Bulgaria. These reports are accompanied by the news that general staff officers of the German army have been arriving in Sofia.

At the same time, reports from Turkey intimate that the British are holding large forces in north Africa in readiness for a dash into the Balkans by way of Greece. And though London refuses to comment, Belgrade sources say that 200 thousand British troops already are enroute to Greece.

It is not clear yet just what technicolor film the Germans are planning for the Balkans

Some suggest that the Germans are prepared to smash on to the oil fields of Iraq and Iran, and smash the English life line at Suez.

Others think they are planning to smash Greece, thus relieving the hard-pressed Italians by forcing the Greeks to make some kind of an early peace.

Still others say that the present country for his proposed design for the Chicago Tribune office Balkan movements are merely faints to distract attention as they prepare for an all-out invasion of England. (If it were known just what classes and types of troops the Germans had in the Balkans it would be much easier to pass judgment on this supposition.

Army board to grant graduate commissions As graduating students hit the ited colleges or universities having careers, opportunities for joining the nation's armed forces as officers are being given to those with outstanding records.

Eight members of the advanced ROTC who were recently named honor graduates are awaiting the arrival of a board of three army officers on Feb. 27 who will select six men from the entire Seventh corps area for positions in the regular army as second lieutenants.

Honor graduates.

The honor graduates designated by Chancellor Chauncey Boucher and Col. C. A. Thuis, professor of military science and tactics, of the ROTC unit, are Stephen Davis, and Delbert Spahr.

Following personal interviews, stiff physical tests and close examination of each candidate's record, the army board will name, in July, the six from the 75 who have applied for the commissions from schools in the Seventh corps area.

With the competition extremely keen, no recent Nebraska graduate has been awarded one of the commissions which are identical to the commission awarded graduates of the United States military academy at West Point.

Marine corps opportunities.

For those graduates not enrolled For the first time the Barb In- in the ROTC, an opportunity for training in the marine corps will be given when an officer of the marine corps comes to interview applicants for training and later a commission in the marines.

Altho the exact date of the interviews is not known, the military department announced the following general qualifications, for students interested:

1. Must be graduates of accred- lar.

home stretch in their university a four year course. 2. Be over 20 and under 25 years of age. 3. Be unmarried. 4. Be recommended as to character and qualifications by the chancellor or dean, by a member of the faculty, and by three citizens of the candidate's community. 5. Be physically fit. 6. Be not a member of army reserve, ROTC, national guard or the naval

This is due in part to the less than usual seasonal slackening of department store sales, building activity and postoffice receipts from the December level. On the other hand, however, business payments in the form of bank debits declined, leaving the general index unchanged from December, the Spurr article disclosed. January business volume averaged about 5 percent above last year.

Complete reports now available for December reveal sharp gains over November in all principal measures of business volume, after discounting the effect of Christ-

Spurr writes that farm purchasing power was aided in January by a rise of 7 percent in average farm prices, with little change in the average prices of industrial goods, thereby enabling the farmer to purchase more with his dol-
