

ROTC Versus Birdmen Tonight!

Wildcat Nine Downs Army

MANHATTAN, Kans., May 12—The Manhattan Wildcats defeated the 16th Field Artillery baseball team 3 to 0 Saturday night to make up for the loss the Cats suffered at the hands of the Artillery last Sunday.

The game was marred by a slight rainfall but play was not interrupted.

The Wildcats scored their first run in the second inning when Winterbottom walked to open the inning and moved to second on an error. Schwirtz grounded out, advancing Winterbottom to third. He stole home on a swift dash.

The Cats scored two more in the sixth when Tony Clementi reached first, and Fiser belted one along the right field line for a single. Greek Gatzoulis singled and reached second base. Fiser was out on an attempted double kill, Clementi scoring.

Ex-Huskers Meet Flyers On Maples

... 8:00 O'clock

Workmen were preparing early today to replace coliseum rafters when the ruckus knocks them down tonight.

For the Love Library ROTC basketball club is slated to meet the air cadets at 8:00 tonight on the coliseum maples. All library tenants, 600 strong, will be marched in a body to the game—air corps lads sitting on one side of the court, the ROTC on the other.

Lt. Robert Adams, coach of the ROTC lads, had not yet released his starting lineup as this sheet went to press. However, such recent Husker regulars as John Fitzgibbon, John Thompson, John Bottorff, Bob Heinzelman and Max Young—starting lineup through most of the 1942-43 campaign—plus Fred Cassidy, Lyle King (1941-42) and Ken Elson, should give the Adams gang a seasoned touch.

Grigger Forrie Bachman is slated to manage the ROTC crew, Jack Higgins will handle cheering and Dale Wolff will serve as water boy.

Top cager on the air cadet roster is Fred Quinn, who as a sophomore last winter won All-Pacific coast and All-American recognition for his play with Idaho university. Quinn scored 178 points from his pivot position for the Idaho five last winter.

Other birdmen performers are Nich Richardson, Western Washington college, and Bob Banaugh, University of California, forwards; Bill Marcham, University of Washington; Andre Rock, Compton Junior college; Dan Taylor Eastern Washington; Jerry Saubers, Eastern Washington; "Ace" Kemen, University of Detroit. Starting lineups:

ROTC	Pos.	Air Crew
Thompson	f.....	Richardson
Fitzgibbon	f.....	Banaugh
Bottorff	c.....	Quinn (gc)
Young	g.....	Marcham
Heinzelman	g.....	Rock

Hear Ye! Hear Ye!

Spring sport activity at the university required a shot in the arm after Cornhusker track affairs had wound up, so we now have a spirited athletic engagement to attend Thursday night—the basketball battle between the Nebraska ROTC "actives" and the air cadets.

Mentor Ad Lewandowski's 1942-43 Cornhusker cage machine was composed mostly of ROTC cogs. So such familiar names as Johnny Thompson, John Fitzgibbon, Ken Elson, John Bottorff, Max Young, Bob Heinzelman and Fred "Dugan" Cassidy will again fill our scorebook.

All signs and portents point to the fray as a "battle of condition" with the squad in best shape favored. Since the air corps routine calls for a heavy daily physical schedule, the birdmen can be counted upon to be in top-flight shape.
