Letterip

To the Editor:

I would like to point out a slight error which was made in the Daily Nebraskan's lead story yesterday; not an error in the Nebraskan present policy of news presentation, for that the entire campus well understands, but a slight error as to fact, and, shall we say, courtesy.

The headlines read:

"Farm House Men KAT Lead Lists."

What lists? You should have qualified your statement so that some of the following paragraphs, especially the eighth paragraph, would not have contradicted your headlines. Your headlines should have read:

"Farm House, KAT Lead Fraternity, Sorority Lists."

Then you would not have erred even though you had been guilty of the discourtesy of overlooking the fact that Howard Hall leads all women's organized houses on the campus as well as "other organized houses."

You made another very obvious error in stating that a professional fraternity and a social sorority led the list. Why not be consistent and have either two social organizations or two professional organizations in the head-

Four Years Isn't So Very Long

When they packed up and sent us off to college, the oldsters nodded their heads and told us these would be the finest years of our life. We nodded in agreement, not stopping to think about it, just in a big hurry to get away to school.

All thru school we're too busy to worry out whether or not it is the finest time in our lives. But when you're in the last quarter of your senior year, somehow things come clear.

The campus you have had to walk thru to classes for three years, but never have really noticed, suddenly takes on a new splendor. The grass is greener, the trees are beautiful and nostalgic memories sweep thru you.

Maybe it's a picnic, or classes, a girl, a dance, the spring athletics, something important or trivial, which stops you and makes you think it out. You lie on the grass during a beautiful spring afternoon, and think about the world you are about to leave, and the world you will soon enter.

There is no question about college being the finest, grandest years of anyone's life, but when they're over, they're over.

Don't try to hang on to what is really gone. When you graduate from school, get the hell out of here and stay out. Not to the extreme of missing football or basketball games and playing hookie from house affairs if you belong to one. But you have passed thru one phase of your life and you are starting another. The sooner you get over being a college man, the sooner you'll be a man.

They were the most wonderful years you'll ever know, but you can't live on memories. First, there is a war that must be won, and next the important job of making a success of living.

lines? Notice, that with your set-up you slighted a social fraternity and a professional sorority: Sigma Alpha Mu and Mu Phi Epsilon.

Pat Sand.

(Editor's Note: Since it is impossible to run a complete list of all groups in a box on the front page, the Daily Nebraskan took the list which affected the most readers. Farm House was named as the top since they are also a social fraternity and are represented in the Inter-fraternity council. We believe the headline did not misrepresent the story since an official standing list of the social groups was printed but if we have offended any organization, we offer apologies.)

Eleanor'n Me

By Alan Jacobs

Please let it be known that we have kissed a girl. Despite all rumors to the contrary, we got the job done one dark night when we were more smooth than usual.

Why everybody we know has been peering up at us anxiously since Don Jackson of the Iowa State Daily Student wrote a guest column for us about kissing is more than we can figure out! Either nobody bothers to read the introductory drivel that tells how we went on a picnic and how Jackson didn't and how we have a guest column or else everybody thinks we're not smooth—and we are sm-ooo-oo-th.

As a matter of fact, the whole deal has got us down. First, we are accused of not being smooth. That's bad, but to make things worse everybody is telling us that "that column about kissing was the best one of the year."

Jackson may be glad to hear those sentiments. We're not. Just because we have enough modesty to refrain from our manly conquests shouldn't make us an inferior columnist to Jackson.

If you don't believe that we've kissed a girl, come on down to the Daily Nebraskan office after Monday. By that time we will have transferred the lucky—and only—gal from her present quarters in the mammal section of Morrill hall.

If you think Jackson's column is better than this one, you're right. But you don't get any silver dollars or candy boxes. The only break you get is the suspension of publication of the Daily Nebraskan.

But regardless of what you think about the column, please don't think we're not sm-oo-oo-th.

Uni Singers To Appear In Recital

On Ag Campus Nebraska's Top 4-H Club Members Plan Meet Here

From 20,000 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H club work in Nebraska, two hundred were picked as tops. This group will start arriving in Lincoln next Sunday for the 27th annual 4-H Club Week, which opens Monday, on the ag campus.

Arrangements for the event are practically complete, state leader L. I. Frisbie stated Saturday. A full program of educational and recreational events has been lined up. The club members will be met at the train, will be under supervision 24 hours a day by extension service workers, and will be housed in various building on the campus.

Many of the members and leaders will come as winners of prize trips, offered for outstanding achievements in various club activities during the past year.

Others will come as delegates from their local clubs.

To accommodate those who must arrive on Sunday because of bus or train schedules, there's a special vesper service in the Student Activities building at the college.

A flag-raising ceremony on the Mall at the college will open each day's events. At the Monday convocation, L. F. Livingston, of the DuPont firm will tell about new uses for common products which science is developing. Chancellor B. F. Schwartz of Nebraska Wesleyan, Dr. A. L. Miller, director of the state health department, and Miss Breta Peterson, a member of the University law college faculty are other convocation speakers for the week.

Local leaders will talk over their common problems on Monday, and all leaders may attend that part of the program without paying the Club Week registration fee. Entertainment on Monday evening will be in charge of the University 4-H Club.

The Lincoln public schools will furnish music during the week. In keeping with the times will be a series of discussions on the part of the individual in the war effort to be conducted during the week for the benefit of the boys and girls. A picnic supper at Antelope park on Tuesday evening, a banquet by the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday evening and another banquet at the ag college on Thursday evening, are highlights.

Listed also on the program for the week is a trip to the state capitol and an opportunity to meet Governor Griswold.

Friday is to be devoted to the annual trip to Omaha, via special train. The crowd will visit the stock yards, and will see demonstrations on livestock grading, meats, first aid, and fire prevention. They'll have a chance to obtain $25 in Defense Stamps in a quiz program. Friday evening will be devoted to a banquet and entertainment in the Omaha Chamber of Commerce rooms.

ATTENTION STUDENTS

You can clear enough money in 12 to 14 weeks to pay your entire cost of next year's schooling. Dr. Art Enos made $7,000 in seven summers. $50 a week isn't unusual. No investment. We train you. Select a choice territory now.
