FRATERNITIES ATTENTION! All fraternities are requested to keep a record of outstanding opponents in their intramural touch football games. There is to be an all-intramural football team chosen in each league at the end of the season by a staff reporter. This record is to contain the particular fraternity's choice of an opponent whom they considered best in all nine positions. The selections are to be made of players outside the fraternity.

America's newest game, goal-hi, comes to Nebraska for test tryout, play

Goal-Hi. Ever hear of it? It's a game and it's going to be a popular sport one of these days.

It's a form of basketball as it is played with a regular cage ball, but has only one goal and is played on a circular court.

The inventor? Well, it's our old friend Dr. Forrest C. (Phog) Allen from down Kansas way. And now Nebraska is going to inspect the game. Coach Charley Miller, gymnastic director, has brought the game to Lincoln.

A court is being set up in the coliseum now and play will be under way by mid-week. Here are the general rules and facts about goal-hi:

Play is concentrated in a circular area. The court is in a circle with a 30 foot radius (Nebraska will use a 20 foot radius). An inner circle or foul line has a 15 foot radius (Nebraska will employ a 10 feet radius). The inner circle is always half the radius of the outside circle.

Mounted on pole

In the center of this circle is the basket mounted on a 10 foot pole. Odd about this basket is that it has no bankboards. When the ball falls thru the hoop, it comes down to a 3-way conical projector which deploys the ball out one of the three outlets.

These gates are so constructed to prevent a ball being shot up thru them instead of coming down thru the hoop. With the basket in the center of the court, continuity of play is high because of missed shots falling most of the time within the playing surface.

Because of the small playing area, energies are not consumed up as greatly as the case when basketballers run up and down the long courts.

This is a game for all ages and can be played both indoors and out-of-doors. Regular basketball rules imply as in the instances of fouls, dribbles and other such characteristics of the the regulation cage sport.

Points

A goal from the outer circle counts three points and one from the inner circle is two points. A free throw is shot from the foul line or the inner circle line. The gratis toss is good for one counter.

Nebraskans will play according to the above rules and on the basis of the following time limits:

The game will consist of four quarters of seven and half minutes each in length. In between each period, there will be a two minute rest. The half is ten minutes long.

The game will be introduced in the physical education classes and students will be invited to go over to the coliseum and try their hand and pass approval on the new game.

That's goal-hi, America's newest indoor and outdoor play-game!

Indiana possesses heavy team, passing, running array of backs

Floating down from Indiana land come many reports of the preparation going on for the invasion of Lincoln by the Hoosiers coached by Bo McMillin.

Biggest and worst worry from the Husker standpoint is the scrap being waged for the blocking back position. A hot three cornered scrap is very much in evidence as Tuffy Brooks and Red Zimmer are showing signs of moving ahead of Earl Doloway, young rookie who started at that position against Texas U last week.

Doloway was the prize find of pre-season drills and a man of whom big things are expected this fall. Now we find not one but two men fighting for the right of being the key blocker of the team. This is indeed a bit unusual and all three men will see plenty of action against the Cornhuskers on Saturday.

Another change due to take place in the personnel is at the tackle position. There we find Jim Trimble has filled in for Al Sabol. Both boys are on the large side of life and both will undoubtedly be in the thick of things when the two teams move against each other in Lincoln.

One of the McMillin worries, centers around what to do with big Earl Doloway. Earl is one of those rare players who does everything rather well. At present he is in the blocking spot. But Doloway likes to pass and he likes to run with the ball.

And then with Tuffy Brooks and Red Zimmer coming along so fast at the blocking berth, "pore" McMillin seems to have trouble letting them all play at the same time. As a result Nebraska seems very likely to have its hands full keeping watch of these men. When Hursh is on the sidelines Doloway will take over the pigskin pitching chore. And this he will do well.

Another obstacle in the Nebraska path to victory will be weight. Indiana has a line that will tip the scales at a shade under 200 pounds. Its backfield will run at a 191 pound figure. Also there is that statement of Coach Bo McMillin last week before the encounter with Texas: "We're as near ready as we know how to be." If that was the case what kind of shape will they be in this weekend?

The following is the lineup starting against Texas last week: Harris and Rucinski at the ends, Sabol and Uremovich at the tackles, White and Smith guards, Gahn center, and Doloway, Zimmer, Hursh and Tofil in the secondary.

Parke Carroll, Kansas City, will referee the game with John Waldorf, Missouri, Perry Graves, Illinois, and Ernie Vick, Michigan, assisting.
