

Adamic speaks at convocation today; Kosmet Klub to hold fall show Nov. 18

Skit plans must be filed by Oct. 21

Group urges that work on entries be rushed for first review Oct. 24

The annual Kosmet Klub Fall Revue will be held Saturday afternoon, Nov. 18, it was announced by members of the men's dramatic organization following a meeting Tuesday evening.

Fraternities, sororities and other organized houses contemplating entering the show must have outlines of their acts filed in the Kosmet Klub office, room 305 of the Union, by 5 o'clock Saturday, Oct. 21.

According to members of the club, work on the skits will have to be rushed as the opening date is only a month off. Judging of the skits will be Tuesday, Oct. 24. This is a preliminary review, according to Roy Proffitt, president. There will be later judgments, but the date has not yet been set.

New Sweetheart presentation

Entries should include, if possible, an idea of the general theme of the skit, the approximate number and names of persons participating and the name and phone number of the skit master. Skits may be full length stage acts or shorter curtain numbers.

Presentation of the Nebraska Sweetheart, to be elected in the near future, will be original and more dramatic than in former years according to early reports. Last year, Jeanne Newell was presented as Sweetheart to a packed house.

The various committees appointed to handle the comic revue are as follows:

On stage properties are Ralph Reed, George Frischer and Leo Cooksey; tryouts, Grant Thomas, John Mason, George Frischer, Carl Harnsberger and Frank Coufal; presentation, Jean Wolf, John Mason and Clyde Martz; tickets, Grant Thomas and Elton Wiley; ushers, Orval Hager and Dwight Bureny; program, Irvin Sherman and Robert Adee; publicity, Clyde Martz. Proffitt announced a meeting of workers at 5 o'clock Thursday in the Union. All eligible men are welcome to this meeting.

NEWS COMMENT

Scandinavian countries will set policy

German trade missions meet Balkan reverses in getting raw materials

By Steele and Woerner.

The opinions expressed in this column are solely those of its writers and do not reflect the attitude of the DAILY. This paper invites comment on these and all subjects. They must be signed and are not to exceed 300 words. Ed.

Small German advances in the west, Nazi air raids on the British fleet, a conference of Nordic powers to discuss neutrality and trade, ending of Russo-Turkish negotiations and continued activity of the blockading British fleet sums up recent happenings on the war front.

A Finnish question as to how much aid the Scandinavian countries will give her if she must fight awaits the northern neutrals as the Danish, Norwegian and Swedish kings and the president of Finland meet at Stockholm to talk over their problems. The Nordics are concerned deeply, but will probably stress peaceful compromises and play down forceful measures.

Whatever the Scandinavian countries decide to do, the Russians, more than ten times as numerous, will not be greatly influenced. The U. S. plea for Finland was answered by the Reds today with a curt reference to the 1920 treaty guaranteeing Finland's independence.

Gostas new annual editor

1940 Cornhusker first to include barb section

George Gostas will hold the new position of barb editor on the 1940 Cornhusker. This year, for the first time, there will be a complete section for barbs in the annual, comparable to that of the sororities and fraternities. Pictures and stories concerning the various barb activities, social and athletic, will be included in these pages.

Daily sittings for Cornhusker photographs topped all previous highs yesterday, when 75 had pictures taken. As yet no appointments are necessary. Editor Hager asserts, but if numbers continue to soar it will not be long until sittings will have to be arranged for in advance.

With less than half a month left prior to the deadlines, it is important that all juniors, seniors, and members of organized houses have pictures taken at once.

Deadline for fraternity and sorority pictures is November 1, and the deadline for junior and senior pictures is Nov. 15.

Loeffel will talk at packers meet

A college of agriculture faculty member will address the annual convention of the Institute of American Meat Packers in Chicago on Saturday, Oct. 21. He is Prof. William J. Loeffel, acting chairman of the department of animal husbandry.

Homer Davison, vice president of the institute, extended the invitation to Prof. Loeffel to appear on the program. He will speak about: "Our Changing Livestock Production." The Nebraskan will stress changes in livestock and meat quality as a result of recent climatic conditions and also as a result of the increased use of forage.

Parking survey shows need of new roads on city campus

Part of the newly approved grant for campus improvements is to go for new drives and roads on the city campus. This announcement precedes by two days the findings of a DAILY investigation of campus parking conditions.

Complaint of nearly every student who drives a car is that it is almost impossible to find a parking space anywhere near the building where he has a class.

