

Husker Grid Hopes Jolted If 4-F's Go

Plans for '44 Would Change

Nebraska's grid hopes for the 1944 season will receive a severe set-back if government plans materialize to force 4-F's to enter essential industries or to be drafted into special labor battalions. Men on whom grid Coach Lewandowski is counting most for next fall are largely 4-F and consequently will probably be forced to withdraw from school should the proposed legislation be enacted.

Such veterans as Buzz Hollins, Bert Gissler, and Frank Hazard, all 4-F, would undoubtedly be directly affected by such legislation, as would the majority of the rest of the candidates expected to report for spring practice April 5.

Many 4-F's Last Fall. Last fall's Husker team was liberally sprinkled with 4-F athletes, and Lewandowski has been laying his campaign plans for next season on the assumption that 4-F's would again be available. If the 4-F's are lost to the Huskers, Lew will be faced with the prospect of building a team almost entirely from students too young for military service or awaiting their call to the armed forces.

The good share of the UN team last fall consisted of athletes under military age, there were several 4-F's on hand to give the squad needed age and experience. Lacking this draft-exempt material, the Huskers would have been hard put to finish the '43 season.

NORMAN, Okla., April 1.—No intercollegiate opponents are on the schedule of the University of Oklahoma baseball team of 1944, but Ensign Bill Scheerer's Sooners will meet several strong service clubs, thus perpetuating the Sooner tradition of having played college baseball for 53 consecutive years.

The club is strong on pitchers. Three experienced left handers are available, Ray Lacer of last year's team; Bob Reese of Kansas State, and Bob Scheble of Oregon State. Bill Fry of last year's club and Virgil Ward, an athletic specialist assigned to the campus who formerly pitched for the Sooners of 1941, are also available.

In the infield is Gus Hendrix at first base, Bobby Estep at second, Jewell Eastham at short and Bob Clark at third. Hendrix formerly played with the Okemah, Okla., Junior American leaguers, Estep was the Norman Naval Air Station's sub third sacker last year, Eastham was with Springfield in the old Three-Eye and Clark with the University of Nevada and for

Ex-UN Wrestler Copple Crowned AAU Champion

Competing as a member of the Iowa Preflight team, Newt Copple, former UN grappler, won the Midwest AAU 155-pound wrestling championship at the Central club in Omaha Friday night.

Copple, whose home is in Lincoln, was a Big Six conference champion while wrestling for the Huskers. Earlier in his naval training he won the championship of his unit while stationed at Purdue university.
