

YWCA Will Gather For Mass Meeting . . . Tonight at 7

Members of the YWCA will gather tonight at 7 p. m. in parlors A, B and C of the Union for their first mass meeting of this year.

Yesterday members received invitations to the "Double or Nothing" party which had been made by the creative art staff with the help of freshmen YW workers.

The program has been planned by the executive council and Betty Hohf, member of the council, will be mistress of ceremonies. The quiz will be a combination of several of the most popular radio quizzes and has been organized to include many of those attending and to provide fun for all.

This program has been planned for all members of the YWCA, which includes all those who have paid the initial $2 fee and are still in the university. Helen Kelley, president, emphasized that the meeting is for all members, not just freshmen.

Closing the evening the group will sing a new YW song written to the tune of "Elmer's Tune." The program will be over at 7:50 in order that freshman living in the dorm may be in on time.

WAA Holds Annual Vote Tomorrow

Council Members, Sports Board May Go to Polls

WAA elections will be held tomorrow in the WAA office in Grant Memorial from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. The elections have been put off for a week, but will be held this week.

Candidates for president are Betty Newman and Dorothy Martin. Miss Newman has served on the WAA board two years and on the AWS board. She was a member of the University players and had several roles during the year. Miss Martin served as treasurer of the WAA board last year, wrote the Girl's Sports column, and is a physical education major.

Candidates for other positions are: Vice president, Jean Hazen and Susan Shaw; treasurer, Joyce Junge and Ruth Ann Robertson; and concessions Lila Howell and Merriam Mann.

Virginia Ford.

...typical (and beautiful) Nebraska coed.

Stepping from a harp flanked on either side by shamrocks, Virginia Ford, Kappa Kappa Gamma, was presented as the typical Nebraska Coed at the annual Coed Follies last night at the Temple theatre. Kappa Alpha Theta took top honors for their curtain act entitled "Jean for Nebraska Queens" and Pi Beta Phi won the cup for the best skit called "Magic to Music."

Sponsored by the AWS board, the show chairman this year was Betty Newman. Other members of the committee were Betty O'Shea, Janet Curley, Rachel Ann Locke, Janice Cook, Susan Shaw, Lois Christie, Janet Hamphill, Marion Cramer Aden, Natalie Burn, Ben Alice Day, Jane Bird, Dorothy White and Jeanette Mickey.

Second and third place winners were Residence Halls for Women and Alpha Phi with curtain acts and Delta Gamma and Alpha Xi Delta presenting skits. The winners were presented cups by Betty Newman at the close of the show.

Clothes Modeled

Following the skits, Marion Cramer Aden narrated for a fashion show before the presentation of Miss Ford.

Modeling clothes were June Jamieson, Ruth Hult, Margaret Weld, Mary Stephenson, Catherine Smith, Marcia Beckman,

Miltzer Speaks at First Marriage Series Lecture

This afternoon at 5 p. m. in room 315 of the Union Dr. Walter E. Miltzer will speak at the first meeting in the marriage series sponsored by the YWCA.

This will be the first in a series of four lectures by professors and one by a catholic priest. Last year two professors spoke in the series of four lectures which proved so successful that it was decided to continue holding such a series.

The lectures were sponsored by Motar Board and the YWCA last year, and as is the custom among many Motar Board organizations, as soon as the project was established it was turned over to the co-sponsoring organization.

The lectures will be held in room 315 of the Union and if the crowd is large enough the group will move to a larger room. The lectures are open to both men and women.

The program as planned will include two lectures by Dr. Miltzer, "Choosing Life's Partner," and "Adjustments after Marriage." The second lecture will be given by Dr. C. H. Patterson on "Religion in the Home."

priests in this diocese will talk on "Interfaith Marriages." His name will be announced later. The last lecture will be given by Dr. Ruth Warner on "War and its Relation to Marriage," a topic of current interest to many students.

