

Wildcat quint invades NU tonight

The DAILY NEBRASKAN

by June Bierbower.

On last weekend's trip, George Seemann, Husker heavyweight, re-injured the knee which has hampered him throughout his athletic career and may be out for the season.

Royal Kahler, who wrestled for the Huskers in the opening meet of the season, and showed more strength than skill, will probably get the call against Bill Kusisto of the Gophers in an all-football windup.

Kusisto, a letterman from last year, was injured in practice, and wrestled in only one of the three meets, as he dropped a match to Johnson of Iowa. He was a regular guard on the Gopher football team last year. Leonard Levy, sophomore grid tackle, has been alternating with Kusisto, and wrestled at K-State last night.

Statistics: Nebraska, although the Husker basketball team is in the Big Six cellar, is in fourth place in points per game (last night's KU-Iowa State game not included) thus far and has second highest actual point total in the league.

The Huskers have averaged only 33.4-7 points a game at that, as Oklahoma, with 300 points in seven games played thus far is the only team to go above the 40 mark. Missouri has hit at exactly 39 a clip, while before last night Kansas had 151 points in four games.

Nebraska has a better offensive average in conference play than tonight's opponents, the K-State Wildcats, but it's that old defensive count which stands out. Opposing teams have scored 288 points, or 41.4-7 per game against the Huskers, while in seven games

NU wrestling team faces powerful Minnesota squad after Kansas State game

Nebraska's luckless wrestling team, victorious over only Chicago in four starts, meets powerful Minnesota tonight after the Kansas State basketball game.

The Gophers, behind Capt. Dale Hanson, national collegiate 126-pound champion, faced Kansas State at Manhattan yesterday. They lost only four matches in their first three meets, blanking Carleton 38-0 in the first meet. They allowed Iowa State's rugged Cyclones only one decision in a 29-3 massacre, and hold a 19-9 win over Iowa University.

Gridders grapple.
Feature match in the evening will pit two football players in the heavyweight windup. George Seemann, Husker vet, will go against Butch Levy, 235 pound sophomore tackle. Levy, Leonard by name, is a former Minnesota high school, Minnesota AAU, and all-university champion, and holds a decision over Big Six champion Howard Buck.

The 121 pound division will pit Milt Kuska, who won decisions against his Michigan State and Chicago foes, against sophomore Cliff Perrizo. Perrizo won falls in the Carleton and Iowa State meets and a decision at Iowa.

Ed McConnell, first year Husker will go against Hanson at 128 pounds. Hanson last year was voted the outstanding collegiate wrestler in the NCAA meet, and has won 18 consecutive dual meet matches. He has defeated Ray Stone, Iowa State's Big Six champion. McConnell won his first match of the season in decisioning Pyle of Chicago.

Cockle faces Nemer.
George Cockle, Husker sophomore, goes against Maurice Nemer, Gopher junior, who was undefeated in his only matches previous to last night. Cockle won decisions at Michigan State and Chicago on the Huskers' road trip. Newton Cople, another Husker first year man, will face Jack Morton or Blaine McKusick in the 145 pound division. Cople won a K-State opposition has made 220. Oklahoma's Sooners, seemingly going on the old saying that the best defense is a good offense, have had the second highest point total in the league scored against them. Seven Sooner foes have hit 243 points. However, Iowa State, who won their first conference game against K-State last Friday night, allowed their foes 186 points in five games, so on that basis the Sooners are better than the Cyclones defensively.

Louise Pound goes east
Miss Louise Pound of the department of English left last night for Washington, D. C. to attend meetings of the executive committee of the American association of university women. She is national vice-president of the association. While in the east, Miss Pound will represent the Nebraska chapter at the annual dinner program of Phi Beta Kappa in New York City. She has been named one of the national sponsors of the event.

The Appalachian State Teachers college wrestling team has won 54 straight matches.

decision in the Chicago meet, while Morton, who won second place in the Big Ten at the 145 pound weight, sometimes moves up to the 155-pound class. McKusick is the son of a former Minnesota wrestling coach, and has won the two matches in which he has wrestled this season.

