Council . . .

ber of the council, tho not a member of it at that time. However, when the minutes were consulted concerning her appointment no record was found so the appointment was declared illegal.

The judiciary committee of the council, which includes all present members, will hold a meeting to determine the number of representatives on the council to be granted each college according to registration figures.

No Army Representation.

Dunker suggested that perhaps the army students on the campus would expect some sort of representation, but it was decided that it would be impossible from the standpoint of both the constitution and army regulations. Herbert Williams, holdover member now in service but attending dental college, said that as far as he knew he would be able to serve on the council. Dunker also suggested that party affiliation be omitted from the ballot. The constitution was again consulted and it was found that party names must appear on the ballots, so that motion also fell by the wayside.

Meeting Drags.

The meeting lacked the spirit and guidance of old time council meetings. The five members present found it necessary to consult Professor Lantz and the constitution with monotonous regularity. The need for an election was all too obvious.

Present members of the council are: Dorothy Mae Anderson, Dave Simonson, Herbert Williams, Jane Fenton, Lois Christie, Jean Cowden and Leonard Dunker. As was provided by last year's council, Lois Christie and Jean Cowden presided over the meeting.

Pennsylvania has more colleges than any other state in the union. First college Y.M.C.A. building erected in America was built on the Hanover college, Indiana, campus in 1883.

Let's Change THIS On Election Day

No treasury record for last year . . .
 No minutes kept on important action of last spring . . .

That, so far, is the only outstanding feature of Student Council activities during the past eight months. Inefficiency? . . . What does it look like?

At their first meeting of the year Wednesday they made, however, one extremely important move. They set a date for the fall election as Oct. 19, two weeks from Tuesday. This, at least, gives the student body a chance to elect a vigorous body that will fulfill any and all duties within its jurisdiction.

Definite examples of negligence are not hard to find. As it was pointed out at their initial gathering, a girl had supposedly been elected at the final meeting last spring. No minutes were to be found on the matter. This makes any action then taken illegal, even tho the election was reported in the Nebraskan and should have been kept in the minutes. Inefficiency such as this prevents the Council from actually having any force.

Another interesting example is found by investigating the treasury of the Council. No records have been kept for the whole year of '42-'43, despite the fact that there was a turnover of money—especially into the Student Foundation's pocket, an organization created by the Council.

This record isn't very pleasant. It is something we, as students who want their governing body to be an effectual organization, should be ashamed of.

What we can do is obvious. Put up good people for the Council offices, and go to the polls and vote for them!

Have a Coca-Cola = Howdy, Neighbor

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

from Arizona to Australia

At home or abroad, when the American soldier says Have a "Coke" to a stranger, he's made a new buddy. From Minneapolis to Melbourne, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes —has become the mark of the good neighbor.
