Husker-Hoosier, Okla.-SMU games headline Big Six card

Big Six football opened Saturday afternoon as Jim Yeager's green Iowa State crew polished off little Coe College, 19-0. Yeager used his first string but a small part of the time, as sophomores, led by Bob Seaburg and Jack Wallace, did most of the work.

This weekend, however, the lid really blows off as all six teams go into action, with the two leading games coming between Nebraska's Cornhuskers and Indiana at Bloomington, and between the Oklahoma Sooners and Southern Methodist at Norman.

Sooners favored.

The Sooners, who will be watched to see if they can duplicate their performances of last year which put them among the ranks of the nation's leading teams, will be favored to beat S. M. U., while pre-game dope figures the Husker-Indiana game as a toss-up.

Iowa State goes after Denver university Friday night as Kansas U. tackles Drake. The Big Six teams have drawn the favorite's role in both cases. The Drake game will be the first time out for Gwinn Henry as coach of a Kansas team.

Kansas State takes on a warmup opponent in Fort Hayes, and should win, although the Hayes team has often caused the Wildcats no little embarrassment. The other game on the schedule finds Don Faurot's Missouri team going into action against Colorado. Missouri won 14-7 last year, and Paul Christman and his gang should better that this year in spite of a big flock of sophomore talent at Boulder.

Oklahoma fans may need at least 2,000 tickets

Bill Cross, Oklahoma athletic business manager, has just thrown John K. Selleck, Nebraska business manager, for a 1,500 ticket loss. Instead of the usual 500 allotted to the Oklahomans, 2,000 reserved seat ducats and 50 box seats were asked by Cross.

Selleck immediately withdrew from sale the balance of the available tickets in the west stadium, and is holding them subject to the Oklahoma business manager's order. Of the total of 50 boxes in the west stadium, 48 have been sold to season book buyers, and the two remaining ones are located one at each end of the field. Cross says if the Nebraska-Oklahoma game, to be played in Lincoln on Nov. 25, decided the Big Six championship, two thousand tickets won't be enough for Oklahomans.

More than 50,000 degrees have been granted University of Wisconsin students in the 85 years since first Pres. John Lathrop handed the first graduating senior his diploma in 1854.

gave his end and backfield units a long workout on passes, both on the offense and defense. Line Coach Lyman had his charges working on blocking and tackling as well as formation drill.

Four teams were running thru formations and plays, and smoothing out individual assignments. Spinners, power plays, and end runs were stressed by the major in the workout. A short scrimmage is on deck for Tuesday with light workouts due Wednesday and Thursday.

Seemann ready.

George Seemann, who has been on the shelf with a knee injury, will be ready for action by Saturday. Vic Schleich, tackle candidate, who was injured in Saturday's scrimmage, was in sweat clothes. Forrest Behm varsity tackle, missed practice yesterday, Behm is confined at home with a slight illness, but should report this afternoon. Unless other injuries are sustained, the squad should entrain for Bloomington in good physical shape.

Coach Ed Weir to reach America Thursday or Friday

Ed Weir, Husker coach, is finally on the high seas, and the ship carrying him and his track team will dock Thursday night or Friday morning, according to word received by his wife from Dan Ferris, secretary of the national AAU.

Weir, who has been coaching the American track team which toured Europe this summer, was stranded in France with his charges until recently. He plans to take a plane as soon as his ship lands for Bloomington, Indiana, to see the Husker-Indiana game Saturday.

games, track meets, baseball games, wrestling and swimming meets.

Approximately 12,500 season tickets have been sold to the general public thus far this year. The number of reservations this year are little changed from a similar period last year, as many of the reservations for this year were made last year.

Mr. Selleck mentioned that when the 5,000 tickets ordered by Minnesota and the 2,000 ordered by Oklahoma are deducted, only a small percentage will remain. Tickets are still available for home games at the athletic office, and will soon be available for out of town games, although Mr. Selleck warns that good seats are going fast.
