

In Case You're Worried . . .

Subscription to Good Magazine Makes Perfect Holiday Gift

. . . For Him (or Her)

By Lloydene Kershaw.

Do you have a friend on your gift list who is an avid magazine buyer? If you do, then the logical gift for him or her is a subscription to one of his favorite publications.

The magazine field is singularly productive right now and there are all types to suit varying tastes.

Practically the Bible of the fashion conscious coed is Mademoiselle, although Vogue, Harper's Bazaar, You, Charm and Glamour occupy their share of the limelight.

Varga, Well?

For the fellows (and gals as well), you can be sure that the inevitable Esquire will be received with enthusiasm. Or if your pocketbook is a trifle too flat to give a year's subscription, buy him the holiday gift package which contains the holiday issue and the new 1942 Varga calendar.

The ideal magazine for someone immersed in the current world situation is either Life or Time. They both contain extremely timely and pertinent information concerning latest developments in the Far East.

The issue of Time that appeared on the newsstands a day or so before the outbreak of the war, for example, had a picture of General MacArthur, commander of U. S. forces in the Far East, on the cover and an excellent biographical sketch of him among its features.

For light entertainment and information as well, we strongly recommend the New Yorker, a weekly, which would surely please almost anyone on your list.

Tops among the digests is Reader's Digest. This would be a particularly appropriate gift for someone who must do his reading "on the run," because it is composed of the best current articles that have appeared elsewhere, expertly condensed to retain the gist of it.

To be included in any list of magazines which would make ideal Christmas gifts, of course, are Harper's and Atlantic Monthly, although they are somewhat more expensive than many of the others.

Superior in the group of so-called "women's magazines," is the Ladies Home Journal with its "How America Lives" series. McCall's and Women's Home Companion are definitely readable, too.

Give Practical Gifts to Her This Yuletide

Go practical, young man, go practical. This year she doesn't favor perfumes in glistening crystal bottles set in toy pianos or miniature sleighs. She won't delight in receiving fine cosmetics as is usually the case. She does not want huge boxes of luscious candy. Even the much relied upon jewelry will hold no joy for her.

Rather, gifts tending toward the things grandma would call suitable are in order. Did you ever imagine giving such things as mittens, not just plain brown knitted ones; no, nothing so unsentimental as that. But some of the Tyrolean ones with a white background. Or maybe she likes to skate. In that case how about some warm, but brilliantly-colored skating socks? And since the style is to wear anklets all winter, why not strike the right note with a pair of angora socks in any one of the pastel shades?

Even the worn-out gift of handkerchiefs is coming back. Then too these little pixie caps of gleaming satin would suit any girl. In an emergency you might give her ear-muffs. But still the best, although not too practical gift, is a picture of your own dear self.

Sigma Tau Initiates 16 New Members

Engineering Honorary Holds Annual Banquet, Ceremony Tonight

Initiation of 16 new members into Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity, will take place this evening at their annual banquet, held at the Lincoln Hotel. G. D. Blackstone, head of the Western Brick and Supply Co., will deliver the main address.

Vern Hedge, formerly national president of the organization, will present the keys to the new members, and L. W. Hurlbut, assistant professor in ag engineering, will act as toastmaster.

At the banquet Earl Luff, general manager of the Lincoln Steel Works, will be made honorary member of the fraternity, and Albert Pugsley, assistant professor of architecture, will be initiated for the Delta chapter at Brookings, South Dakota.

Others who will be initiated are: Milton Adler, Harry Bane, Leonard Barker, Quentin Bonness, George Conner, Lester Haining, Dick Hall, Oswin Keifer, Donald Lynch, Robert Marcotte, James Rishel, Donald Spatz, Franklin Walters and Maurice Breunsbach.

BABW Meets Today at 5 p. m.

BABW members meet in room 307 of the Union at 5 p. m. today instead of 5 p. m. Wednesday as was previously reported. The meeting is a special pre-holiday meeting which will include representatives from the Interhouse Council.

Second structure built at the University of North Carolina, now housing administration office, will build from proceeds of a statewide lottery.

We laughed . . . Boo Hoo! Utah Students Can't Dance 'Lip-to-Forehead' Now . . . and you should!

"Lip-to-forehead" dancing was condemned by the social standard committee at the University of Utah last week as the Utah Chronicle carried a lead story telling of the revolutionary changes made in the social code on the campus.

The Utah social committee considers dancing a "graceful art" and stated that in the future students will be asked to dance in the "conventional" style. No more of this cheek-to-cheek stuff; it isn't "becoming."

This serious breach of etiquette, the Chronicle stated, came to a head recently when several Utah couples were asked to leave the floor at a neighboring college because of their dancing style.

Use Good Judgment.

Also a part of this committee's plan to raise Utah social standards was a recommendation that men use "good judgment" in the selection of corsages. No reason for the inclusion of this clause in the new code of campus etiquette was given, however.

Socialite Utahans will, besides taking care that their dancing posture is in "good taste," hereafter great patrons of the dances and help everyone to "get acquainted" at matinee dances.

That's the way it is, out where the west begins, where dancing will be dancing from now on.

Pre-Dent Group Hears Ireland

Dr. R. L. Ireland, faculty advisor for the dental students, was the guest speaker last night at the pre-dental club meeting which was held in Andrews. Woodrow Whin, president, presided at the meeting.

Dr. Hooper, dean of the dental college, conducted a tour through the class rooms and laboratories of the dental college.

ROTC Sponsors Meet at Stadium

ROTC sponsors will meet today at 5 p. m. in the visual education department in the west stadium to have their pictures taken for the Cornhusker instead of the Union as previously announced.

Freshmen Plan Holiday Party

In step with the general campus swing to Christmas parties, AWS freshmen have planned a party in place of their regular meeting Thursday to be held as usual in Ellen Smith at 5 p. m.

Decorations, games, refreshments, and carols are included in the program to give the proper holiday spirit. In spite of the necessary five cent charge to cover expenses, a larger group than ever before is expected, as stated by Charlotte Graber, chairman of arrangements.

Final Deadline For Cornhusker Pics Saturday

Final deadline for fraternity, sorority, and class pictures for the 1942 Cornhusker has been set for Saturday night at 5 p. m. Pictures and proofs must be returned to the studio which has been moved from Rudge and Guenzels to Miller and Paines, second floor. According to Shirley Russel, editor, this is the absolute deadline.

Campus Library Remains Open During Vacation

The university library will continue its policy of remaining open during Christmas vacation from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. The library will be closed on Christmas day, Saturday afternoons and on Sunday, according to Dr. R. A. Miller.

Students may check books out over the vacation.

Joint Library System Used In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (ACP). Something new in Tennessee college operation came into being this month with dedication of the joint libraries of George Peabody college for Teachers, Scarritt college, and Vanderbilt university. Two-day exercises marked the dedication.

The joint libraries represent a new movement in higher education, research, and library service. They were established to eliminate unnecessary duplication, to coordinate and expand the library resources and services of the three neighboring institutions, of higher learning.

The library building and its endowment are jointly owned and directed. In like manner its book resources and services and all of the other library resources and services of the three co-operating institutions are jointly controlled and administered by one board of trustees.

This co-operative enterprise is designed as one of the steps toward realization of a great regional university center in Nashville.
