

By June Bierbower.

Any and all who'd like to see the finals of the interfraternity track meet tonight are very cordially welcomed to see the boys strut their stuff, according to Rollie Horney, assistant intramural director.

There is seating capacity for around 600 inside the east stadium for the crowd, and intramural officials would like to have a big turnout. So all you gals who have your hearts over there in the east stadium, just go over and see the meet, which is free for nothin'.

The Huskers lost Sam Schwartzkopf from last year's tackle crew, but from the spring performance of six or eight bruisers at that post, the Huskers are going to be pretty rocky there.

Royal Kahler and Forrest Behm are playing first string positions for the Yales while Clarence Herndon and Leonard Muskin are the Harvard players. Behm, Kahler and Herndon all won major letters last year, as they, along with Schwartzkopf, were the four tackles the Major used most of the time. Muskin, "boy wonder" of the 1938 team at a guard position, played very little last year, but he's now on the Harvard's first team, and will undoubtedly be one of the Biffer's first four if he keeps up the form he has shown.

None of the other tackles had any game experience, although most of them are holdovers from last year. Vic "Gulliver" Schleich, big ex-Lincoln high athlete who broke a bone in his leg and therefore missed out last year, is showing up well for the Reds, as is Francis Leik of Hastings, who didn't see any service last fall. Ralph Whitehead, ineligible last year, has stuck to it, and is with the Yales at a second string berth along with Bob McNutt, the Kansas Killer, who has jumped up the list several notches since the beginning of practice.

We can't see why all this squawking is going on about calling the two Husker squads the Yales and Harvards. . . things are corny enough around here what with Huskers, Corncocks, Tassels, Nubbins, etc., so a little variety isn't hurting things at all. . . besides, Yale and Harvard sound lots better than prosaic old Blue and Red.

An attempt has finally been made to do away with the troubles which annually follow Kansas-Kansas State football games in the form of goal-post fights. Student representatives of both schools will have a pair of brass miniature goal posts and award the trophy to whichever school wins the game. Said trophy will be awarded immediately following the game.

The two schools will pay each other's losses if there is a fight anyway. Just what a pair of little brass goal posts can do to prevent a fight is more than we can see, with feeling as it seems to be at the two schools, so unless there is a sudden change down that way, the two schools will probably be paying each other's losses for a time to come.

Golf tryouts today

Coach Ed Newkirk will hold gold tryouts for aspiring team members this afternoon on the Country Club course.

Intrasquad baseball game slated today

Coach Wilbur Knight held his baseball charges down to stress on team play on situations that may develop during the course of a game, Wednesday night. Before the skull sessions, Knight sent the nine thru an extensive hitting practice and infield workout. An intrasquad game is scheduled for tonight.

Handball results of Tuesday posted

Tuesday's results in intramural handball are as follows: Sigma Chi won by forfeit over Alpha Sigma Phi; Alpha Tau Omega won by 4 to 0 over Phi Kappa Psi; and Beta Theta Pi won by 4 to 0 over Theta Xi.

Tonight Sigma Chi plays Acacia, Alpha Tau Omega plays Phi Sigma Kappa, the Beta's play the Pi K A's, and the Sigma Nu's play the Phi Gam's.

Browne elected to rules group post

Coach W. H. Browne of Nebraska was named secretary-treasurer of the national basketball rules committee at its annual meeting over the weekend. Nat Holman of CCNY was named president succeeding B. T. Grover of Ohio U. Other officers are Nelson Norgren of Chicago U., first vice president; E. Kelleher, Fordham, second vice president; Edward J. Shanafelt to direct puppet shows in Joslyn

Miss Marjorie Shanafelt, curator of visual education in Morrill hall, will direct two puppet shows to be given in the Joslyn Memorial concert hall in Omaha on Sunday, April 28.

The first show, "Jack and the Beanstalk," is especially for children, and "Golden Butterfly," the second show, is planned for the interest of adults.

Fedde to be hostess

Twelve home economic seniors will be guests at tea in the home of Miss Margaret Fedde, head of the home economics department, April 9. All 80 home economic seniors will be entertained by Miss Fedde in this manner by the end of the year. She is giving a series of informal teas each Tuesday at four to become better acquainted with the senior girls.

Sig Alphas, Beta's win bowling titles

Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon won bowling championships in Leagues 1 and 2 respectively last night as the Beta's downed Alpha Sigma Phi 1,562-1,253, and the Sig Alphas beat Phi Kappa Psi 1,455-1,416. Both teams finished their league play undefeated.

Uren and Brown with 327 and 321 respectively led the winners, although Johnson's 355 for the two games was the best of the SAE-Phi Psi match. Leon Davis had 202-151 for 353 to lead the Beta's.

Sandberg gets 220.

In other matches last night the ATO's, led by Bob Sanberg with 220-157 for 377, trimmed the AGR's, 1,355-1,277, the Phi Gams, led by K. Ellis with 341, beat Pi Kappa Alpha, 1,514-1,454, and Beta Sigma Psi beat Acacia, 1,259-1,501, as Heins of the winners got 171-193 for 364.

Herman Rohrig lost for drills this spring

Herman Rohrig, star Husker halfback, who suffered a sprained ankle in Tuesday's scrimmage, will be out for the rest of the spring practice season, according to reports from the Husker grid camp yesterday.

An X-ray was taken of Rohrig's ankle, and showed it was not broken.

Beg pardon!

The name of Don Bursik, intramural debater for Tappa Kegga, was misspelled in yesterday's edition of the DAILY.

NU tennists set for good season

Four veterans, promising sophs to compose team

Nebraska's tennis team will be embodied by four returning lettermen and a wealth of sophomores that should enhance the Cornhusker netters to repeat the success they obtained in 1939 play. Last year, Nebraska finished second only to Oklahoma in Big Six competition.

Returning lettermen are Harold Rundle, Don Schulz, James Hems-worth, and Mickey Weidman. Rundle and Hems-worth being from Lincoln while the other two are from Beloit, Kansas, and Des Moines, Iowa, respectively.

Promising newcomers are John Huston, Harry Ankeny, Charles Eberline, and Charles McNurlin, all of Lincoln.

At the present time, Assistant Coach Voris Peden is having squad contenders play in a singles round robin playoff. By Wednesday of next week, the squad will be eliminated to six players.

Still inside

It will be another week yet before the team gets any practice on the clay courts and then the team will work out at the Lincoln Tennis club. At present, the practice has been limited to play only on the hardwood courts inside the coliseum.

Rundle is a former state singles champion, and was the Big Six doubles champ when he paired with John Dietrich to win that crown in 1938. For the past two years, he has been runner-up to the conference champion of Oklahoma.

Huston, a promising sophomore, teamed with Rundle in 1938 to win the state doubles crown. Ankeny was a member of the Redlands college, California, tennis team two years ago, while Eberline and McNurlin have been leading contenders in Lincoln competition for the past three summers.
