

As I SEE IT!

By June Bierbower.

All our colleagues, we see, are writing swan songs. Oh, yes, watch for ours next Tuesday, before you forget. To get back to our colleagues, though, listen to these words of wisdom uttered by our old pal Frank Spence down at Oklahoma who has done some fine writing for the Oklahoma Daily. Spence says, in his last column of the year:

"I fell from the predictor's limb more than once during my reign, but I will still wager that Oklahoma won't be the carpet for any Big Six team next season. And that includes the Nebraska Cornhusker football team."

Now, Frank, just who said the Sooners would be playing door-mat?

Still clipping the exchanges. Here's a Why Rub It In Item gleaned from Jim Bell's Rock Chalk Talk in the Daily Kansan: "F. D. R.'s offer of cabinet posts to prominent Republicans is just about the same thing as the Nebraska football coach asking KU players if they wouldn't like to play on the Husker team in a Kansas-Nebraska game and be on the winning side for a change."

Four gals' baseball games slated today

Intra-mural baseball games to be played today at 5 o'clock are: Chi Omega 1 vs. Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Kappa Gamma 2 vs. Wilson Hall, Kappa Delta vs. Alpha Chi Omega and Independents vs. Alpha Phi.

Tennis round to end

First round of the girls' intra-mural tennis tournament, both singles and doubles, must be finished by Sunday evening.

Nebraska, A and M meet to be aired

Brooks to race Efaw in standout mile race Saturday

The dual track meet to be held Saturday between the Oklahoma Aggies, winner of the Missouri Valley conference, and the Huskers who won their second consecutive outdoor Big Six title, is to be broadcast over KFAB, it was announced by head track Coach Ed Weir.

The entire meet is not going to be aired, but several of the outstanding performances will be. Throughout the afternoon at various intervals resumes of the events will be announced. This is the first time a dual meet has been put on the air from Memorial Stadium, although several of the Big Six meets have been.

Record is 4:22.9.

The first race Saturday is the mile, in which there is every reason to believe, conditions being favorable, Nebraska's miler Harold Brooks will lower the existing varsity record of 4:22.2 made in 1937 by both Freddie Mattson and Wilson Andrews. He will run against Forrest Efaw, the Aggies' great distance man.

Last week, he came out with a 4:29.5 mile on the water covered track, returning later to win the 2-mile in a slower time. In addition, Oklahoma has a great runner in Hershel Burruss, who placed in three events at the Missouri Valley meet, winning the quarter mile, taking second in the half-mile and fourth in the broad jump.

Efaw, it will be remembered, took part in the Junior AAU championships held here in Lincoln last July 3rd, and won the 3,000 meters steeplechase in the excellent time of 9:42.2.

year's University-Players' productions, won for her the $5 prize of the evening offered for the skit which would win the majority of votes from the audience.

The "Oscar" awards, given in a spirit of fun, were presented by Barbara Birk to Warren Brainard, Grace Elizabeth Hill, John Pruden, Art Kleinhans, Max Whittaker, and Betty Lou Rangelor. These were awarded to the students for such things as waving their arms excessively or taking mostly child parts.

Awards of distinction went to a number of students for such things as missing the most cues

Sooners win baseball; NU finishes fifth

Crowned Big Six baseball champion for the second year in a row is coach "Jap" Haskell's Oklahoma baseball team, having finished its season with nine wins and one defeat.

Kansas and Iowa State have a three game series remaining, and Iowa State, now in fourth, can displace Missouri in third by sweeping the games.

The Huskers are in fifth place, and will stay there unless Kansas beats the Cyclones in three games.

Kansas State, with eight wins and four losses, has cinched second place in the standings:

Team	w	l	pct.
Oklahoma	9	1	.900
Kansas State	8	4	.667
Missouri	6	4	.600
Iowa State	6	5	.545
Nebraska	3	9	.250
Kansas	1	10	.091

during the season, giving the best excuses, and being kissed the most. These went to Dorothy Ward, Ann Arbitman, Louis Wilkins, Joyce Birk, Dorothy Filley, Virginia Thede, Bob Gelwick, Verne Geissinger, and Mildred Manning. To Hubert Ogden of the DAILY went one of these awards "for straightening us out in the rag."

The senior prophecy by Max Whittaker was presented by Clarence Flick in the role of a crystal gazer. The class will be by Barbara Manning.

Master of ceremonies for the "academy award" program was

Dow Wilson returns for Buff series

Star second baser back after injury; Truscott still out

Nebraska's baseballers will close the 1940 season with a two game series with Colorado U. on Friday and Saturday. The Buffalos are Big Seven champions, the Rocky Mountain league, and have a conference record of no defeats in eight starts.

It would certainly be a feather in the cap of the Huskers if they were to finish off the season with a victory or two against the Buffs.

Games with the freshmen were the order of work for the Huskers for the first three days of this week, but a light practice to top off the workouts will be sufficient for today.

Coach Wilbur Knight has named Sid Held and Bob Searle as the two pitchers to see starting service against Colorado. The Buffalos will rely on Ray Hartmann, John Pudlik, and Ed Mele.

Verne Geissinger. Five satirical skits were given on Players' productions of the season: "McBeth," "Gentle People," "What a Life," "Our Town," and "Dodsworth." Another skit incorporated a satire of all five. Curtain acts were by Louis Wilkins, Betty Lou Wentz, and Rosemary Owens. Also given was a modern version of "Romeo and Juliet."
