

Final fling...

This weekend brings picnics, Figi-Tau Tussle, dancing

By Agnes Wanak.

A consensus of campus opinions agree that weekends should be longer, especially those pre-final weekends. But as the days go by, everybody is preparing for a final fling this weekend before the study bug gets us all. Fraternity picnics, Figi-Tau Tussle, and dancing at the Turnpike are on the calendar to climax the school year.

HIGHLIGHT

of the Sigma Chi Sweetheart Dinner held at the chapter house Sunday was the announcement of the pinning of Jack Moore and Pi Phi Marian Lowrey. Through very special efforts, this has been kept secret since Friday night.

LILACS IN THE SPRINGTIME

go from DU Dick Luther to the object of his affections these days. He picked an armful of lilacs and carried them most of the evening until he dropped by the Tri Delt house to present them to his girl-of-the-moment. The girl's parents also were impressed by his "thoughtfulness."

A MAN'S BEST FRIEND

is his dog according to the old saying and it looks as if Phi Psi Phil Southwick is in complete accord. At least the other night when he started to go to bed, he found a giant German police dog slumbering peacefully there. Rather than disturb the dog, he covered him carefully and found another bed. Maybe the saying should read, "a dog's best friend is Phil Southwick."

TRUE STORY

is that Tri Delt Loraine Grant and Sigma Chi Dick Faytinger have been going steady for some time. And one wonders how near the steady ranks Tri Delt Ruthie Iverson and Sigma Nu Curt Ralston are, since latest reports say they have steady Saturday and Sunday night dates.

CIGARS AND CANDY

were much in evidence Monday night when two Beta's came through with stogies for the brothers. Ted Welton was one of the men in the case and Cay Deurmeyer treated the Tri Delt sisters, while smokes also came from Roy Broyhill with Marny Bremers handing out the sweets at the Alpha Phi house. The Kappa Sigs got their share from Harold Hopkins, who was in school last year, and Helen Kelley, the girl, passed candy to the Pi Phis.

WHEN THE PLEDGES

"suggested" to Sigma Nu Al Adamson a few weeks ago that they'd like to be presented with the traditional cigars, he really took the hint, because last night he and Kappa Geno Stuhlt did the honors.

Shumate--

bond transactions are inadequate, and the task of making the survey was made more difficult because information was not available or up to date, the professor said.

The survey reveals that the state received originally 3,485,711 acres of land from the federal government, and the most of it was for common schools. Shumate said that the university had 7,057 acres appraised at $55,576, at the present time.

Exact value impossible to give.

It is impossible to give the exact value of the state's educational endowment, the report said. However, that if school lands were to be valued at the average assessed value of privately owned lands in counties where the state holds land, the state land would have an assessed valuation of $14,566,832, as compared with the present appraised valuation of $6,485,521.

As to the amount of permanent fund money invested in bonds, the reports of Shumate said the total is $11,726,044, of which $264,000 is in the university funds.

Concerning income from these funds, Shumate said: "There is considerable doubt as to whether Nebraska has received as much income from her education endowment as she could have done with more foresight and better administration."

Modest expense accounts.

As regards expense accounts the survey states that most of the officers and employes apparently turn in modest expense accounts, and most of the expending agencies are reasonably careful in the checking and approval of expense claims. The survey also scored the lack of uniformity of policy and practice between and sometimes within various agencies.
