

Love bequest goes for new library

A dream came nearer to realization yesterday when action by the board of regents definitely established the fact that the university will have a new library, to be built with funds left in the will of the late Don L. Love.

The board voted to devote the bequest of Don L. Love to the construction of a university library. The property, personal and real, included in the bequest will be publicly filed with the appropriate court official in the near future, according to announcement by the board.

Other details later.

However, no mention was made in the action as to the time when the building would be erected, how much it would cost or where it would be built. It is expected that further details of the action will be revealed by university officials when the evaluation of the estate has been made.

Other business of the board at its regular meeting included the acceptance by the board of a $500 scholarship in behalf of the college of pharmacy from the George Breen manufacturing company of St. Louis, Mo.

A change in title was approved for R. D. Moritz, from director of the summer session to dean of the summer school.

Leaves of absence.

Leaves of absence were approved for Ruth Leverton, assistant professor of home economics, from Nov. 1, 1940, to June 30, 1941 without salary, and for Alice L. Taylor, assistant professor of social work, for one year from Sept. 1, 1941, without salary.

New appointments approved were as follows: in agricultural extension, Mrs. Alta F. Benesh, extension assistant in home economics, home agent, Clay Center; in home economics, Gladys Winters, stenographer; in the library, William R. Johnson, librarian of Morrill hall library; in the college of medicine, Philip S. Moe, assistant librarian and cataloger; in physical education for women, Julia Gillette, office assistant; in the office of the registrar, university examiner and director of admissions, Ruth Stearns, assistant.

Readjustments in work and salary were approved for Frank J. Dudek, graduate assistant in the office of the dean of the college of arts and sciences and the department of psychology and for Charles W. Fowler, graduate assistant in business organization and management.

Dancers assembled in the coliseum last night to hear Louis Panico and his "laughing trumpet" had two pleasant surprises to add zest to the evening. One was the presentation of the new Husker Pep Queen, the other the announcement of Homecoming decorations winners.

Bob Aden, innocents president, announced that Phi Delta Theta had been awarded first prize by the committee of judges among fraternities and Alpha Chi Omega rated first among sororities.

Judges were Terry Townsend, Rev. Harold Gosnell, R. J. Ernesti of Miller & Paine, and Joe Miller of the Andrew-Newens advertising agency.

The Phi Delt's buzz-saw not only whipped through the tiger shown above, but made a loud buzzing noise. Alpha Chi Omega's Cornhusker Sherlock tracked the Missouri Tiger down the front of the house. Delta Gamma, winners last year, won second among sororities with their circus display and Sigma Alpha Epsilon second among fraternities with a billboard display.

Fourth annual Nebraska artists' exhibit opens in Morrill today

Sponsored by the Lincoln Artists' Guild, the fourth annual Nebraska artists' exhibition, opens today in Morrill hall. Prof. Dwight Kirsch, chairman of the art department, has announced. The exhibit will last until Nov. 10.

The complete schedule for this year's university art exhibits will include paintings, drawings and silk screen prints by Harry Gottlieb, from Nov. 10 to Nov. 25.

From Nov. 24 to Dec. 1 the national art week exhibition will appear with the Lincoln camera club's eighth annual photo exhibit following.

Scenic art.

"Christmas in Art" is the title of an exhibition featuring scenic reproductions and Christmas card designs, from Dec. 10 to Jan. 1.

Duley speaks to Sigma Xi on rain efficiency

Uni agronomy prof says experiments may affect control of floods, dust

"Increasing the Efficiency of Rainfall in the Great Plains" will be the subject of Dr. Frank L. Duley, university professor of agronomy and U. S. senior soil conservationist, addressing the Nebraska chapter of Sigma Xi at 7:30 p. m. Monday in Morrill hall auditorium.

Studies are being conducted cooperatively by the U. S. department of agriculture and Nebraska's agricultural experiment station on a new type of farming for the great plains which is designed to increase the intake of rain water and reduce the losses of runoff and erosion.

Eventually this work may have a direct application in the more effective control of floods and dust storms according to Dr. Duley.

The public may attend. No admission charge will be made.

Coll-Agri-Fun entries due

Ag college festivities scheduled November 16

Deadline for submitting plans for skits to the Coll-Agri-Fun board is Wednesday, and all undergraduates except freshmen and all ag campus organizations are eligible to present their ideas. The Coll-Agri-Fun festivities will be Nov. 16 in the ag activities building.

The skit which wins in the show will be awarded the Coll-Agri-Fun cup; second prize is $4, and third prize $2. Each skit accepted and presented in at least one rehearsal and the night of the event will be awarded $2, and each curtain act will receive a $1 prize.

Stepping out from under a huge "N" megaphone that completely covered her, Jean Christie, arts and sciences sophomore and member of Alpha Phi, became the new Husker pep queen at the Corn Cob-Tassel dance last night. At nearly the same time the crowd at the Corn Cob-Tassel homecoming party heard that Phi Delta Theta and Alpha Chi Omega were the winners of the homecoming decorations contest. Bob Aden made the announcement.

As Jerry Spahn, Innocent and Corn Cob president, lifted the megaphone to reveal the new queen, Betty O'Shea, last year's pep queen, stepped forward to present the sports monarch with her scarlet and cream cape and crown of red and white carnations.

Second place.

Announced as second place winners in the decorations contest were Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Gamma.

Third place among sororities went to Kappa Delta and honorable mention to Alpha Omicron Pi and Chi Omega. Beta Theta Pi was third among fraternities and hon-
