Top-rate films show on all screens

By Morton Margolin.

Avid cinema fans who read the Hollywood gossip columns and wait with interest for the more publicized pictures will find their desires gratified this week-end, for today the local theatres open with several of the season's most highly publicized films.

Set against the background of England's Cornwall coast, "Jamaica Inn," the long awaited British production starring Charles Laughton, offers thrills and romance to the theatre goer. The film, which opens at the Stuart today, tells the story of the lawless days at the turn of the last century when pirates on both land and sea attacked ships for the sake of plunder.

The picture stars Maureen O'Hara and Robert Newton, a couple determined to bring the wreckers to justice. They appeal to a local squire, Charles Laughton, for assistance. It is not until they narrowly escape death at the hands of the wreckers that they discover that Laughton is the secret leader of the band.

Fans who have complained that the dead end kids have been spoiled by Hollywood and that they have lost their spontaneity since their first picture, will admit that the kids are just as good as ever after they see the sextet in their newest picture, "Angels Wash Their Faces," now showing at the Varsity. The film stars Ann Sheridan and Ronald Regan.

Hollywood's best efforts have been poured into the production of "Babes In Arms," now showing at the Nebraska. As a result the piece is one of the best examples of musical review to come out of Hollywood for many months. Starring Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, the film tells the story of the era when vaudeville passed out of popularity and left thousands of actors without jobs. Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, children of unemployed vaudeville artists take matters in their own hands and stage a show of their own.

Rodgers and Hart wrote the musical score for the film which includes such numbers as "My
