma and Kappa Delta houses.

When the boys were arrested one had $8.40 on his person and the other $6.75. In addition to the Wednesday night thefts, the boys admitted taking $2 from 1545 S one night last week.

Among the boys' possessions were small articles from Western Auto Supply, Rudge and Guenzels, Kresge's, and Sears and Roebuck. The boys appear in court this morning for trial.
