

By June Bierbower.

The New York Yanks played in Oklahoma City Wednesday, and since Oklahoma City is so close to Norman fifteen Sooner football players decided they would absent themselves from spring practice that afternoon. They did, and there wasn't much going on as a result. However, the next day the sinful fifteen showed up for practice, and Tom Stidham made every one of them go eight laps around the stadium field as punishment, saying that he'd have liked to see the game himself.

Bill DeCorrevont got the only hit and the only run off Norvall Hunthausen, Notre Dame pitcher. Saturday, as he beat out an infield hit, stole second and scored for Northwestern on two infield outs. Northwestern won 6-1. . . . George Koettel, the Oklahoma sprinter who did 9.6 seconds in the hundred against K-State, didn't even place in the Texas Relays. . . . The Sooners' fine sprint relay team on the 440 relay at Austin, though. . . . Orv Matthews, Fred Coogan, Bill Lyda and Koettel ran it in :41.7.

News from the other Big Six football campus doesn't seem to be pouring in any too rapidly, although there's been a little from each of the other five schools. Don Faurot is worried about his ends and tackles, having lost all his wingmen and his two starting tackles. There are enough guards, centers, and may we add, backs, returning, though. Big event at Iowa State is the return of Henry Wilder, who has the stuff to be one of the country's best backs. Wilder was out because of an injury last year. Hobbs Adams has just started at K-State, and is working Kent Duwe at tail-back, which may be a good place for him. The big, speedy sophomore ought to be good for something more than just cracking the line. Oklahoma, of course, will be inexperienced, but they still have some big tough linemen and a raft of good backs left. Kansas is looking up, with a good percentage of their line returning, along with Ralph Miller the passer, and plunger Bill Bunsen, provided he gets eligible.

Kansas State students seek new field house

"Let's Have a Crackerjack Field House Instead of a Crackerbox Coliseum," is one slogan in the student drive for a field house at Kansas State in Manhattan. Plans have been made for a rally, petition, picture displays and other stunts to attract statewide attention.

Nichole gymnasium, which will hold only 2,500, so no tickets have been sold to outsiders for K-State basketball games. Basketball, according to a committee working for the fieldhouse, goes into the red about four thousand dollars a year. An increase in attendance of about one thousand in attendance, according to athletic director M. F. Ahern, would do away with the deficit.

The fieldhouse would permit expansion of physical education, and intramurals, as well as bring receipts from indoor track, swimming and wrestling. Basketball man Joe Robertson is chairman of the 11-man committee representing campus organizations, which will co-ordinate the student activities for presentation to state officials, including the governor.

Jerry Dutcher leaves school

Jerry Dutcher, star athletic prospect from Omaha Benson, has withdrawn from school and returned to his home. Dutcher, an all-state basketball player in high school, was also potential varsity material as a football end, but had laid out of competition this year to favor a bad knee. He had checked out football equipment this spring but did not report after spring vacation.

Harvards, Eli's to scrimmage this afternoon

The Huskers reviewed Saturday's Harvard-Yale scrimmage, listened to a chalk talk, and worked on passes last night, as the gridgers entered their next-last week of spring drills.

Greater Lincoln league players, Dale Bradley from Bethany and John Thompson from Jackson scored touchdowns Saturday, and Vic Schleich, Lincoln high kicked the extra point, as Harry Hopp, scoring wraith of the spring, didn't make any markers. A scrimmage is slated for this afternoon, and the regular Thursday scrimmage will be held, as will another game Saturday afternoon. One Saturday game ended in a tie, while Harvard won the last one 7-6.

Harmony hour to offer Tschaiowsky symphony

The first three movements of Tschaiowsky's Symphony No. 4 in F minor, recorded by the Boston Symphony orchestra, will be played during the Sinfonia Harmony hour today in the faculty lounge at 4 p. m. This symphony is the first in a cycle of symphonies which exhibit the differing aspects of the composer's dark and mysterious personality. The symphony has only recently come into public attention and of recent indications may become even more popular. Suite Algerienne by Saint-Saens and played by the Continental Symphony orchestra will also be heard.

Safety--

(Continued from Page 1.) believes. "This does not mean that commercial organizations working on safety necessarily have mercenary motives, but it does suggest that wise organizations would mask their wares in efforts to foster the safety movement."

Four faculties. The visiting scientist has been a member of four different faculties. He joined the Iowa State college department of psychology as instructor in 1925. After a period of teaching at Ohio State university, where he was a national Research Council Fellow, he returned to the Ames campus in 1930 as associate professor and head of the school's automobile driving clinic. Edmund Dudek of Clarkson, graduate student in psychology, will preside at the Tuesday evening meeting. Dr. W. E. Walton of the department staff will introduce Dr. Lauer.

Frosh track meet slated Thursday

A dual Husker frosh track meet is slated this Thursday. If the weather is good the meet will be held outside; otherwise it will be under the east stadium. Coach Ed Weir stated yesterday that, at the present time the track team was handicapped due to a number of its men being out for spring football practice, however, spring drills end April 18 and the men will then report for track.

The first home meet is April 23, with Kansas State, the 26th and 27th is Drake Relays, May 4 is a meet with Iowa State, May 10 and 11 is the state high school meet the Big Six conference meet is the 17th and 18th of May, and the national collegiates are June 21 and 22. Coach Weir also said that Nebraska's discus thrower, Edsel Wibbels, is looking much better and has his eye on the Kansas State Relay Record which is slightly better than 154 feet. Nebraska track coaches believe that there are many valuable points being lost due to so many good prospects not coming out. In the intramural meet last week-end numerous prospects were noticed. In the past week several new men reported and Weir hopes to have more out. Norman Davis, sprinter, and Walt Nye, pole vault aspirant, are among the new men.
