Survey shows student news interest in big city papers

New York Times is favorite

The Union is thinking about subscribing to newspapers for the reading room, according to Pat Lahr, and the selection of these papers will depend on the students' choice.

Nebraska students queried showed themselves broadminded at least in so far as they preferred metropolitan papers "because of their wider news coverage" when asked the question:

"If the Union subscribes to newspapers for the reading room, would you rather have local (from Nebraska towns) or metropolitan papers?—If metropolitan, which ones?"

Marianna Goffe, sophomore, and a Kappa Delta wanted metropolitan papers because of "later news and news of more interest to everyone." Chicago Times and New York Times rated highest with her.

John Thompson, barb sophomore, submitted an idea of his own on what kind of newspapers the union should take. "I think they should subscribe to papers from each of the towns in the Big Six and other sports opponents, such as Manhattan, etc."

Kappa thought that most students would want metropolitan papers "because they read their home town papers anyway and aren't interested in other local newspapers."

Ellis Ruby, junior barb, said "I'd prefer the metropolitan papers. They have wider coverage and more concise writing. But I'd like to have both New York Times and Omaha World Herald though."

Two pert Delta Gammas, Jeanne Miller, frosh, and Mary Jane Fuller, sophomore, expressed their combined opinion thus:

"It doesn't make any difference to us; we liked to have both. Only we want Hastings and Omaha for certain."

Barb freshman Jacqueline Gladney sized up her choice this way. "I'd pick metropolitan because they're better written and have better news coverage than local papers." She wants the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the Kansas City Star.

Phil Weber, junior and barb, commented "We can get local papers so much easier, and metropolitan papers carry more varied material, too, so my vote is for

Bewildered? The library has all the answers

That the library reference department knows the answers to many hard questions is revealed in a current display in the library. Students can pose a multitude of difficult questions, states Frank Egan, assistant reference librarian, but it is seldom that research can't track down the answers.

Latest biographies of personages in the news and indexed files of world events are received by the library each week. Other digests tell the reader whether George Washington had a middle name or describe latest fabrics used in dressmaking.

Two other exhibits now in the library show the importance of world and Pan-American relations as subject matter for literature now being published.

Walker fills Barb Council vacancy

Budd Walker, Columbus junior, was elected to the Barb Council membership Monday to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Tom Higgins. Other business of the council included plans for the financial aid of The Barb and for the barb spring party. Vernon Wiebusch, chairman of the program committee, described his progress in arranging for entertainment at the banquet, to precede the party.

'Bishop' premier to name Martha Scott double

Women of the University of Nebraska, do you resemble Martha Scott?

If so, a contest being held in connection with the world premier here of "Cheers for Miss Bishop" offers you an opportunity to rub elbows with many of the famous Hollywood stars, accompany them to a reception at the coliseum, a luncheon, a tea, an official dinner and presentation from the stage of the Stuart theatre, and who knows—possibly a motion picture contract?

Under the sponsorship of the Lincoln junior chamber of commerce world premier committee, with the Daily Nebraskan serving as official campus sponsor, a contest is now under way to choose the Lincoln girl most nearly resembling Martha Scott, who carried the role in the movie, a part of which was filmed on this campus.

Coed age.

The only rules governing eligibility of entrants in the contest are that candidates are of high school or college age whether attending school at present or not, and that all candidates submit their photograph to the Daily Ne-

Kosmet Klub sets deadline for play entries

Playwrights have chance at $720 prize for best musical comedy in zone

Feb. 8 has been announced as the final deadline for UN playwrights to enter the Kosmet Klub contest for the best musical comedy. $40 is awarded to the first place winner for the play scheduled for the third week in April.

In addition, the winning play will be entered in the national ASCAP contest offering $720 for the best musical comedies and operas. Since there was no entry from this section of the country last year, the author of the Kosmet Klub musical may step into big prize money.

Contest rules

Contest rules state that the play must be around two and one-half hours in length and must have parts for both male and female characters as well as a pony chorus. A later contest will be held for songs and lyrics with a prize of $10 for the prize winning number.

Second prize of $10 will also be awarded by the Klub. Last year's contest was won by Robert Leadley with his play entitled "Sid Stealers." All entries must be turned in to Leo Cooksley in the Kosmet Klub office in the Union.

Famed Arctic explorer to tell of experiences at 4 Sunday afternoon

"Beyond the Arctic Circle," will be the subject of Commander Donald B. MacMillan, prominent Arctic explorer, when he speaks in the Union ballroom Sunday, Jan. 12, at —State Journal.

4 p. m. As an assistant on Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary's famed trip to the North Pole, MacMillan began his career of Arctic voyages which now rank in importance with those of Peary and Byrd.

Commander MacMillan has devoted much of his time to the health and welfare of the Eskimos in the Labrador region. Following his study of their life and history, he built and equipped a school in Main, an Eskimo-Moravian village.