Figures from university traffic officials show that around 700 parking permits have been issued to faculty members and there are only about 300 spaces reserved for them.

F. L. Seaton, operating superintendent, says that Nebraska students are better off, nevertheless, than students on most campuses. Many schools do not even allow students to drive and park on the campus without a special permit.

Lincoln people take spaces.

Much space that would be open to students is taken by Lincoln people who leave their cars on the campus, especially along R street, to avoid city parking regulations. This charge has long been made and has been found to be true by the DAILY. One authority believes these outsiders might be ruled off the campus since it is state property.

Faculty members have a slight advantage over students when looking for parking space. They See PARKING, Page 3.

Russia topic of Dr. Fellman at war forum

Speaker will discuss question of natural enmity with Germany

"Russia and the War" will be the subject of the fourth Student Union war forum today when Dr. David Fellman of the political science department takes the floor.

Beginning at 4 p. m. in parlors XYZ, the forum will draw a comparison between the actions of Stalin today and the policy to which the Communist party has subscribed in the past. Dr. Fellman will take up the question of whether Russia and Germany are really natural enemies as indicated both historically and geographically. The interests of Russia, in the Baltic states and possible expansion moves there will also be included in the discussion.

All students are invited to attend the forum and participate in the usual roundtable discussion to be held following Dr. Fellman's talk. Sponsored by the college of arts and sciences and the Union, the forum series is designed to give university students a more adequate understanding and background for the current developments in the European war.

Rifles discuss organizing plans

Tentative plans for the organization of the local company of Pershing Rifles were discussed at the first regular meeting of the unit which was held yesterday afternoon in Nebraska Hall. The problem of following the old or the new drill procedure was also discussed.

Captain Bob Pillsbury announced the election of Frank Protzman and Orpha Anderson to the rank of 2nd lieutenant at a special meeting held last Thursday. One of the new 2nd lieutenants fills the vacancy created by the advancement of Harry Seagren to 1st lieutenant upon the failure of Frank Burdell to return to school.

All actives, pledges and members of the training unit will report at the next meeting of Pershing Rifles which will be held Thursday at 5 in Nebraska Hall. Freshmen and sophomores interested in pledging Pershing Rifles should report for trials, which are to be at 5 Thursday in Nebraska Hall.

Social work topic of forum

Second vocational meet scheduled Thursday at 7

Professional social work will be the general topic discussed this evening during the second of a series of vocational forums sponsored by the freshman advisors office.

Among the speakers scheduled to address the forum, which begins at 7 in social science 101, are Miss Mildred Biklen, director of public assistance for the State of Nebraska; Mr. Philip Vogt, district field supervisor for the state department of public assistance; and Paul Josephson, executive director of the council of social agencies of Omaha.

Miss Biklen will discuss social work as a profession, touching upon such matters as the number of people employed, the salaries and working conditions and the importance of graduate professional training.

Mr. Vogt will discuss social work programs and social work employment in government service and Mr. Josephson will deal with opportunities for employment as a social worker by voluntary or private agencies. Professor Glick of the university's graduate school of social work will preside at the meeting.

Author to give immigrant's views on U.S.

year to be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the Temple theater. The convocation, which will be open to the public, will be presided over by Prof. Karl Arndt, convocation chairman.

Adamic, sometimes regarded as an unofficial spokesman for some 38 million immigrants and their descendants who have entered this country during the last 100 years, is the author of such books as "My America," "The Native's Return," and "Laughing in the Jungle."

To write another book.

The visiting speaker has traveled 100,000 miles across the United States since he came to the United States in 1913. Before achieving fame as an author, he held a rapid succession of various jobs in scattered parts of the country.

During the next few years Adamic expects to travel another 100,000 miles collecting material for his next book, "A Nation of Nations." In this volume he will show the cultural contributions of some fifty nationalities and racial groups which have gone into the making of modern industrial America.

CAA flying school open to 10 more

Physical examination, tests, requirements for taking course

Ten more persons will be allowed to take the flying instruction offered this year by the university and the Civil Aeronautics Authority, Dean Ferguson, of the college of engineering, announced yesterday.

The course is available to all students above the rank of freshman who can pass the physical examination and whose scholastic standing is high. A $40 laboratory fee will be charged as laboratory dues first semester, covering the cost of the course, and medical and insurance protection. No charge will be made second semester.

"There have been so many late requests for consideration that we have decided to reopen filing privileges, and will now receive new applications until our numbers are complete," the dean said. "Applications will be acted upon in the order of their receipt."
