Army Takes Nisei Students By Selective Service Act

By a recent change in selective service policy practically all the Japanese-American men students in the university will be in the armed services by the end of the current semester, according to a statement made Monday by Dr. G. W. Rosenlof, registrar and director of admissions.

In a statement prompted by recent inquiry as to the status of Japanese-American students, Rosenlof said that until the recent change of policy many of the students who wanted to enter the services were barred from enlisting.

"By action of the Board of Regents a small number of Japanese-American students were admitted to the university both last year and this year," the registrar added.

"Their acceptance was with the approval and upon the request of the United States Relocation authorities. Those who have been admitted have had to meet definite criteria.

Must Meet Requirements.

"First, they must be American citizens; second, they must be recommended as good scholars by the institution last attended; third, they must have character references indicating unquestioned loyalty to the United States government and other characteristic qualities of good citizenship; and, finally, they must be able to pay their own way and not constitute a burden either to the university or to the community. All these young people are required to pay the usual fees charged any Nebraska person and in addition thereto non-resident fees varying anywhere from approximately $50 to $100 each semester.

"The question now being asked," Dr. Rosenlof indicated, "is why these young Japanese-American citizens can not be accepted for service in the armed forces. The reason is that until just within the past month the government has not classified them for immediate call into the selective service.

All Students Reclassified.

"Under orders recently issued, all Japanese-American citizens are being reclassified and certified to the armed services for induction and basic training. Many of these young men wanted to go but were prohibited from going. They have all been discouraged when they have presented themselves for voluntary enlistment. Incidentally, three of the Japanese-American students on this campus have been commissioned in the army. Doubtless, within the semester every able-bodied Japanese-American student will be in the service." (See NISEI STUDENTS, page 4)

Lt. Lee Grimes Talks to Grads Thursday at 5

Lt. Lee Grimes of the Signal Corps and United States Employment Service will speak to and interview graduates interested in essential government employment at 5 p. m. Thursday in Room 316 of the Union.

Lieutenant Grimes will discuss employment in many fields of non-military essential war work and the opportunities which will be open to college graduates at the end of the school year.

Graduates, both men and women, from all colleges, may attend the meeting.

Fulmer Addresses Chemical Society Thursday Evening

Dr. Ellis I. Fulmer, professor of chemistry at Iowa state college, will speak before a meeting of the Nebraska section of the American Chemical Society at 7:30 Thursday evening in the auditorium of Avery lab.

Dr. Fulmer is a recognized authority on studies relating to the physiology and biochemistry of micro-organisms. Much of his research has been directed toward the utilization of farm crops and by-products of bacteria, yeasts, and molds for the production of chemicals. His topic for Thursday evening is "The Physico-Chemical Approach to the Problems of Fermentation."

Dr. Fulmer received a master's degree at the University of Nebraska in 1913. He is the son of the late Chancellor Fulmer of Nebraska Wesleyan.

Today's Weather

Slightly warmer Wednesday afternoon; slowly diminishing winds.

Lincoln temperatures did not rise above 23 degrees Tuesday. However, cold winds ranged from 25 to 40 miles an hour.

AWS Asks Lists Of All Advanced Sophomores

Janet Hemphill, AWS president, has asked that all second semester sophomores wishing upperclass privileges turn in their names through their houses or the Residence Halls. Lists should be placed in the AWS box in Ellen Smith as soon as possible.

Annual Show Thursday Features TNC Presentation, Fashion Show, Nine Acts

The "No Men Allowed" sign goes up at Temple Theater tomorrow evening as UN coeds take the limelight for the 1944 Coed Follies. Dress rehearsal for the show, sponsored by AWS, takes place tonight.

AWS has announced that Thursday night will be an automatic 10:30 night for all coeds, and it will not count as a sophomore 10:30 night.

The program begins at 7:30 with a skit, and alternates skits and curtain acts in the following order:

1. Sigma Delta Tau — "Command Performance."
2. Alpha Omicron Pi—"Alpha O Paradise."
3. Delta Gamma—"Comedy of Errors."
4. Alpha Chi Omega—"Brown Sugar."
5. Delta Delta Delta—"The Mad Hatter."
6. Chi Omega—"Red Riding Hood Foxes the Wolf."
7. Pi Beta Phi—"Happy Hunting Ground."
8. Kappa Kappa Gamma—"Blind Date Show."
9. Alpha Phi—"For Whom the Bells Toll."

Jean Swarr will act as sign-changer for the acts. Programs have been abandoned this year, and each skit will be introduced by cards in true old vaudeville style.

Following the skits, Dorothy Carnahan, AWS board member in charge of Coed Follies, will present the awards for the winning skit and curtain act, as chosen by the judges.

Dame Fashion Introduces Models.

"Dame Fashion," represented by Nebraska Editor June Jamieson, will then introduce the participants in the style show, as each is presented, giving a running commentary on the fashions displayed.