The lectures will begin promptly at 5 each Wednesday and the speaker will talk for half an hour. The last 20 minutes will be allowed for questions and students are asked to ask any questions at this time.

The lecture course has been arranged by Helen Gogola and is authorized by the Student Council, Dean of Women and Dean Bengtson. Announcements will be read in classes today announcing the place and time.

Miss Kelley reminded students yesterday that the lecture series is intended for both men and women. Last year, as many men as women attended and enjoyed the lectures, she said.

Following each of the lectures, there will be a period for open discussion and questions from the floor, according to Miss Kelley. All of the speakers have agreed to attempt to meet all questions that students may ask, she said.

Col. Pinger Describes Need Of Ordnance for Officers To 300 Sophomore Men

Declaring that "Ordnance covers the tools of war," Col. R. W. Pinger, commander of the 7th corps area ordnance department explained organization of the proposed new unit before a convocation attended by more than 300 sophomore men yesterday afternoon in the Student Union ballroom.

"The need for ordnance officers has been greatly increased because of the present war conditions," the colonel continued, "and to supply that need we must call upon the colleges and universities of the country having ROTC units. Nebraska has been selected by the war department because it was felt UN could turn out a reasonable number of ordnance officers without injuring any of the other units.

On Ag Campus . . . Ak-Sar-Ben Hires All Girl Orchestra for Ball Friday

By Dale Wolf.

Besides getting an earful, those attending the Jr. AK-Sar-Ben ball Friday night will also get an eyeful when they dance to Jane Griffith and her All-Girl orchestra. There will be music by one of the few all girl bands in the midwest plus a thirty minute stage and floor show revue. It's tuneful, delightful, gay and it's new.

The activities building on this campus will be decorated in a patriotic manner with red, white and blue streamers. Along with this decoration, there will be several pens of livestock around the outside of the dance floor.

This, according to Professor Fidler who is sponsor for the show will add to the barnyard atmosphere of the dance as well as exhibiting some interesting animals to those present.

With this unusual orchestra, floor show, and the gay decorations the Ak-Sar-Ben ball will be one of the best parties of the year. The price is 75 cents per couple.

Dr. Tysdal Lectures.

Dr. H. M. Tysdal of the agronomy department here at the university has just finished delivering some nationwide known series of lectures at the Michigan agricultural experiment station. Engaged in cooperative alfalfa investigations with the U. S. department of agriculture's division of forage crops and diseases, Dr. Tysdal presented the lectures in recognition of the plant achievements of Frank Azor Spragg, plant breeder at Michigan state. Most of the lectures had to do with research methods in alfalfa breeding.

This was the second time that a Nebraskan had presented the annual lectures. Dr. T. Kiesselbach presented them in 1931.

James R. Young to Discuss Far East at Convocation

...expert on orient will speak at convocation here.

James R. Young, popular speaker on the Orient, who returned to America last year after 13 years in Japan and other eastern countries, will discuss "Why Japan Will Fail" at a university convocation Friday morning at 11 a. m. in the Student Union ballroom.

"Jimmy" Young, as he is called in the Far East, first made headlines in Jan. 1940, when he was arrested and kept in a Japanese prison for two months for writing articles which the police disliked. He returned to the United States shortly after his release and has been busy with his popular books, magazine articles, and lectures on the Far East. He spoke in the Union last July.

His arrest followed a 9,000 mile trip into the heart of unoccupied China, as the first foreign correspondent to reach the back-country headquarters of Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek at Chungking. His release finally was effected through the efforts of American Ambassador Joseph Grew who loaned him his sealskin overcoat for use in the unheated jail cell.

Predicted Pearl Harbor.

During pre-war days, Young long prophesied the probability of a Japanese-American clash, or an "undeclared incident" in the Pacific.

In an up-to-the minute analysis of the affairs in the troubled East, he declared, "Japan is determined to eliminate all foreign influence in Japan, and while on the one hand, she seeks to drive out American and British interests, she is on the other hand becoming encumbered by a German stranglehold on Japanese interests and
