Rose Bowl pep hits peak at rally

Official Newspaper Of More Than 7,000 Students

Vol. 40 No. 10 63

Lincoln Nebraska Thursday, December 19, 1940

Union stages party tonight

Coeds get 10:30

night as present

from AWS board

All women students living in university regulated houses, sororities, dormitories, or co-ops, will

It's a Christmas present, Jean

Simmons, of the AWS, explained:

the girls can attend the rally and then go to the Union Christmas party. Even freshman girls and those who got down-slips are to be allowed the privilege, she prom-be granted 10:30 leave tonight.

Thousands expected for annual Christmas carnival at 8:30

To offer special program

Thousands of cokes will be uncapped and thousands of hot dogs consumed as the Union helps students to celebrate Christmas and Nebraska's trek to the Rose Bowl at its annual Christmas party tonight.

Main event of the party is the vaudeville show, beginning at 8:30 p. m. in the ballroom and featuring acts by talented students, and Lincoln artists accompained by Johnny Cox and his orchestra. Appearing for the first time in the Union will be the Gourly sisters, local reproduction of the Andrews sisters, and Ardis Lyman, freshman who made her debut in the Union amateur hour as an interpretative ballet dancer, will again be presented in a new dance.

Glee club.

The men's glee club, with their rendition of "Oh, Beauteous Heavenly Light," will climax the show and then lead the audience in singing Christmas carols.

Before the show, the party will begin in keeping with the Yuletide spirit when Jean Knorr plays Christmas carols on the electric organ in the lounge, now colorful with its brilliantly lighted Christmas trees, holly, and wreaths.

As each student enters the Union doors, and presents his identification card, he will be given a ticket which will entitle him to free refreshments to be served after the show at four food stations on the second and third

Law group holds smoker tonight

Student Law association holds fts Christmas celebration smoker tonight at 7:30 in law building, with L. T. Laase, recently elected member of the state legislature, delivering the main address. Laase will discuss "Famous Orations."

Program for the event, as anman of the entertainment commit- to discover reasons for tee, will consist of group singing vigor, of Christmas songs, entertainment by a trio, and the address of the plies, such as tin and rubber.

DON'T LOOK AT THE DOLLAR SIGNS.

forbids loans to defaulting nations.

Council attempts to establish new activities ticket

Tentative plans for a student activities ticket suitable for UN were discussed by Student Council members yesterday in an attempt to lower the cost of various campus activities including DAILY NEBRASKAN, Cornhusker, athletic ticket, and University Theatre subscriptions, by grouping these all into one ticket.

One of the ticket plans suggested would cost the student $12 a school year, and would entitle him to almost every activity on the campus. Another suggested ticket would cost $6.50 but would include only an athletic ticket, a year's subscription to the NE-BRASKAN, and would provide bigger events for the Union calendar. Whether the tickets should be optional or compulsory was the main point of discussion. Plans to test student opinion on the matter were also submitted.

Reports on the revision of the Reports on the revision of the men's activity point system, and Blue Print suggestions on co-operative housing for men were heard.

Rotifers to rhetoric occupy University research workers

Seven projects get grants-in-aid departments on the campus this year. Seven projects have been approved for grants-in-aid by the University Research council.

E. W. Hertel is working under Dr. D. D. Whitney, chairman of the zoology department, on the inherited vigor displayed by the hybrids in corn and poultry in this state. By crossing and recrossing weak and strong strains of rotifiers, minute, rapidly re-

In the mechanical engineering department Prof. W. F. Weiland is

Research on topics from rotifiers making microscopic studies of the to rhetoric is in progress in the metal in automobile bearings as affected by various lubricating oils when they begin to corrode and have reached their useful service limit. Weiland is a member of the Society of Automotive Engineers committee on crankcase oil sta-

Destructive effects of drouth on 12 native grassland tracts between Lincoln and the dust bowl in Kansas and Colorado is the subject of research work being done article on slide rule calculations nounced by Robert Flory, chair- producing animals, Hertel hopes by Dr. J. E. Weaver, professor by William Foxwell, a former Neof plant ecology. Records have been kept since 1934 on these different tracts and the general projects will be kept underway for some time.

Banking survey.

"Structural Changes in the Nebraska Banking System since tion, and the regular column by 1933" is the subject being studied Dean O. J. Ferguson. by Dr. A. E. Gilmore of the department of economics. He is surveying the extent to which the structure of bank deposits and their utilization in loans and investments have been altered since President Roosevelt's announcement Tuesday of a sweeping plan to the banking crisis.

> Another interesting project is (See RESEARCH, page 4.)

service attains new height of students when they saw the following two notices posted side by side on campus bulletin boards:

Bincket velvet coat-full length-long sleeves shoulders padded white ermine cultar—collar name width around collar, I to 3 inches—no porterts, white lining—large button at waist—small button at neck—clore tag had come off and had not been replaced. Fleane return to office, Military department, Nebraska hall. POUND-COLINEUM-MILITARY BALL NIGHT.

Balck velves cost—full length—long sieces—shoulders gathered on rather full but not padded—white fur, not erminer, collar beginning to turn yellou—cellar unerven, on order of wing collar and one side of fur collar much larger than other side—white rayon lining—store tag had come off and had not been replaced. Please apply at office, Military department, Nebraska halt.

