

By June Bierbower.

We'll go out on the limb today, for want of something better to do and do a little prognosticating about the first round of Class A games in the state basketball tournament. They are: Creighton Prep over Hastings, Fremont over Norfolk, Sidney over North Platte, Jackson over Neb. City, Falls City over Albion, Grand Island over Scottsbluff, Lincoln over Schuyler, and Omaha Benson a weak vote over McCook.

Funniest thing that happened in the draw was when Hastings drew Prep. Hastings partisans had thought there was something stinky in Scandinavia in that Hastings and Prep always met in either the first or second rounds—didn't like the way the big wigs were "feeding" Hastings to Prep. So in this year's drawings, at which any and all could be present, who should be drawn out as Prep's opponent but Hastings.

Falls City, despite their loss to Jackson, is set on winning again. Jim Ramsey, the Richardson county sage, and quite a few others are picking them, with Bob Heinzelman back, they'll be sentimental favorites. Heinzelman didn't do much against Jackson, as Jug Brown had told him he'd jerk him if he mixed it up. The Falls Citizens tho, finished the year in great shape.

However, Falls City still has to prove it's better than undefeated Jackson, and if everything goes well, that test will come in the finals. Jackson's past due for a championship, but if Creighton Prep gets into the semifinals, the Uni Place team will have to get by them in a tough Friday night game. Prep lost to Falls City by just one point, so even discounting any surprising outsiders, it's pretty hard to pick a champion before the tournament starts.

Things we didn't have room for in yesterday's track meet gabfest: The Missourians didn't appear any too happy about the whole affair...so after the meet Saturday night several of the Huskers who were looking over the town met a group of the Tigers on the street...said Huskers, not entirely guilelessly, sang "There is no place like Nebraska" for their unwilling audience...the Missourians just tucked their chins in their chests, looked straight ahead, and walked on.

Fact that there wasn't a senior on the Husker squad, and that sophomores scored exactly 31 points for Nebraska Saturday night didn't cheer up opposing coaches...the four and one-fifth points scored by juniors came on Ed Wibbels second in the set, and Harold Scott's share of a five-way tie for second, third and fourth in the pole vault... Dean Higgins, Missouri's star soph pole vaulter, who was just about a cinch for second, re-injured a bad leg and withdrew at 12 feet...had he been second, it would have given Mizzou 35 1/2 points...Scott's share would have been 3-5 instead of 1-5, had so the Huskers would have had exactly 34 3-5...Do we hear a "phew," in the crowd?...but on the other hand, in the low hurdles qualifying races in the morning, Bob Kahler was rubbed out...First three men in a heat qualified for the semifinals, and if Kahler wasn't one of the first three finishers in his heat, we're awfully wrong...of course, the judges were closer than we were, but still...

Farm House takes Class A basketball crown; Sig Alphas beat Delta Sigs for 'B' title

Farm house brought the 1940 intramural championship to ag college as they walloped the ATO's easily, 31-13 in the championship game.

Fred Preston, varsity end, was the leading scorer for the winners, as he dumped in seven free throws to go with his two field goals for 11 points. Guard Warren Gabelman made 7 for the winners, while Ed McKee got six of the ATO's total.

Roy Petsch, Chuck Davis and Don Matheny all made four fouls, as the ATO's had 19 in all. Farm House cashed in on but seven of their free throws but they didn't need the points anyway.

An agreement has been made between Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi to announce the new members of both societies at their annual joint dinner on March 29. Fourteen seniors of the class of 1940 were elected to Phi Beta Kappa early this year and their names announced in December. They were recently initiated at the February meeting of the chapter.
