

Crepes Are Hidden; Sweaters, Revealed

BY NINA SCOTT.

Now that the veils and crepes of rush week are back in the closet, campus flowers are blossoming forth in tweedy suits, soft sweaters and "walking shoes." The school uniform seems to be the most attractive and comfortable clothes obtainable always enhanced by clever jewelry and bright posies in the coiffure.

Kathie Legge, Pi Phi pledge, registered in the university as well in the eyes of the stronger sex wearing a champagne wool jacket over a brilliant plaid skirt. Marsh Craft, KKG, hides her Phi Delt pin with a hip length, reddish trench coat, and Shirley Hillmer, DG pledge, looks even more striking in her heavy white wool "date" coat.

Vivid Hues Leads Parade.

The trend this year, as never before, seems to follow the vivid hues. For now, the color of an outfit must outshine its quality and cut. The labor shortage and non-existent European shipments have forced manufacturers to concentrate on dyes rather than on the excellence of cloth and tailoring.

One of the brightest ensembles seen is that of AOPI pledge, Jeannette Matcha, in her Kelly green lapless suit; to extend the effect Jeannette wears a perky green bow in her blonde hair. She and Peg Lemon, Theta, would look like a holiday together, for Peg owns

Grad Completes Special Training At Ft. Leavenworth

Fort Sill, Okla., Sept. 24.—(FAS)—Major Melvin H. Adams, executive officer of the 170th Infantry battalion, a unit of the field artillery school troops, has completed the General Staff course at the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, with special training in the command and staff responsibilities in infantry divisions, including corps and army units.

A resident of Brule, Nebraska, Major Adams was graduated from the university in 1933, at the same time receiving a ROTC commission as second lieutenant of infantry.

a scarlet sport suit, with which she wears the ever popular white blouse.

Black, Still Favorite.

But, no matter what the weather, black holds its own. Janice Blakeslee of the Pi Phi house wears velveteen with yellow interesting-looking things applied on the shoulder, while Robin Sheets chooses crepe and short sleeves. She looks very "un-hannahish" because she slips on elbow length black gloves for that "after-five" look. Todie Campen, Alpha Phi, likes sequins on crepe, and the effect is one any man would approve.

Wearing the Alpha Chi ribbons are Joan Huntzinger in her fiery red dress and Betty Ed Strain, who combines navy and white in a print. And royal purple must not be overlooked. Kappa pledge, Polly Peterson wanted hers in a suit and new Alpha Phi, Myrtle Louise Johnson goes to college in a deep violet jumper.

You must agree, everyone looks smooth.

Vacancy of YW Cabinet Filled; Folder Edited

YWCA cabinet held its first weekly meeting of the year Wednesday evening.

Jane Dalthorp, president, gave a brief outline of the year's program. She introduced Mary Lou Holtz, newly appointed member, who will be filling the position vacated by Bessy Heibenthahl. Mary Lou will be in charge of the freshmen commission leaders who will in turn direct new students in the activities of the school and in group discussions.

A folder was edited by Bonnie Hinrichs during the summer months on "What Is the Purpose of the YWCA?" The folder explains the meaning of the YW, its special offers and reasons for becoming a member. It urges girls to go to Ellen Smith hall, YW office, to rest, to talk with the secretary, to meet girls, and to get acquainted with the YWCA work and organization.

Shoe Rationing Reflects Little On Purchases

Shoe buying habits during the first three months of rationing were much the same as in pre-rationing days. That is the conclusion Miss Dorothy Simmons, extension home management specialist at Iowa State college, draws from a government survey conducted early this summer before the first ration coupon expired.

Nearly nine-tenths of the group surveyed had used their No. 17 coupon for themselves or planned to use it before the period was over. Children between 4 and 15 years of age usually require more shoes per year than adults—or from 3½ to 4 pairs a year. Preliminary figures indicate that because children can obtain shoes without coupons when need is shown, adults are not commonly using their coupons for shoes for their children but are using them themselves.

Must Reduce Purchases.

In 1942, more than half of the American public bought more than 3 pairs of shoes in 1942, and peak production is 3½ pairs per person per year. This would indicate that adults with substantial shoe wardrobes must voluntarily reduce their purchases if present shoe production is to meet consumer demand.

Only one-quarter of the purchasers of rationed shoes sought more expensive shoes than they had previously purchased. Of those who paid more, about one-half paid less than $1 more. Taking into account advancing prices, the slight increase shows that the shoes purchased were in approximately the same price group.
