Students Trek To K-State Game

Decision to hold the university's annual student migration to Kansas State this year highlighted this fall's first student council meeting held yesterday.

Finding it impracticable to take a trip to Missouri or Minnesota, as had been suggested, the migration committee, headed by Don Steele, moved that the council plan the student trip to the Kansas State game in Manhattan. The motion was accepted unanimously by council members.

Date of the migration is Saturday, Nov. 1. Don Steele will be in charge of arrangements, assisted by Margaret Fowler, Bob Settell and Virginia Emerson.

Innocents Choose Seven New Husker Yell Leaders

Pep Groups to Teach Rooters Both UN, Opponents' Songs

Seven men will lead Nebraska cheers this year. Innocents' rally committee chairman Jack Stewart revealed that Jim VanLandingham, John Hogan, Mark Hargraves, Don Tracy, Sheldon Kaufman, Jack Higgins and Roland Finley have been selected.

Promoted from last year, Max Whittaker was named yell director. Veterans Ed Dosek and Paul Svoboda will be on duty again.

Innovation of the year will be an attempt to sing at least one song of the opposing school. Corn Cobs and Tassels are slated to carry the bulk of this job, according to the rally committee.

Again copies of Cornhusker yells and songs will be distributed to the student body at the games. To add to the general noise making, an amplifying system will be used.

Altho sentiment for women cheer leaders has grown, no immediate attempt will be made to have them lead yells. The rally committee is, nevertheless, studying. (See CHEER LEADERS, Page 2.)

'Vote for Your Play' Plan Wins Support of Students

... As 200 Vote So Far

Enthusiastic student support of the "vote for your plays" plan was indicated yesterday as the member voting until 4 p. m. yesterday totaled about 200 people.

It was semi-officially reported that, in the comedy-melodrama group, "East Lynne" is in the lead. The famous "Arsenic and Old Lace" is the comedy voting favorite. In the drama department, three plays are vying for the number one spot: "Middletown Mural," "Prologue to Glory" and "Flight to the West."

Voting will continue today in the inner entrance of the union. Ballots may be obtained there upon presentation of identification card.

Mrs. Grubaugh Resigns Union Catering Job

Resignation of Mrs. Carol Grubaugh, assistant catering manager of the Union, has been announced by Bill Marsh, Union director.

Mrs. Grubaugh will leave Oct. 1 to serve as manager of the new restaurant which is being opened in the Union Terminal Warehouse building where 1,500 government employees have offices. The new position offers many possibilities and an advancement for Mrs. Grubaugh who has been with the Union since before it was opened in the spring of 1937.

As assistant to the catering manager, Mrs. Grubaugh had charge of all student employees in the Union and arranged work schedules for them. She also acted as personnel manager for this group. Other duties included supervision of parties and banquets held in the building and the supervision of the main dining room.

A party is being planned by the Union employees for Mrs. Grubaugh Monday, Sept. 29.

YWCA Invites Uni Women To Annual Membership Tea

All university women are invited to the YWCA membership tea in Ellen Smith from 3:30 until 5:30 this afternoon. At this tea an opportunity will be given to upperclassmen to join staffs and freshmen will again have a chance to sign up for freshman commission groups.

Members of the advisory board will preside at the tea tables assisted by freshman cabinet members. Providing music during the afternoon will be Doris Crittenden, Frances Keefer, Betty Joe Nelson and Rosemary Riley.

The first issue of the "Tiny Y" will be distributed to the guests. This issue will contain a description of the work of each staff and the staff leader so that those desiring to join a staff may choose the type of work they enjoy.

Staffs which may be joined are: Personnel and office work, which includes library work, filing, typing and telephoning, will be led by Jean Coffee. The staff will meet every Tuesday at 3 p. m.

The Vespers staff will be led by Joyce Junge and Mary Helen Farrar. This group will plan the Vesper program for the semester and secure speakers.

Vesper choir will meet Monday at 5 p. m. Doris Crittenden will direct the group. The Vesper choir sings at all YW Vespers and presents a program of Christmas carols.

