Three Sports Due to Begin As Four Teams Dominate Fraternity Jack Best Race

Fraternity intramurals have settled down into a four-way dog fight.

I-M basketball saw finals last Thursday and these points were added to the former totals. Phi Gamma Delta, who previously held the lead for the Jack Best trophy, increased its narrow margin by virtue of the cage championship over Beta Theta Pi, 21-17.

The golf and tennis points have not been added. Although a fall sport, the two were nipped by win-

State Fiesta—

Starting Thursday, 32 high schools throughout Nebraska will send their cage squads to the all-state basketball fiesta to be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. . . . There will be four classes, A, B, C, and D, with eight teams competing in each league. . . . Since last years the Nebraska high school athletic association has split up the Class A schools as they stood last year and put the smaller teams into Class B. . . . Thus they had to add a Class D.

Class A Close—

As usual the Class A league will give the Nebraska highs their 1942 cage champ and as usual this looks like a duel between Omaha and Lincoln entries. . . . Don't get me wrong, the other schools in the league will give them plenty of trouble but the "big city" quints should work their way into the semi-finals. . . . The two Omaha representatives, Creighton Prep and Omaha South, have been given the seeded positions in the two brackets.

Lincoln-Northeast—

Another thing that was settled last week-end was the Capital City rivalry. . . . Lincoln high and Northeast met in the regional finals down Beatrice direction. . . . After Northeast's 26-17 win over Lincoln in seasonal play, the latter came back to plaster a 44-24 defeat on their foes. . . . There's some old axiom that seems to fit this situation—He who laughs last, laughs . . . or something to that effect.

Swimmers Wind Up—

For the second year, the Scarlet swimmers splashed their way into the conference third spot. . . . They lacked the well-rounded appearance which they exhibited a year ago. . . . Les Oldfield proved that he was king of the waves in the backstroke in a decisive manner by hanging up a new conference record in his pet event. . . . He lowered the market which he set up last year by a second and a half in 1:46.1. . . . Bill Edwards, who has been hampered all season long by sinus trouble, was second in the 50 and the 100 free style sprints. . . . He has shown the sprint men some good swimming this season by winning unexpectedly against Wisconsin and Minnesota entries. . . . He also set a new pool record down in Kansas State.

Letter Awards—

Coach Ad Lewandowski announced that there were ten major letter winners and two minor winners this year in basketball. . . . The majors will go to Sid Held, Les Livingston, John Thompson, Hartman Goetze, John Fitzgibbon, Ken Elson, John Bottorff, Lyle King, Bob Heinzelman and Max Young. . . . Minor go to Allen Artman and to George Gribble. . . . Requirements for a major emblem is 120 minutes of playing time and for a minor, 60.

Reflections—

We got into a conversation several nights ago that had a humorous note. . . . It seems that there were several old hands around telling about some of their interesting and funny experiences in the journalistic field. . . . The best one was about the Grand Island sports scribe who was writing about the A. A. U. teams. . . . He had occasion to tell about the Nut House team from Lincoln, which is composed of the better net stars around this territory. . . . Sid Held and four of his teammates are on the squad. . . . At any rate, said Scribe known affectionately as "Red," did not wish to be repetitious. . . . So instead of using the name "Nut House" all through his story, he substituted the "State Hospital team". . . . He thought that that was the way the thing stood. . . . Maybe that's why they call him "Red."

ing Missouri in the final contest, and called it successful.

Coach A. J. Lewandowski was pleased to a degree with the performance of his charges altho lack of height and scoring punch put the locals behind the eight ball in many encounters during heir 1942 campaign.

Held is Consistent.

The Cornhusker star basket maker and defensive cog, Sid Held, was named for the second time All Big Six guard. Held ended the season as fifth highest scorer in the league while the next Scarlet and Cream cager wound up in the 22nd slot.

Kansas university proved to be the big threat in the conference as they tied the Sooners for the championship and scored a new ten game scoring record of 521 points. Coach Phog Allen's crew will probably get the nod to be the Big Six's entry into the N. C. A. A. meet held in Kansas City next week.

.500 Average.

Since Coach "Lew" took over the duties as cage mentor the Huskers have compiled an average of .500 in league play. During the 1941 season the locals ended with a .600 average but the 1942 season average slipped to .400. Lewandowski lost five lettermen this season and the prospects for next year are quite slim. How many men will be called into army service is unknown but from the freshman ranks Lewandowski has several outstanding players who might fourth in the standing. Kansas university has dominated the field with the outstanding record average of .740.