But like the old story, it was seed to be the Theather's fourth production this seedson.

SCALP THE INDIANS! STAMPEDE STANFORD!

Students will be shouting these cries tonight in Lincoln, but they'll be hoping that the sound will be heard on the west coast, for Nebraska's football champions are leaving tonight for the first appearance of a Cornhusker team in the Rose

Excitement is expected to hit a new high with many newspapers' representatives at the rally to begin pre-game coverage. Life magazine photographers will be on hand to record student enthusi-

Pep leaders predicting the largest turn-out of the year, urge students to co-operate in making the rally a success. Be at the Rock Island station at exactly 7:30, so we can show the team that every student is behind them," asked Gerald Spahn, Corn Cob president.

Despite the cold weather the varsity band will thaw out their instruments, hope that their lips won't freeze on their mouthpieces and will swing out in preparation for their exodus to California.

"With Corn Cobs and Tassels turning on the pep, we're going to make the impromptu rallies after the selection of Nebraska look like a ladies' tea-party," pep heads declared.

What to expect in the Bowl game will be revealed by Coach Biff Jones and other members of the coaching staff. "I wouldn't be a bit surprised if a lot of the players are called upon for talks," Spahn said.

The train is scheduled to leave for Kansas City at 8 from where it will go to Phoenix and hard scrimmaging for players.

"By 8 o'clock, the noise and spirit will dwarf the sound of a California earthquake," said Spahn, "And we'll send the spirit if not ourselves to Pasadena when the Cornhuskers scalp the In-

meet today at 5

All students interested in taking the primary course in flight engineering organizations formed training should report to a general meeting at 5 p. m. today in room 316 of the Union. Applica-Featured are a story on cam- tions for this training are now beeras by Edward Louick and an ing received. The course is CAA

Yearbook party

Members of the Cornhusker staff will hold their annual hot chocolate Christmas party this afternoon from 3 to 5 in the annual office. Bob Aden, editor, promises to be Santa Claus, but he can't grow a beard!

BIFF JONES Will speak at rally. December is out today

Employment of engineers in the defense program is featured in the December issue of the Nebraska Blue Print, university engineering publication, which is to be distributed some time this afternoon.

Besides outlining the three ways dians." in which engineers can find employment in the defense program. CAA applicants the magazine prints an information sheet for readers to fill out in conjunction with a national census promoted by 11 national for construction preparedness.

braska professor.

Monthly features on engineering student - personalities, engineering societies and alumni are again featured. There is also a special article by A. C. Tilley, head of the department of roads and irriga-

Division advises frosh

Councilors arrange courses

junior division in preparing prosemester. Individual conferences between the students and their advisors are being held by ap-

Theatre to hold 'Largo' tryouts

Twenty-four parts will be filled for Maxwell Anderson's play "Key Largo' in the University Theatre's tryouts tonight at 7 in the Studio Theater, Temple 201.

Roles are available for 17 men and seven women in the play. Armand Hunter, director of University Theatre, made a special plea for men to try out because of the large number in the cast. "This trast to the others which had com- to the best advantage.

aeason.

Since Dec. 9, a series of consul- pointment. Time is being taken to tations has been arranged by the consider carefully the desires and ambitions of students and the degrams of studies for the second tails of qualification as shown by their high school record, test results, and academic record thus far in the university.

> Dean Bengtson, head of the new division, says that possible programs for the second semester are being worked out giving full consideration to all known factors.

> > Change Minds.

"Some students," Dean Bengtson continues, "have, by this time, changed their minds about the general line of work that they wish to take up. Thru careful consideration they have chosen some other field according to desire and qualifications. Such changes don't involve penalties in the form of fees, and thus, thru junior division organization, the advisors and counselors are trying seriously to help the student work

"More and more information is available for use by advisors, and more time is being taken for counsel than ever before," he concluded.

Lost and found

Some service!

That was the first impression LOST-COLISEUM-MILITARY BALL, NIGHT.

two different people.

planation of early British reticence, according to certain informed (See HEADLINES, page 4.)

The British at first were reticent about commenting on the plan, though as Wednesday wore on, reports of growing jubilation over the

Behind the Headlines

by Olson and Ordal

back Britain to the limit, without considering dollar signs.

Latest development in the drive to send aid to the British, was Under the plan the United States, which has enough money to do it, would take over British orders for planes, munitions and supplies in this country and turn them into American orders. Then, such supplies as Britain needed could either be leased or sold subject to mortgage, on the theory that they would be more useful in service in Britain than in storage in the United States. Finally, when the war is over the British would repay in kind, replacing articles destroyed with their equivalents, either in munitions or other vital supdicated that the above plan, or a similar one, would be presented to the new Congress. However, it is not believed that the program will involve any changes in the neutrality act or the Johnson law which of adopting one of the many recently-given proposals which considered additional assistance to Britain in terms of financial credits or outright gifts. Prominent among those who have been advocating such plans are Governor Landon, among the republicans, and the Presiproposal began to flash over the airwaves from London. Possible exdent's own wife among the Administration forces.

Though all of the details are not worked out, the President in-

The President's announcement definitely scotched the possibility