

Trio Paces Smart Gopher Crew

Above reading from left to right are three reasons why Minnesota is a dark horse in the current Big Ten race for the cage bunting. They are Wesley Windmiller, sophomore forward and fastest man on the team; Don Mattison, center and tallest member and Butz Lehrman, smallest and versatile forward or guard. This trio is destined to pace the Gopher outfit.

The University of Chicago cage team lost its 26th game in a row Monday night, 48-26.

Indiana won its ninth tilt of the season Monday night by downing Ohio State.

Phi Upsilon Omicron will meet this evening in the home economics social parlors at 8:05.

Menze Sees Jays in Command Of Big Six Basketball Picture After Completing Week of Play

AMES, Iowa, Jan. 12.—The first week of basketball action in the Big Six hasn't materially changed the picture presented at the start of the season in the opinion of Louis Menze, Iowa State College coach.

"Kansas is in the driver's seat with a big bulge on the rest of the conference after that 48 to 44 victory over Oklahoma at Norman," Menze said. "But Oklahoma is still very much in the picture. There is too much power in their lineup to hand the pennant to Kansas at this stage."

Jays Lead.

After one week of play the Jayhawks lead the loop with two victories over Missouri and Oklahoma. Nebraska and Iowa State are both unbeaten in single contests, while Missouri and Oklahoma, dropped single games. Kansas State lost two games during the week.

Menze saw trouble all the way for the Cyclones. The power of both Kansas and Oklahoma appears to be too much for the rest of the conference, the Iowa State coach feels.

Tiger oSphs In.

"Missouri has more than five veterans on hand but four sophomores have ousted the old hands," Menze explained. "Nebraska showed lots of power against unbeaten Indiana, losing only when a setup missed in the final second of play. Kansas State has plenty of upset possibilities. The Wildcats led Nebraska 19 to 11 at the half and had a lead in our game at the half."

The Cyclones plan to get in lots of hard work this week in preparation for Nebraska's invasion Jan. 18. Rollun Kuebler, injured center, looks ready to return to drills but Menze indicated he would hold him out of practice until Thursday.
