

on ag campus

Ag Campus Editor..... Rex Brown

Reporters—on this issue—Elsie Tomach Randall Pratt Leo Cooksley Keith Gilmore Rosemary Kane.

Queen filings for ag formal close Oct. 24

Candidates will meet with executive board; eligibility rules listed

Filings for Farmer's Formal queen will close next Tuesday, Oct. 24, at 5 p. m., Keith Gilmore, president of the ag executive board, said today, as he announced the eligibility rules for the event, scheduled Friday evening, Oct. 27.

A meeting will be held in ag hall at that time for all candidates, Gilmore indicated, emphasizing that it is necessary that all those wishing to have their names on the ballot be present. Names of girls not present at the meeting will be removed from the ballot, even if they meet all eligibility requirements.

All eligible women will be notified in the next few days and will have the opportunity to accept or reject the nomination.

Presentation of the queen, highlight of ag's biggest fall event, will be in charge of Gwen Jack and Oscar Tegmeier, ag executive board members. The idea of the presentation will be kept secret until the night of the formal.

Rules governing election of the Farmer's Formal queen:

1. Only undergraduates girls who are enrolled in the college of agriculture and who have completed not less than 89 credit hours with an average of 80 or above may be candidates.
2. A candidate must be carrying successfully, not less than 12 credit hours and must have completed at least 27 credit hours at the university during the preceding two semesters.
3. The names of all girls, meeting the above requirements, will be filed as candidates in the office of the dean of the college of agriculture unless they indicate otherwise when notified by the Farmer's Formal presentation committee. Withdrawals may not be made later than 5 p. m. on the Tuesday immediately preceding the Farmer's Formal.
4. The Farmer's Formal queen shall be elected by the men who attend the formal. One ballot shall be given to each couple at the door.
5. The voting shall begin at 8:30 p. m. and cease at 9:30 p. m.
6. The ballots shall be counted by the chairman and co-chairman of the Farmer's Formal. One of the faculty sponsors of the ag executive board shall be present to supervise the counting of the ballots.
7. The presentation committee of the Farmer's Formal, supervised by one of the faculty sponsors of the ag executive board, shall decide by chance which candidate is elected in case the balloting results in a tie.

Judging team places fourth

The University of Nebraska meats judging team placed fourth in the intercollegiate contest held at Kansas City Tuesday in connection with the American Royal stock show, according to word received at the college of agriculture late yesterday.

Marvin Kruse was Nebraska's high individual, ranking eighth in the contest. Paul Fidler and Eric Thor were the other members of the team. Prof. Ross H. Miller is the team coach.

Berggren heads ag game club

Eunice Berggren was elected president of the Game Leadership club, ag hobby group, at the club's first meeting of the year Tuesday evening in ag hall. She succeeds Howard Gillaspie. Pearl Janda was elected secretary and Eugene Smith secretary. Game Leadership is one of several hobby groups sponsored on ag campus by the creative activities board.

Ralph Copenhaver, recreation specialist with the extension service, outlined recreational ideas that the club might use, and announced a new class to be offered next semester, "Rural Organization and Recreation." Copenhaver and Newton W. Gaines, extension community organization specialist, will handle the teaching of the course, designed to give ag students a chance to learn the fundamentals of directing recreation.

The Game Leadership club is open to all ag students interested, the president emphasized. Members will have an opportunity to make equipment for such games as Chinese checkers, plan parties, and learn the principles of make-up. Meetings will be held the second and fourth Tuesday of each month at 7 p. m. in ag hall.

Harrison, Wishnow play

Earnest Harrison, pianist, and Emanuel Wishnow, violinist, appeared recently in a recital over KFOR for the Lincoln Symphony drive.

Scene on ag campus

Catharine Titterington looking a bit worried, not because Otto Pfeiffer has gone to San Francisco to judge dairy cattle, but because it is rumored that the team plans to stop in Hollywood on their way back. Also Betty Jo Smith is wondering just how long it will take her to persuade Keith Gilmore that there is more to ag college than just livestock.

Grace Pitcaithley brushing up a bit on "school of the soldier" by watching Milton Monson drill freshman.

Bob Wheeler and Betty Dunn being ever so serious again this year. Confidentially, it looks like cigars.

Ruth Ann Sheldon trying to inveigle Glen "Eggs" Thacker into coming to the library—to study??

Keith Reeder gathering acorns. But just in case any of you began to wonder, the acorns are for the horticulture department—so it

Tri-K to open year's activities

Members of the Tri-K, agronomy club, will open their year of activities Thursday evening when President Harold Schudel outlines plans in a regular meeting at 7:30 p. m.

Other officers who will help direct club activities for the year are David McGill, vice president; Ted Johnston, secretary, and John Lonquist, treasurer.

may not be a hard winter after all.

And Bob Colborn, ACBC, passed the cigars Monday evening to keep up the ag cigar-passing record. The lady in the case is Gentry Hobson from his home town, Hardy, according to his ACBC pals.

At least four men brought back souvenirs from Kansas City that made them rise up in the world. Wayne Smiley, Eric Thor, Keith Gilmore and Ed Rousek all trekked down and bought themselves new boots, the kind with high heels, at that. Might be since they're livestock judges, cowmen's boots will help a little.

Coll-Agri-Fun show date set for Nov. 18

Skit and curtain act plans must be submitted at deans office by Oct. 23

Coll-Agri-Fun, annual ag college stunt night, will be held Nov. 18, Louise Turner, manager, announces. Tryouts are to be held Oct. 31, and a legible plan of the skits and acts must be in Dean Burr's office by 5 p. m., Oct. 23.

This annual fall show, in which ag organizations and students take part, will consist of two divisions—skits and curtain acts according to announcement.

Louise Turner is manager of the Coll-Agri-Fun board. Floyd Olson has charge of the makeup committee. Stage manager is Milo Tesar. Marian Smrha is in charge of ticket sales and Vivian Brown is chairman of the orchestra and chaperons committee. George Gooding directs publicity.

Sale! Specially Purchased! 65 Beautifully Furred WINTER COATS

Regularly Much Higher Priced

$48

TRIMMED WITH

- Jap Mink
- Tip Skunk
- Red Fox
- Grey Squirrel
- Natural Wolf
- Kolinsky
- Persian

These superb coats are elaborately treated with handsome furs—at a sensationally low special purchase price. Box and fitted styles, with front borders, plastrons, new square collars and tuxedos, in quality woolens, all heavily interlined. The colors are black, teal, wine and brown. Sizes for misses and women.

She will appreciate one of these musical

POWDER BOXES

It Plays—

"THERE IS NO PLACE LIKE LIKE NEBRASKA"

Beautiful Colors

Special order from Switzerland.

There will be no more this year.

Priced As Low As $2.95

Boyd
Club Plan Jeweler
1144 O STREET

Ben Simon & Sons