One line description: Don Scott, 205-pound substitute for Superman... So rates the Ohio State quarterback to Cornell... The Big Red team had a picture of Scott on its locker room wall so labeled...

Remember Stanislaus Kostka, All-American fullback for Minnesota on the 1934 national championship eleven?... Well, he is now a coach and a teacher of biology and zoology at a Minnesota high school...

You exponents of officialdom and scoring problems might enjoy this: It happened in Moscow, Ida., when a tackle blocked a Pendleton high school punt with his stomach... The blow knocked the wind from the Moscow athlete and he doubled up, unknowingly holding the ball... So, his teammates rushed him 14 yards to the goal line... Final score, Moscow 13, Pendleton 0... Was that one touch-down illegal?

Texas Christian's ends this year are former fullbacks... Connie

Right end...

JACK MAHER
Iowa End

Above is Jack Maher, Iowa right end, who has been a power on defense for the Iowa Iron Hawks this year. As a guard, he shifted between guard and end, but now he is one of the Hawkeye mainstays.

Sparks played fullback until last fall... Phil Roach played three years at fullback in high school...

The major league leaders on the 4th of July apparently don't mean a thing... This year, the Dodgers and the Indians led their respective leagues on Independence Day...

Notes from the Missouri Student: "Jerry Notowitz, blocking back, carrying the ball for the first time this season, made the best average for the Bengal backs. He made two yards on one try over center..."

And now in recounting the facts again about the Missouri game, it appears that the sticky substance must have been on the Tiger cleets rather than on their hands...

the first quarter but still could not score. A mid-quarter placement attempt by Vike Francis was blocked to end the first threat and later a fourth down plunge was short on the Sooner 5.

With five minutes remaining in the second period, Oklahoma punted into the Husker end zone. From the 20, the Huskers started rolling. On down the field, with Harry Hopp and Wayne Blue alternating thrusts, the Cornhuskers marched.

With a first down on the Sooner 31, Hopp faded back and threw a pass to Allen Zikmund standing near the goal line. Sooner Jack Jacobs tipped the ball but it still fell into "Zik's" hands and he stepped over the final chalk line for the score.

Vic Schleich attempted the extra point by placement but the kick went wide. The second team, with Hopp at tailback, instigated the drive and completed the march with the touchdown.

Oklahoma again had the wind advantage in the third period as they had in the second, but again it proved to no avail. The Huskers stopped all passing threats by Jacobs and halted the Sooner running attack.

As the third canto closed, Jacobs punted to "Butch" Luther and the Butcher Boy rambled back from his 5 to the Oklahoma 40. From here, the first team with Hermie Rohrig at tailback went to the Husker's final score.

Francis and Rohrig took turns at advancing the ball to the 12. Three line plays took the ball to the Sooner 6 and then came the play that had the work of a master magician.

Tricky plus.

Quarterback Roy Petsch settled for one of the trickiest of trick plays. Here is just about how the play functioned (if we are wrong,

Reserves count plenty in 13-0 Husker win

Thirty-five thousand people witnessed the game at Norman Saturday afternoon against the beefy Sooners of Oklahoma.

The deciding factor in the game at Norman was the reserves of the Cornhuskers. A handful of Sooners carried the load for Coach Tom Stidham while the Huskers played their usual two teams and in the final stanza they were making use of the third stringers.

The Husker counters came on running plays and on their old standby, the forward pass. Late in the second quarter the Huskers took the ball on their own twenty yard line and on a sustained drive covered the needed 80 yards to make the points.

The climax of this march came when Harry Hopp faded back and shot a forward pass to the goal line. Sooner Jacobs was on the ball and apparently batted it down but out of nowhere came Allen Zikmund, who grabbed the ball on the goal line and crossed over.

Luther runs.

Butch Luther started the ball rolling for the next six points when he fielded a punt on the Husker 5 and snakehipped his way back to the Oklahoma 40. Straight line bucks and end runs gave the Huskers a first down on the one yard line from where Vike Francis bulled his way thru the middle for the tally.

Luther's return of the punt for some 55 yards was identical to the touchdown gallop in the Minnesota game which was nullified. Orvie Mathews was doing some fancy ball lugging for the Sooners but could not compare with Luther's run.

Jacobs held.

Somewhat disappointed were the Husker fans when they failed to see Creek Indian Jack Jacobs do any fancy cutting up. Jacobs received somewhat the same treatment as Missouri's Paul Christman last week.

Outstanding in the work turned in by Jacobs was his quick kicking. Several times he caught the Nebraska safety napping and sent the ball spiraling over his head. One of these punts carried 78 yards.
