Nebraska's let-down in the secdue to a bit of overconfidence, but marks 47th ond half Saturday was not only also due to the extreme heat... At game time, the mercury stood meeting year also due to the extreme heat ... at 91 degrees in the shade ... And there wasn't much shade on the stadium sod until late in the final quarter ...

After a team plays an eleven as strong and powerful as Minnesota on the preceding week, there is bound to be a let-up in the play ... There's also the fact that a team behind will come back more strongly than one that has an apparently comfortable lead as the Huskers held at halftime Saturday..

Seconds improve.

The second team didn't hold up so well aganist the heavy Minnesota line at Minneapolis a week ago, but it was gratifying to note how they stood up against the Hoosiers and even pushed across what proved to be the winning score.

Incidentally, for all of those tak-Ing the trek to Lawrence this week -look for a close game ... It seems that whenever the Huskers face a Big Six team, that eleven will rise to great heights and show the Nebraskans that they've been in a real ball game before the final whistle is blown ....

NU-KU clash

LAWRENCE, Kas., Oct. 15 .--Having reached the point where their rivalry resembles that of a greyhound chasing a mechanical rabbit, Kansas and Nebraska clash in their 47th meeting on the gridiron Saturday at Lawrence.

The question which every two years brings a turnout of 15,000 or better at Lawrence for the meeting of the Jayhawkers and the Cornhuskers is whether or not the mechanical rabbit has become so old that it will break down.

For 24 years Kansas has been trying unsuccessfully to beat Nebraska, As the situation now stands every Jayhawk rooter wants to be in on the kill, when K. U. finally emerges victorious over the Huskers. The result is that the fans turn out en masse for the battles just in case this is "the year."

"is this THE year?"

The feeling among Kansas rooters about the rivalry with Nebraska is so intense that a victory bration in Lawrence to end all

As one K. U. student put it, "If we beat Nebrasha, the celebration will make Quantrill's raid look like a Sunday school picnic in comparison.'

Just on the face of it, Kansas' chances of ending Nebraska's supremacy Saturday appear remote. The Cornhuskers are riding high, with a team rated as one of the finest in the nation.

Kansas Improving.

Coach Gwinn Henry's team, on the other hand, was given little attention in pre-season ratings. Altho they played fine ball in their opener, the Jayhawks bowed to Iowa State 7-0.

Iowa State 7-0. As always, however, the fans can expect a battle when the two teams meet. Year after year the Jayhawks come close to the elu-sive victory, only to find it slip-ping out of their grasp, many times at the last minute.

Last year Nebraska's fine team When Raiph Miller quit the pig-skin game for the 1940 scason, Kansas, but the Huskers had all hey wanted and then years, Nebraska has continued its string of victories by scoring in Sophomores Bob Ginn, Madison midget, started and won his first race in Husker scanties. The diminutive distance ace circled the 2-mile route in the time of 9:43.7.

Harold Brooks, Gothenburg junior, ran second altho hampered by a bad leg. Running third was Inman of Iowa State.

Haugebak and Burgy of the Cyclones ran fourth and fifth, with Dale Garrels, Diller, sixth. Arden Kersey, the fourth Scarlet runner, ran seventh, while Andrews Iowa State trailed the pack. of

In winning, Ginn finished some 200 yards out in front of the other seven runners and was only 3.4 seconds behind the school record set by Fred Matteson several years ago.

Directory has no supplement list for late comers

Names, addresses and telephone numbers of all students registered in the university up to today will be listed in the new student directory and will be included in a single roll, stated Dick Algood, editor.

In previous years a supple-mentary list has been used for late registrants. Purpose of the change is to facilitate those desiring to find information concerning a student in the directory. The directory is keeping up to schedule, said Algood, with all copy now in the hands of the printers. A new feature of the book is the Nebraska songs and cheers section Algo all religious cheers section. Also, all religious workers responsible for Christian guidance are listed.

This directory contains the only official list of the student body.

Favored teams come through in I-M games AGR over Phi Gams

> only exception; Farm House wins decisively

Farm House continued on its merry way towards a second championship in League 1 intramural football by a 12-0 victory over the Kappa Sigma team. Don Fitz along with the other boys who played a lot of football Monday afternoon predominated all the way. The other game played in League 1 found Alpha Gamma Rho outscoring Phi Gamma Delta 7-6. The A. G. R.'s scored on a recovered fumble, the ball bounc-ing in the right way after the fumble and it was 6 points for A. G. R. Phi Kappa Psi and Aca-cia failed to play their game. Phi Delta Theta scored on the Alpha Tau Omega's in the closing moments of the fourth period to win 6-0. Beta Sigma Psi's were too much for the Della Tau Delta's and won their game by the iden-tical score of 6-0. Sigma Chi and Phi Sigma Kappa did not play their scheduled game in League 2. League 4 featured Beta Theta Pi outplaying and outscoring Sig-ma Nu 12-0. This was the only game played in the league. The schedule for Tuesday: League 3.

Sigma Alpha Mu vs. Alpha Sig-ma Phi at 5.

League 4. Delta Upsilon vs. Delta Theta

Pi at 4:15. Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Pi

Kappa Alpha at 4:15. Theta Xi vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon at 5.

Injuries against Indiana at a minimum; Herman Rohrig works on firsts

Walter "Butch" Luther, Cam-bridge halfback, and Ray "Sena-tor" Prochaska, Ulysses end, will be the senior co-captains for Ne-braska against Kansas, Saturday, at Lawrence.

Luther has been springing into the secondary with great bursts of speed in the two games thus far this fall, while "Pro" scored the first touchdown against the Hoosiers last Saturday and has been playing a bang-up game at his wingflank.

The Huskers came out of the Indiana fracas without much physical damage. The firsts and seconds worked out in sweat clothes, Monday afternoon, while the thirds and the fourths scrimmaged against Kansas plays employed by the Scout Club and irosh.

Pictures of the game will be shown to the whole squad today and then the Biffer will point out the errors before the team goes out for practice.

Kansas is on the upgrade, as shown by the Jayhawk victory over the Drake Bulldogs last Saturday. The 20-6 score doesn't point out the strong and deft blocking by the Kansas forwards in the first half.

The Jayhawks have a halfback by the name of Marvin Vandaveer who can pass with the best of them, but the gentlemen from the Kaw valley used power plays to romy over the Bulldogs.

The Biffer had the same two teams that started the first and second quarters Saturday as his first two elevens, Monday. Hermie Rohrig was working with the know what we were forming in the card section."

Constructive criticism was offered by John Bradley who is a bizader. Said John, "It could have been a lot better. Nobody knew the yells. Why didn't they dis-tribute copies of the cheers?"

Logical suggestion was offered also by Jean MacAllister, teachers Phi, 42. Miss MacAllister wanted to know," why don't the Tassels and Cobs teach some yells in the organized houses?

Strongest critic is Bud Marggulies, junior pre-med. Bud re-sponded thus. "Cheering was far from satisfactory. Why doesn't everybody learn the yells and the songs? Then perhaps we could let people know that we are students of the University of Nebraska and not just a bunch of disorganized hicks from the cow country." Then shaking his head sadly," No esprit de corps."

All of which makes fairly potent copy. We hope it will serve as a builder-upper.
