In One Week . . .

Brummer Gets Call For Reserve Duty

. . . Two Speech Profs

For the second time in less than a week, a member of the speech department has been called to reserve duty in the armed forces. Delford Brummer, an instructor in the department and technical director of the University Theatre will follow Director Paul Bogen, who leaves March 26.

Brummer, a second lieutenant in the infantry of the Officer's Reserve Corp, will be stationed at Lowry Field, Denver, while Bogen goes to the war college at Fort Benning, Ga.

Active in Theatre.

Brummer took an active part in University Theatre activities until his graduation in 1937 when he received his A. B. degree here. Granted his M. A. at Iowa university in 1938, he returned to Nebraska as an instructor, and became technical director of the Theatre in 1940.

During the two years he has served in that position, Brummer has added much to the equipment (See BRUMMER, Page 2.)

Walton Leaves This Weekend For Air Corps

Another vacancy in the psychology department due to the call of Uncle Sam will soon appear when

Dr. W. E. Walton

Dr. William E. Walton leaves to join the Air Corps. Stationed until further orders in Washington, D. C., Dr. Walton will conduct psychological tests for future army pilots.

Already packed to leave and wearing his uniform to class, Dr. Walton expects to leave the end of this week altho final orders have not yet come.

Induction Stop Needs Facilities From Campus

Officers at the Fort Crook Induction Station have asked the defense committee at UN to help secure recreational facilities for the soldiers stationed there who have nothing with which to occupy their time, it was reported today.

From $200 to $500 is needed in money. Organized houses are asked to contribute broken down ping pong tables, paddles, etc. which may be fixed. Included on the list besides ping pong equipment are bridge tables, cards, ash trays, magazine racks, magazine subscription, cribbage boards, and dart boards.

All contributions should be reported to the defense committee, headed by Nancy Haycock, and arrangements will be made to pick up the equipment.

Dictatorship Kills Itself Says Fellman

Courtesy Lincoln Journal Prof. David Fellman.

. . . talks at seventh lecture in war series on dictatorships and their basic principals.

Dictatorship's dependence upon vulgarity, violence, action without criticism, lack of leadership and the notion that power needs no justification were named by Professor David Fellman as the great defect of totalitarianism at the Union yesterday afternoon.

The talk by Prof. Fellman, a member of the political science department, was the seventh in a series of talks, part of the university-sponsored "American and World War II" course. A large crowd filled the Union ballroom to hear him.

"Dictatorship is based upon a very low estimate of the moral qualities of man, since it assumes that men lack courage, intelligence, and unselfishness, and that by one-sided propaganda they may be induced to believe that the moon is made of green cheese," Prof. Fellman said.

The emphasis of totalitarianism upon violence is self-destructive, the speaker pointed out. Questions of moral righting always transcend categories of mere force.

Action without criticism brings "a rank over-development" of the executive function of government. The liberal assumption that unchecked power is dangerous and corrupts those who exercise it, has been demonstrated, according to Prof. Fellman. (See FELLMAN, Page 4.)

Kosmet Klub Song Writers Meet Today

Walt Rundin, president of the Kosmet Klub, issued a call for students having written or interested in writing songs for the spring Kosmet Klub show to meet at the club's office at the Union today at 4 p. m.

The winning script by Bob Aldrich, "Football Crazy" will be explained and ideas for songs will be offered. A $10 prize is offered to the author of the best song.

Kosmet Klub workers are to meet today at 5 p. m. Rundin urged houses to send men to the meeting whether they had worked at the fall show or not since opportunities for membership were still open.

First try-outs for the all-male cast is scheduled for March 28 at the Temple theater. Prof. L. A. Martin of the radio department will direct the play, Johnny Cox's orchestra has been signed; and club members are looking for a dance director.

Union Begins Free Lectures For Employees

Pat Lahr Talks at First Meeting This Morning On Social Functions

Beginning a series of six free lectures to explain the operations and functions of the Student Union to present and future employees and all members of the Union, Pat Lahr, Union social director, will discuss social functions in the building at 10 a. m. this morning in room 315.