Last feature of the "Follies" is the presentation of the Typical Nebraska Coed, picked from style show models. She will be presented by AWS president Janet Hemphill.

Ushers for the show are Mildred Opp, Margaret Opp, Juanita Hagarty, Joan Hoffman, Phillis Jones, Carolyn McMuller, Beatrice Manville, Ruth Bennett, Elaine Johnson, and Bernice Greer.

Army-Navy Tests Slated On March 15

"Those boys who are interested in the army A-12 and navy V-12 tests should get their declarations of intent and permission to take the exam immediately," stated Dr. T. J. Thompson this week, "since exams must be ordered from the national office." Applicants are asked to call personally at his office in Administration building for this material.

The exams will be held a week from today, March 15, in room 101 of the law building. All boys should report by 8:45 a. m.

The test, two hours in length, is made up of three separate divisions; (a) the meaning and use of words, (b) scientific matters of general knowledge, and (c) problems in mathematics. All applicants for A-12 and V-12 will take the same test.

These army and navy programs assure professional education in the various fields of dentistry, medicine, and veterinary medicine. All students 17 years old are eligible to take these tests.

Lincoln AAUW Offers Coeds Scholarships

Applications for scholarships given by the Lincoln branch of the American Association of University Women are now available at the office of the dean of women in Ellen Smith.

Sophomore and junior women with an 88 average are eligible for scholarships, and the blanks must be completely filled out and left at the office before noon of Tuesday, March 14.

Miss Jessie B. Jury, Mrs. R. H. Mohrman, and Mrs. Otis Wade are members of the scholarship committee. Applicants are asked to meet the committee for a short conference between 4 and 6 p. m. on Thursday or Friday, March 23 or 24. Specific time of the conference should be scheduled with the dean of women.

'44 Mortar Board Dies In Explosion

Lorene Bennett Chandler, former member of the senior class and a 1944 member of Mortar Board, died in a Washington, D. C. hospital Tuesday as result of injuries received from an explosion which occurred in the bureau of standards where she was employed.

From Lincoln Journal. Lorene Chandler.

Mrs. Chandler was hurled thru a second story window by the blast which injured four other persons. She had been employed by the bureau as a scientific technician's aid for only 12 days prior to the accident.

Details of the project upon which the group was working were not revealed by Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, bureau director, stated that it was "an urgent war project to make our aviation gasoline better." He said that a mixture being used in the work set off the blast.

Was Active On Campus.

The former Miss Bennett was a student in the home economics department and prominent in campus activities. She was a member of Mortar Board, Tassels, Coed Counselor board, Phi Upsilon Omicron and Omicron Nu—home economics honorary, and president of home ec club.

She was married to Ensign Lawrence F. Chandler last June and left the university early in November to be with her husband who is on temporary assignment in Washington.

Surviving, beside her husband, are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bennett of Bellevue, Nebraska, and a sister, Marilyn.

Thermometer Reveals Sales

Mercury is rising. The Red Cross sales temperature is getting hotter as the red line on the goal thermometer mounts to $502.25 degrees, which is the AUF drive total to date.

Four days are left for campus contributors to raise the $2,300 needed in order to reach the AUF goal.

Those persons who have not yet been approached by solicitors may turn in their contributions any time of day except noon at the booth in sosh or at the Union booth at noon, according to AUF director, Jim Howe.

UN Offers Course In Personnel Study

Arrangements have been made by the university to offer a night course for the study of practical problems of supervising industrial personnel.

Among the problems to be studied are the supervisor (or foreman) and his organization, interpretation of company policies, planning work, discovery and adjustment of grievances, labor relations, group attitudes and morale and others. The object of the course is to provide education for more efficient supervision by foremen, supervisors, or group leaders.

Rosenlof Speaks Before Teachers Saturday Noon

George W. Rosenlof, registrar, will discuss the proposals for granting school credit for military service at a noon luncheon to be held March 11 for superintendents and principals of the Nebraska State Education association.

In addition to school leaders from throughout the state, the group has invited college teachers of education, elementary school principals, and industrial arts teachers to participate.

Senior Coeds File For Ivy Day May Queen by Friday

Senior coeds having a weighted 80 average who wish to file for May Queen must do so by Friday at the finance office in the coliseum.

The Mortar Board organization will announce the candidates before the spring all-women's election, March 15, at which time they will be voted upon.

The queen and her maid of honor, who is the candidate with the second highest number of votes, will be revealed on Ivy Day.

Junior Coeds Receive Faculty Women Awards

Wholly or partially self supporting junior women are eligible for the three $50 scholarships offered by the faculty women's club for outstanding effort in outside activities as well as scholastic achievement.

Candidates must have an 85 average. Application blanks may be obtained at the office of the registrar, from Miss Margaret Fedde, head of the home ec department or from the dean of women. Applications must be filled out and mailed to Mrs. D. B. Whelan, 3855 Orchard, by Monday, March 13. Mrs. Whelan is chairman of the scholarship committee of the faculty women's club.