Ray Tomes, Nebraska veteran 155-pounder goes against Al Janesko, third place winner in the Big Ten last year. He holds a fall over veteran Gene Farrell of Iowa State. Tomes won the Huskers' only decision against the Iowa State Teachers.

Ruser wrestles.
The 165 pound division pits Dale Ruser against Lloyd Schumacher of Minnesota. Ruser won for the Huskers against Chicago, while Schumacher won his first three matches, two by falls. Al Mulliken, Husker 175 pounder, meets George Skogsvold who lost two of his first three matches by a decision, and won one. Mulliken has yet to win a match in varsity competition.

Track team's marks best in Big Six

Nebraska turned in the best marks of four Big Six teams in two meets last week end, as the Nebraska-Kansas and Iowa State-Missouri meets were run off.

Marks of the Lincoln meet as compared with those at Columbia show that the Husker's and Jayhawks made better marks in seven of 12 events.

Nebraska did better than Missouri in six of ten events, with Iowa State and Kansas State left out.

Better in highs.
Missouri, expected to be the Huskers' main threat in the indoor meet at Kansas City, March 9, was better than the Huskers in the high hurdles, the broad jump, the two mile, and the half mile. The Huskers, on the other hand, excelled the Tigers in the 60, the mile, the 440, the 60 yard lows, the shot put and pole vault. Comparative marks were not obtainable on the relay or high jump, as neither team won either event in its respective dual meet.

Outstanding fete of the Huskers was Harold Brooks' time in the mile which bettered that of Lonesome John Munsaki. Brooks had 4:22.1; Munsaki, 5:25.3.

Irv Yaffe to captain Nebraska

Don Fitz out but may appear at Iowa State; Kansas State crippled

The Big Six's two hard luck teams meet each other tonight as Kansas State's crippled Wildcats face the Huskers in Nebraska's next-last home game. K-State beat Nebraska at Manhattan last month.

A Husker win tonight coupled with a loss by Iowa State last night to Kansas would put Nebraska and K-State in a tie for fourth and fifth places in the league, but a loss for the Huskers would mire them deeper in the cellar.

IRVIN YAFFE
Journal Star.

Kansas State's latest blow came when it was learned Ervin Reid, ace center who injured his shoulder in the Oklahoma game will be unable to play against the Huskers. Forward Joe Robertson is out because of an ankle injury, and Ernie Miller, who had recovered from a broken jaw, sprained an ankle.

Fitz still out.
Don Fitz will not play against the Wildcats, altho Coach W. H. Browne has hopes that the tall guard will be able to play when the Huskers invade Iowa State this week end.

Bud Tallman, game captain, will start at one forward, with Irv Yaffe, who scored ten points against the Sooners, opposite him, in all probability, as Harry Pitcaithley, who has recovered from his back injury, is in a slump.

Tall Al Randall at center, and sophomores Sid Held and Hartmann Goetze at guards will complete the Huskers' starting lineup.

Forwards listed.
Dan Horacek and Chris Langvardt, who have scored 48 and 43 points respectively in seven games, will open for Kansas State at forwards. Wilbur Reed is slated to replace Reid at center, while Norris Holstrom and Melvin Seelye are the guards. Reserve strength of the K-State team is inexperienced, as the second Wildcat team is composed of forwards Garrett and Woolf, center Checksfield, and guards Guerrant and Graham, all who have seen but a few minutes of conference competition.

Lineups:

Nebraska	Kas. State
Tallman (c)	Horacek
Yaffe	Langvardt
Randall	Reed
Held	Seelye
Goetze	Holstrom

Irv Yaffe moves into third place in NU scoring

Irv Yaffe moved into third place in the Husker scoring column as he dumped in 10 points against Oklahoma to give him a season's total of 68 points. Al Randall's six points put him into a tie with inactive Don Fitz at 66 apiece, while Frank Tallman and Hartmann Goetze have 60 and 49 each.

Harry Pitcaithley and Sid Held, although they could get only three points between them at Oklahoma, still are in first and second, with 103 and 92 points respectively. Totals:
