

Socially Speaking

Jo Duree

About the only result the social whirl has that's evident seems to be making folks dizzy, and then they go to bed with the flu and moan about how they're flunking out of college and how will I ever get any grades at this rate?"

Formals are well situated in the scale. They can take people's minds off themselves and all that sort of thing. This week-ending people can lose their minds at the Beta affair. . . .Piker Davis is all dated up with Kappa Dorothy Koenig and, news, Delta Gam's Flossie Perkins will be there with Lowe Folsom . . . and, then if you're watching for Jim Howell, you can spot him with Mary Lou Neill, Theta. . . .

AOPT's are formulating and Bunny Chapline is with Kappa Sig Jasper Clarke who thinks Bunny is a pretty cute little lass. . . . Ed Howard is taking Dorie Marshall Phi Delta Harty Goetz will be dancing a few with Lucy McLafferty. . . .

More and more are the new officers. . . . At the Phi Psi house we give you: President Stan Southwick; vice-president Jim Selzer; secretary, Jack Morrow; treasurer, Bert Smith. . . . Phi Delta Theta: Charlie Harris, president; Chick Oldfather, vice-president; and Bob Poe, secretary. . . .

DU: Neal Felber, president; Fred Meier, vice-president; secretaries, Adrian Foe and Clayton La Velle. . . .

Becker plays at Turnpike

Pauley features early dance for UN students

Featuring "Modern music in tomorrow's mood," Howard Becker and his Pennsylvanians come direct from an engagement at the Plamor in Kansas City for a three night stand at the Turnpike this week end.

Howard Becker.

The booking of Becker represents the second band featured on the new plan of five and one-half hours of Sunday night dancing, beginning at 6:30.

Previous to his engagements in the midwest, Becker played at many hotels and popular dance spots in the east. He was in great demand at college dances, including Penn State.

Other features of the band are special arrangements of sweet music with string-swing and a vocal trio.

the Union intends to continue the forums on pertinent questions next semester. Coffee will be served by the Union after debates, according to Pat Lahr.

The War Forum of the fall of 1939 which sponsored talks by various professors on current events was the last of similar panels held at the university. Norman Harris, DAILY editor, feels that students would prefer discussion panels with certain students invited to begin conversation and answer questions.

Dr. F. D. Keim, chairman of the agronomy department, addressed the Federal Land Bank association at Beatrice Wednesday. His subject was "Lessons We Learn from Drouth."

Educator warns uni enrollment figures will drop

Cincinnati, Ohio. (ACP). In spite of a slight increase in total enrollments in the nation's colleges and universities during 1940, Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the University of Cincinnati, predicts a marked attendance drop in future years.

Dr. Walters, a recognized leader in the field of college attendance statistics, bases his forecast on the fact that freshman enrollments decreased 2 percent in 1940. He feels this decrease is the forerunner of a trend.

The freshman enrollment decrease, says Dr. Walters, should warn educators that universities in the future will have fewer prospective students because of more stringent immigration regulations and a decline in the nation's birth rate.

Debate team meets K-State

Forensic groups appear today in nearby towns

The university's debate team will appear against a team from Kansas State college today at two meetings arranged in nearby Nebraska towns, according to Prof. H. A. White, debate coach.

The Nebraska affirmative team, composed of George Blackstone of Lincoln, and Ewald Warsholz of Garland will debate the Kansas negative at the Beatrice senior high school at 3 p. m. on the subject of "union of the countries of the western hemisphere for mutual aid and protection."

Clyde Martz, Lincoln, and Edwin Carraher, Stamford will form the negative team debating the Kansas affirmative on the same subject at Wymore high school.

The debates are the first of several trips planned to nearby towns during the present forensic season, according to Professor White.

Union employees discuss possible changes at meet

Union employees met for their first coffee hour in the faculty lounge Tuesday to discuss possible additions to the program of the Union. The group discussed proposals for more round tables in the faculty dining room, distribution of souvenir ash trays, promotion of the "juke box," and posting signs in the booths in the grill.
