

Captain Glenn Miller Will Lead Nebraska Band At Military Ball

Military Department Scores Once Again

BY BOB MILLER.

Something new has been added!

Adding the lace fringe to an already complete pattern of entertainment for the 34th annual Military Ball on Friday night, Capt. Glenn Miller, long a symbol of excellence in the orchestra world, will be on hand to conduct the university ROTC band in several numbers.

This latest addition is another feather in the well-filled cap of the military department as plans for the traditional event unfold.

For several weeks, the military department, guided principally by Col. James P. Murphy, commandant of the corps, and Col. Walter Gardner, faculty sponsor for the Ball, has vied for Captain Miller's services.

Col. Murphy Promises . . . Junior Officers Will Have New Uniforms . . . For Military Ball

Nebraska's junior cadet officers can rest at ease!

Trying in vain all Monday afternoon to contact Henry's outfitting company of Wichita, Col. James P. Murphy, commandant of the ROTC corps, finally received the number he desired at 6:45 last night.

Uniforms Arrive.

"The uniforms for all junior cadet officers, the honorary colonel and possibly those for the girl members of the band are on the way," Colonel Murphy divulged at the end of his conversation, "and they will be here Wednesday morning in fine time for everything to be in readiness for the Military ball on Friday night!"

This statement squelched all rumors that were circulating around the campus to the effect that the new uniforms would not arrive until next week.

"Mr. Fenn of Henry's will accompany the uniforms and will have charge of handing them out Wednesday forenoon—that is the time that all those having uni-

Junior Division Students Confer With Advisers

Registration conferences in the junior division will be held Dec. 9 to 22, according to Dean Nels S. Bengston. All students in the junior division must arrange conferences with their advisers to be held during this time, he said.

Foundation Makes Post-War Fund

New Rules For Cadets Formulated

War Dept. Permits Basic Drill Students To Join Other Reserves

Students enrolled in basic ROTC at Nebraska are now eligible for direct enlistment in the naval, marine corps or coast guard reserve and will be continued in basic ROTC after such enlistment.

This announcement was released thru Dean T. J. Thompson's office late yesterday upon receipt of a letter from Col. Raymond W. Briggs, civilian components officer of the Seventh service command.

Receive Radiogram.

A radiogram from the adjutant general in Washington, dated Nov. 27, reads:

"The commanding general of each service command is directed to inform each professor of military science and tactics in his service command that: Effective (See FORMULATED, Page 2.)

Take Action On Editorial From Daily

Acting on the suggestion of a recent editorial in the Daily, the Nebraska Student Foundation has created a scholarship fund for university students who serve in World War II.

Awarded to both men and women, these scholarships will be given upon the basis of matriculation at Nebraska, scholarship, and service in the armed forces between Dec. 8, 1941, and the end of the war.

Foundation Supervises.

Serving as the co-ordinative body and administrative agent, the Foundation will supervise the collection of all funds, and is paying all expenses incurred in the operation of the plan. No funds raised will be used for the benefit of the Foundation, but will go into the scholarships.

Aiding the Foundation in this all-university project will be Bob East, senior class president, and (See FUND, Page 2.)

Boucher At Capital To Offer UN Help

Chancellor Chauncey S. Boucher tentatively plans to leave for Washington, D. C., tonight to confer with the war department concerning a program whereby the armed services may establish units in 200 colleges to train enlisted men for special services in the army, navy and marines.

Boucher also stated that he would offer to the government the facilities of the new university library for the training of a special services unit of the armed forces.

The chancellor emphasized that all war department communications to him stated that the duty of men in college was to keep calm and to continue to prepare for service by their enlisted reserve and ROTC programs.

Fred Waring Spotlights UN In New Program Dec. 11

University of Nebraska will be featured on Fred Waring's new program, "Victory Tunes" on Friday, Dec. 11.

In cooperation with Waring's Pennsylvanians in his program for that date, the Daily Nebraskan is sponsoring a poll for the favorite tunes of the university. Ballots will be printed in the Daily on Wednesday and Thursday for the students' vote on their choice of tunes for the program.

One tune may be chosen for each of three groups submitted by Waring. Students may also list as an additional choice any number which is not included on the list.

"White Christmas" has been specified for four of the five next programs and Waring suggests that perhaps audiences may tire of it by that time. Numbers on the Nebraska program will include singing by vocalists Donna Dae and Jimmy Atkins.

Following are the three lists submitted by Waring:

Life Magazine Depicts Life Of UN Freshman Bob Berger, '18-Year Old'

Berger's life at university, his views on the war and his background are displayed in picture and story in the magazine as representing typically the two million five hundred thousand 18-19-year-olds affected by the new draft bill.

Berger is pictured on the cover standing in front of the social science building, and other photos show him in his ROTC drill class, his chemistry class, talking to Marge Hanks in the Union lounge and with (See BOB BERGER, Page 4.)