Social service work is in charge of Joann Emerson. The staff will meet Thursday at 4 p. m. The work will include trips to an orphanage, the prison, police stations and work in community centers.

For Artistic Freshmen. The art staff will make posters and do sketching, and other forms (See MEMBERSHIP, Page 4.)

Final meeting of the selection board composed of representatives from the Civil Aeronautics Administration, flying schools and ground school, will be held tonight instead of last night as was inadvertently reported in yesterday's Daily Nebraskan.

Beginning at 7:30 p. m. at 204 ME building, the meeting will be featured by final filling of the quota of students for both the primary and secondary civilian pilot training program.

Officials announced that anyone interested in making application and who did not attend the first meeting of the board should be present at this meeting.

Acceptance to the program is the first step toward actual training. A physical examination and other details involved in registration must also be completed before actual work is started.

Starting this afternoon at 5 p. m., ag college will have matinee dances every other Thursday afternoon.

Pat Lahr, Union social director, will be in charge of the Union sponsored dances.

If there is sufficient interest and the attendance is quite large, the dances may be held once a week.

Mrs. Verna Boyles . . . New Dean of Women Pledges Help, Support to UN Students

To help carry out the ideas of the students and to encourage and aid them with their problems is the aim of Mrs. Verna Boyles, new dean of women, who was discovered going through registration at the coliseum "to find out exactly how it was done."

"You see," she exclaimed to a registration official, "I've been hearing so much about the efficient way in which registration is now handled under the Junior Division plan that I felt that I should come over and investigate. I didn't want to be caught knowing less about it than a freshman."

Dean Boyles is "thrilled to death about being back on my own campus," and enjoys her contacts with students. Men students, she said, have consulted her as often as women.

Asked about fraternities and sororities and their place on this campus, Dean Boyles stated, "Recently the administration assured the students that fraternities have a place on this campus. I hope that the fraternities will prove (See PROBLEMS, Page 2.)

Seeing Eye Dog Escorts Musically Talented Blind Student to Classes

By Joann Emerson. With her seeing eye dog, Doris, at her side, Marie Helen Hassel will be a familiar sight on the Nebraska campus this year.

Originally of Winnebago, Marie previously studied piano at the Nebraska School for Blind. Feeling that no sacrifice was too great to gain some of the light she had never seen, Marie spent several months giving descriptive piano concerts to earn $150 with which to buy her animal companion.

In November, 1939, Marie made the long trip to Morristown, N. J., to the original Seeing Eye Dog Farm to make the acquaintance of her canine friend, Doris, who was to spend every moment with her from then on.

Doris Friendly. Marie said the only trouble she has experienced with the dog was keeping people from trying to become friends with Doris. Such action tends to distract the dog.

Doris has now become oriented to the campus and serves as a

After calling the council meeting to order, Burton Thiel, president, asked for reports of all committees.

NSFA Convention Here. Marion Cramer Aden and Ruth Iverson presented tentative plans for the holding of a regional NSFA convention here early this fall.

Marjorie Bruning, publicity chairman, reported the possible organization of a student alumni advisory board to work with the alumni association. This board would consist of five members chosen from Nebraska's five congressional districts. No action was taken on this as yet, pending a meeting of the committee members.

Bob Bramson, chairman of the point system committee, announced that a meeting of that committee will be held this week to contact all pointed activity groups on the campus and arrange a file.

Other Committee Reports. Other reports were turned in by Margaret Fowler, book store committee; Ruth Iverson, freshmen week; Lawrence Huwaldt, constitutions; Jean Humphery, activities; and Mary Rosborough, treasurer.

Corn Cobs Pledge 32 New Workers

When the smoke cleared away sufficiently last night at the corn cob smoker to make the pledge list partially visible thru the haze, 32 men were signed up for workers.

Colonel Frankforter, corn cob faculty advisor gave a short welcome and pep talk.

Don Steele, president of the organization, explained the system by which members were chosen and outlined the program of work which the pledges would have to do.

Officers of the club stated that there was plenty of room for more workers. New men that would like to try out for the pep club are welcome to attend the next meeting that will be held Wednesday night, 7:30 p. m. in the Union. The present list of pledges is:
