

Nuts from McNutt

By Bob McNutt

Nothing like Saturday and Sunday. It does something for students to be able to rest for two days a week, especially after they have stayed out the previous two nights. It's surprising the number of different expressions you can find on students after what has obviously been a big night.

Take for instance Bud Johnson. He walked over to the Union Saturday noon for some tomato juice. As he threw open the door two Delta Gammas crumpled to the floor, murmuring something about the "living dead." But Bud didn't look a lot different from some other twosomes who attended the Phi Gam party at the University Club.

Ivan Cramm and Esther Blanchard, Marge Heyn, Bud's date, Bill Long and B. J. Haney, Brahm Hones and Mary Lou Armstrong; they all looked the same this bright Saturday morning. Their present condition is not the result of a tough first semester, but rather the after effects of having stumbled onto an ultra-modern kitchen complete with seltzer water, corn, and rye. I say "ultra-modern" because the corn and rye in this case constitute the new and streamlined Victory Garden. They come wrapped up in glass and make the war outlook rosier in the least possible time.

If you have just wandered around the campus lately you can't have failed to notice two of its most striking people, G. Willie Abbott and Ginnie McCulla. (Why I should say this about the editor, I don't know, the column will go in anyway.) When we of the Rag office learned that our boy Willie had grabbed the beautiful McCulla by the hair and said: "Listen, babe, leave dem udder guys alone cus we's goin' steady," we were mighty proud. But today the Rag staff is gloomy. Virginia has decided that this dating business is in need of some more competition, so for one week she and George Willie are dating out. The payoff is this; up to now neither of them has a date.

Two of the smallest members of Sigma Chi now are holding a daily wrestling match in the front line to see who will get the phone to call Connie Owen, cute, baby-faced A.O.P.I. Winner over Fred McClafferty last week was Harlan Houtchens who weighs in at 128 pounds after a good meal, and soaking wet.

Now for the most perplexing problem of the week. Why should the Sig Alphas establish two rules that read like this?

- (1) No liquor of any kind will be allowed in the house.
- (2) Bottles will not be thrown from upper story windows.

At 9:30 the other morning a very bright bunch of young people awaited with parched throats the arrival of that eminent man of the world, Professor Arndt. Promptly at 9:38½ he sauntered into the room, rapped on his desk and yelled "order." The entire class shouted "Ale."

Well, remember that the Coed Follies to be held Saturday, the 13th, will be the first "picnic" of the current season so plan to attend and have a good time, and I'll be seeing you.

Annual Penny Carnival Opens Next Saturday

Plans for the annual Coed Counselor Penny Carnival are well under way. All organized houses planning to participate in the affair already have submitted their plans to Katherine Wells, booth chairman. Those chosen will be returned to the organizations early this week. The winner in the booth competition will be presented with a silver cup, which was won last year by Alpha Chi Omega.

Ticket sales start Monday, and they may be purchased from any Coed Counselor for 15c. The proceeds of the carnival will go in part to the Student War Scholarship fund.

The carnival will be held Saturday, Feb. 13, in Grant Memorial from 2 to 4:30 o'clock.

percent higher than the average production for the five years, 1935-1939.

Industry Handicapped.

"The industrial effort has been seriously handicapped by several forces, chief of which are the Wagner Labor Relations act and the wages-hours act. The average weekly hours per worker in factories in 90 industries in 1942 was 42.4. This is a rather meager showing when compared with British industry and American agriculture. Unfortunately for the war effort the short work week is only a part of the story. The man-days idle during the first eight months of the year as a direct result of strikes totaled 3,420,000.

"Increasing the basic work week from 40 to 48 hours would increase production by approximately 20 percent. By reducing the incentives to strike, and stopping the waste of time that is now permitted in many industries, a material increase in production can be secured."

Typical Coed To Be Presented At Follies Review

Typical Nebraska Coed will not be judged for the number and kinds of her clothes but on her personality and ability to wear the clothes which she has, it was announced yesterday.

The TNC will be presented at the Coed Follies sponsored by the AWS board March 11. Try-outs for skirts and curtain acts will be held a week from this coming Wednesday and Thursday.

Heifer Sees Double; Bears Twin Calves

A set of twin bull calves was born last week at the university substation farm near Bethany. The calves weighed 52 and 55 pounds at birth. The mother is an Aberdeen-Angus heifer.

Both youngsters are now nursing a foster mother at the beef cattle barn on ag campus.
