Christmas celebrations rule campus

Altho it doesn't seem as tho there were just EIGHT more shopping days until Christmas, the entire campus has scheduled parties to celebrate said season—or vacation. At Raymond and Love halls there was a pajama party last night; before the program a house meeting was held, and then a Christmas skit for entertainment with refreshments following.

At the Theta Xi house Sunday afternoon is the date chosen for a Christmas party for 15 orphan boys. They will be entertained at dinner, and later Santa Claus will distribute gifts to the boys.

ON MONDAY NIGHT

the Sigma Nu's will entertain orphans at a Christmas party. A gift exchange will follow. Also on Monday is the AOPi Christmas party with a gift exchange, and on Tuesday afternoon the chapter will entertain the children of AOPi alumnae. Tuesday night climaxes a busy day when the sisters of actives and pledges will be entertained at the AOPi house for dinner.

At the Gamma Phi house there will be a party for a group of poor children; on Tuesday night the Gamma Phi's will entertain their little sisters at dinner. Phi Sigma Kappa will hold their Christmas dinner on Tuesday, followed by a party for actives and pledges. On Monday.

Among Theta Xi's and dates will be Dale Anderson and Jean Ludwick, Tri Delt; Herb Williams and Ruth Chapman, Alpha Phi; Jim Bucher and Susan Shaw, Pi Phi; Don Coder and Georgia Swallow, Pi Phi; and Gordon Worley with Geneva Baker.

benefits, and numbers WPA among them, but reminds "the colonel" that few, if any, states have shown the same conservative tendency in administration of WPA funds as has the "white spot."

"I'M TIRED" AGAIN.

Speculation arose in Nebraska today over the political future of her foremost statesman, Senator George W. Norris. Returning to his home state for the first time in two years, the Senator remarked, "I have no intention of entering the legislature. When I finish my term I will have had enough of public life. In fact, I've had enough right now. I'm tired."

The last time Norris made such a statement was in 1932, two years before one of his most vigorous campaigns for reelection. His present term expires in 1942. Meanwhile the state's political spotlight is focused on the race for Senator Burke's seat which will be settled next fall. The chief participants in this race, at present, include the incumbent, Governor R. L. Cochran, and Hugh Butler, Omaha grain man and ex-Republican National Committeeman.