In order that everyone interested will have an opportunity to attend lectures will be given twice weekly, once on Tuesdays at 10 a. m., and again the following Thursday at 4 p. m. for six consecutive weeks. At the end of the course, students who have attended with any regularity should have a good, basic understanding of the working of the Union, according to Bill Marsh, Union director and organizer of the series.

Robert B. Henry Resigns As Student Center Head

Robert B. Henry, director of the university Westminster Foundation for eight years, has presented his resignation effective June 1, in order to accept a business position.

Lincoln Journal Rev. R. B. Henry.

Until the close of the present school year he will carry on at the Presbyterian Student Center, the Westminster Mansie. A letter from Dr. John Maxwell Adams, director of the department of university work in the board of Christian education of the Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, was received by Dr. W. F. Perry, president of the Westminster Foundation saying that he will come to meet with the Westminster Foundation here, April 13, when preliminary steps will be taken looking for a successor to Mr. Henry.

One of the originators of the first Religion and Life week held on the campus three years ago, he has been president of the Lincoln religious education council.

university religious welfare council and university ministers' association. He directed the remodeling of the Foundation building, which provided additional space for student activities and permitted considerable enlargement of the program.

Dr. Fellman Conducts War Forum

As a follow-up of his lecture last night in the World War II series, Dr. David Fellman of the political science department will conduct a forum at 5 p. m. today in parlor X of the Union.

The forum will be an informal discussion in which everyone is free to ask questions. Instituted because the Monday afternoon lecture series is too large for students to present queries, forums are now planned to follow all remaining lectures.

Sponsoring the forum is the Student Council Forums Committee headed by Preston Hays.

How About It? . . . Majority Want Vacation On Good Friday, Saturday

By John Bauermeister.

Contrary to a rumor circulating about the campus, it was learned from the office of the dean of student affairs that school will not be dismissed on Good Friday or the following Saturday morning.

Normally school has not been held on Good Friday because the annual spring vacation has always come at that time. However, this year the semester has been shortened considerably, due to the war conditions, and spring vacation has been dropped altogether. This action has been merely one of the modifications taken by the university to adjust itself to the present conditions caused by the war. It is felt that students would be willing to give up a mid-term vacation and attend school on (See GOOD FRIDAY, Page 4.)

Morrill Staff Continues Art Lecture Series

Series of talks by members of the Morrill staff will continue this week with lectures today, Wednesday and Friday at the second floor of Morrill, beginning at 4 p. m.

The talks are open to anyone who wishes to attend. Professor Dwight Kirsch issued a special invitation to students interested in art.

Members of the staff speaking include Prof. Kirsch, Prof. L. B. Smith, Miss Kady Faulkner and Miss Burry.

On Ag Campus . . . Ag Religious Council Holds Pre-Easter Breakfast

Always a week before Easter, the Ag Religious Council sponsors a pre-Easter breakfast. This year's traditional breakfast will be held this coming Sunday morning, March 29.

Dr. L. H. Rising will be the main speaker at the fifteenth annual affair. Dr. Rising was formerly a university pastor in Minnesota and is now the pastor of the First Methodist church of Lincoln.

When the pre-Easter breakfasts first started back in 1927, only 45 people attended. Since then there has been a steady increase in attendance until it has become necessary to limit the number of tickets sold because of lack of space. Last year over 400 students were present and this year an equal number is expected. The YMCA, YWCA and various organized houses co-operate in making these breakfasts a success. Through the assistance and influence in the Ag Religious Council, Dr. T. H. Gooding has been a main factor in making the event an annual inspirational occurrence.

Final results of the junior Ak-Sar-Ben show that the champion showman and reserve champion were Don Tracy and Keith King, respectively. The grand champion showman was chosen from the different class winners. Tracy was winner of the horse division and King of the sheep class.

The March issue of the Cornhusker Countryman has just been put into circulation. A couple of articles of interest are Rosa Knickrehm's story on what college students should do for defense, and Dale Wolf explains the important work that the extension service is doing for the war effort through their victory garden program.

Seniors Order Announcements In Next 14 Days

Only 14 days until orders for senior announcements must be in, Jack Stewart, senior class president, reminded students yesterday. Orders may be placed at Long's or Co-op Book Stores.
